ANNUAL REPORT.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, Dec. 31, 1895.

To His Excellency FREDERIC T. GREENHALGE,
Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

GOVERNOR : — I have the honor respectfully to submit the annual report of this department for the year 1895.

MILITIA.

The year ending finds the militia in good condition as to personnel, discipline and equipment, and ready to respond to any call, should its service be required.

While the rifles now in use would be effective in an emergency, it is hoped that the general government will do something at the coming session of Congress that will permit the ordnance department of the United States Army to make exchanges, and issue improved arms of the Springfield pattern. I am not now ready to favor arming the State militia with the new magazine rifles, preferring to wait, believing that the interests of the State will best be served by such a course.

Battery A, Light Artillery, having been found below the standard of efficiency, was disbanded and a new battery formed in its place, designated as Battery A, which has been attached to the Second Brigade, M. V. M.

The board of officers established in Orders to prepare new regulations for the militia have not met, as it was deemed advisable to wait until the Army Board at Washington made their report ; and, as that has recently been made, the board can complete their duties early in the coming year, for the printing of which report an appropriation may be needed.

The organization of the militia remains the same, with the exception of the following changes, made by legislative acts and resolves of 1895 : —

Chapter 465 requires three years of service in the militia, or honorable discharge from the United States service, to be eligible for an appointment on the staff of the Commander-in-Chief, excepting the four aides and the judge advocate general. The old law required but one year of service.

Authorizes the Commander-in-Chief to retire at any time any commissioned officer on the report of a board of commissioned officers or of a medical board.

Requires that armories erected for the militia under the provision of chapter 384, Acts of 1888, shall not be used except for military purposes.

That no body of men other than the militia shall associate themselves together as a military company for drill or parade with fire-arms.

Increases the allowances to Ambulance Corps commanders.

The strength of the military force allowed by law remains the same as at date of last report, viz., maximum allowed by law, 446 officers, 5,954 enlisted men. The number on the rolls Dec. 20 was 422 officers, 5,247 enlisted men.

TOURS OF DUTY.

The annual encampments and drills required by law were performed under General Orders Nos. 5 and 10, c. s., from this office, appended to this report.

Company A, First Battalion Cavalry, Capt. Oscar A. Jones, performed escort duty to your Excellency on your annual visit to Harvard College, June 23.

Details were ordered on application to pay funeral honors at the burial of deceased officers and soldiers.

Maj. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., visited the camp of the First Brigade, was rendered a review and expressed his favorable opinion in the following letter to the Commander-in-Chief: —

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE EAST,
GOVERNOR'S ISLAND, NEW YORK, June 7, 1895.

His Excellency FREDERIC T. GREENHALGE,
Governor of Massachusetts, Boston, Mass.

SIR: — In accordance with your Excellency's invitation, I visited the camp of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia at South Framingham, Mass., on the 5th instant.

The camp was found very pleasantly and healthfully located. During the review of the troops and the inspection the soldierly appearance and bearing of the command was uniformly excellent, and the troops appeared to be under the command of efficient officers. The whole command seems to be deeply interested in the patriotic services they are rendering to the Commonwealth, and are evidently in efficient condition for any service. The inspection of the camp showed it to be in fine order, and well equipped and provided for.

I desire through you to thank Brig. Gen. Benjamin F. Bridges, commanding the brigade and camp, for the review and interesting manœuvres which were tendered during my stay at the camp.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully,

Your Excellency's obedient servant,

(Signed)

NELSON A. MILES,

Major General U. S. Army.

Returns received from cities and towns show the number of the enrolled militia of the prescribed age liable for military duty to be 406,835, an increase of 17,864 over last year (see tables in Appendix).

RIFLE PRACTICE.

The work of this important branch of the service has been earnestly and efficiently prosecuted under the direction of Col. George F. Hall, inspector general of rifle practice, for interesting details of which attention is called to the report of that officer.

The appropriation for this department was $15,000, of which $13,689.80 has been expended.

HEAVY ARTILLERY.

This work has received some attention, but out-door practice is essential, for which better facilities will be available at Fort Warren the coming year.

Regulations for combat drill and the duties of detachments at siege guns have been received and forwarded to the commander of the First Regiment Infantry, the regiment designated to drill in heavy artillery, in which instruction may be given in the armory during the winter months.

QUARTERMASTER'S DEPARTMENT.

During the year emergency mess cooking kits and field ovens have been provided for use of troops, and in their use practice was had by the various commands.

Blankets as a part of the emergency equipment have been purchased, and, protected from moths, are held in readiness for such time as they may be needed. A supply of rubber blankets has also been procured. White helmets, worn out by the troops, have been turned in and requisition made for permission to turn them over to the general government, from whence they were issued.

The military property at the State arsenal is in good condition, with the exception of knapsacks; and the reports of the inspection of property in the hands of the militia show it to be in good condition, with material improvement in the caring for the same.

The matter of a new knapsack will require attention, which has been delayed hoping that some new pattern suited to our needs would be devised to take the place of the present one in use, which is not all that could be desired.

All obsolete and worn-out military property has been condemned by a board of officers and offered for sale. When sold, the proceeds will be turned into the State treasury, as required by law.

The amount received and turned over to the treasury during the year for sale of condemned property is $477.05; expended, $466.15; leaving a balance of $10.90.

The usual repairs on buildings at the State camp ground, South Framingham, have been made. A fence has been erected on the right of the camp line, to prevent the encroachment of visitors and wagons upon the camp.

On recommendation of the surgeon general, a hospital was erected to isolate horses infected with contagious disease.

An additional headquarters stable should be erected, as the present one is not large enough.

Grading has been done on the camp ground where necessary, and the sloping ground in the rear has been partially filled in. The amount of appropriation for grading was $1,000; of this, $999.25 was expended.

The ground is now in good condition, and the State property at the arsenal well cared for by Mr. Luke R. Landy, the superintendent.

The rights of way across the camp ground are at times a source of annoyance, as heavy teams with gravel from the gravel pits adjacent to the State grounds are continually passing, keeping the roads in an unsightly condition.

The manner of accounting for property by the commands is steadily improving, strict accounting being insisted upon.

In October the United States Navy Department turned over the United States steamer "Minnesota," and this department receipted for the ship and her equipment at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, New York, and towed her to Boston. A berth was engaged for her at the Atlas Stores in Boston until Jan. 1, 1896, with privilege of renewing the lease for one year. Capt. John W. Weeks, commanding Naval Brigade, was placed in command, and the ship and the equipment turned over to him. The ship will require some alterations for the needs of the Naval Brigade, and if permission can be obtained from the Navy Department to make the necessary changes in accommodations, an appropriation will be asked for. The changes on the ship will not be necessary unless the Naval Brigade is quartered there.

ARMORIES.

The armories erected under chapter 366, Acts of 1888, are in good condition generally.

The new armory at Springfield was turned over to this department the latter part of November, and is occupied by troops.

The city of Fall River having voted to build an armory under the above act, the Armory Commissioners have charge of the building, and an appropriation will be required to furnish the armory as required by the act.

The amount of appropriation for care and furnishing armories erected under chapter 384 was $20,500. Of this there has been expended:—

South Armory, Boston, $3,823.34; East Armory, Boston, $3,812.66; Worcester Armory, $2,068.75; Lowell

Armory, $1,533.57; Fitchburg Armory, $1,582.07; Lynn Armory, $1,687.44; Lawrence Armory, $2,018.51; Springfield Armory, $1,819.53; total amount expended, $18,345.57. The above amounts include everything except such bills as are not due until Jan. 1, 1896.

The town of Wakefield has built a new armory for the company there located. The company at North Andover has been transferred to Lawrence and quartered in the new armory, and the armory at North Andover given up. The company at Newburyport was quartered at the city hall, with meagre accommodations. The town of Adams provided another armory for Company M, Second Infantry. The armory at Taunton was condemned by the inspecting officer as unfit for a military company. The city has under consideration new quarters for Company F, First Infantry. The city of Waltham has provided new quarters for Company F, Fifth Infantry.

Armory rent rolls received from cities and towns were, after careful inquiry as to compliance with law and accommodations furnished, adjudicated, and allowances of rent made and certified to the auditor of the Commonwealth for settlement.

The requirement for proper accommodations for companies in some localities does not receive the consideration it should. Lack of accommodations creates lack of interest by officers and men, and the company deteriorates. In such cases there should be no hesitancy in disbanding or transferring companies to cities, securing better accommodations and better troops thereby.

The amount paid to cities and towns for armories is $35,350; amount of appropriation, $39,000.

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S DEPARTMENT.

The money accounts for the year have been prepared and certified to the auditor for payment. There has been expended for pay, transportation, supplies, printing and direct expense on account of the militia and this office, from the annual appropriation, the sum of $181,877.97.

On Jan. 1, 1895, there was standing to the credit of the Commonwealth, on account of appropriation by the national government for equipping the militia of States, the sum of $10,861.42; the allotment of July 1, 1895, was $12,574.31, making a total of $23,475.73 available. There has been drawn in supplies during the year the sum of $13,645.47, leaving an available balance at this date of $9,790.26.

Efforts have been made to increase the amount of the appropriation to States, but so far without success. It is impossible to properly equip any State military force with modern arms under the present meagre allotment; it would take fifteen years to equip the force with the new magazine rifle and five years to equip it with the latest pattern of Springfield rifle.

The routine work of the record division of the office has been carefully and faithfully carried out by the officers in charge.

Inquiries in 4,995 cases, requiring certificates of service from the records, have received attention. The calls for information and service records of soldiers, requiring correspondence with the War Department to ascertain final record or to determine doubts, have been 673, and the answers to miscellaneous inquiries are upwards of 700. In all cases the card index has been corrected in accordance with the official information received from the War Department. There has been expended on account of this work $6,500.

The correction and compilation of the record of Massachusetts sailors and marines has progressed, and during the year several new names have been added to the officers' list and to that of the enlisted men. The expense of this work has been $1,962.05.

The rewriting of the records of officers and soldiers of the civil war, provided for in chapter 121 of the Resolves of 1895, has carefully and satisfactorily progressed.

The work commenced with the early militia regiments of the Commonwealth that responded to the first call and entered the United States service for three months in 1861.

Three regiments, the Third, Fourth and Fifth, which had never been in book form except in the printed volumes, have been examined, corrected and written up in book form, and are now ready for binding. These comprise twenty-six companies. Nearly three thousand records of soldiers have been examined, and many corrections made in names and records; and where subsequent enlistments of these men were found, a record was made of the fact on these books. Many of these early soldiers re-entered the service. The expense has been $950.85, leaving a balance of $549.15. An additional appropriation to continue the work will be necessary.

Town and city authorities seeking to complete the history of their cities and towns, historians, the many military and patriotic societies, and others endeavoring to perfect the genealogy of families, are making constant demands upon this office for evidence connecting their ancestry with the events of the past; and in the research necessary the almost entire time of one clerk, familiar with the archives, has been devoted to this work.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

Surplus clothing should be supplied, if possible, to each company. It would save much correspondence and expressage, besides enabling commanders more readily to fit their men.

The issue of cartridge belts and revolvers to the mounted arm and non-commissioned staff should receive consideration. Headquarters stable being inadequate, an addition should be made to it to accommodate additional horses.

The practical work of the troops the past year was productive of many good results, which should be continued with lectures on the details of the same.

It is recommended to reduce the number of officers in Naval Brigade and establish a small engineer corps.

I sincerely hope that the coming year a post may be established at the State camp ground, and regiments encamped separately. It is believed that much good would be accomplished by this plan. Commanders would then be enabled to carry out their plan of instruction, devote the whole time to regimental duties, have ample room for extended order drill, and stimulate a generous rivalry in the proper handling of troops.

I am much indebted to Col. William C. Capelle, assistant adjutant general, and to the clerks of the office, for diligence in the discharge of duty.

Your Excellency's attention is invited to the reports of the surgeon general, judge advocate general and inspector general, which will accompany the printed report.

I desire to thank your Excellency and staff for many acts of official courtesy.

Respectfully,

SAMUEL DALTON,

Adjutant and Quartermaster General.

REPORT OF THE INSPECTOR'S DEPARTMENT.

INSPECTOR GENERAL'S OFFICE,
BOSTON, Nov. 1, 1895.

To the Adjutant General.

This department most respectfully submits the annual report for the year 1895.

Early in the year all organizations were inspected in their armories, and as a whole were found in good condition ; on those otherwise a special report was made and attention of commanding officers called to their condition, and in some cases improvement was made ; others are still the subject of consideration by this department.

Lack of knowledge of lieutenants was prominent in some cases ; these were reported upon, and some of them voluntarily left the service. It is but fair to state that lieutenants in some companies never have the opportunity to drill and instruct their companies. Captains should supervise drills and their subalterns attend to the instruction.

Much attention was given by inspecting officers to the condition and facilities of armories, and on their reports, submitted through channels to the cities and towns, many improvements have been made.

There is a manifest neglect on the part of some officers of the militia in regard to official papers and the manner of forwarding through channels, little regard being paid to regulations and orders in the matter of briefing, folding and endorsing. The requirements of the service in the matter of correspondence are so carefully and plainly set forth in the Massachusetts Regulations, paragraphs 1870 to 1878, that there can be no valid excuse for failure to observe the same. Attention has before been called to this neglect, and in 1887 a General Order was issued (No. 9), paragraph 5 of which makes it obligatory to brief all papers in accordance with paragraph 1873, Regulations M. V. M. In the examination of officers for commission, if the examining board make this one of the features of the examination, it will at least, point out to them the requirements of orders and regulations.

The camps and annual drills of all infantry, artillery, cavalry, cadet, signal and ambulance corps can with propriety be said to be the best for years, if not the best ever performed. Much interest, hard work and a desire to perform good duty were decidedly manifest, and the tone of the whole force, as a rule, is good.

Magnified petty differences have been found in some instances; but if officers devoted as much energy to their commands as they have to these petty matters, it would be much better. In well-regulated companies these differences do not occur.

Commanding officers have during the past year exercised their right to call inefficient officers to account, and the force shows the good effects of the same. No officers, either company, regimental or brigade, should expect higher officers to call their delinquents to account. It is their duty, pure and simple, and the military establishment and regulations require it of them.

Company commanders should always have an efficient set of non-commissioned officers, and hold them to their full duty. It is a pleasure to report that much advancement has been made the past year in this. But few companies were found where the non-commissioned officers should not have been warranted.

At the camps a general move was made looking for improvement in care of quarters, and good results followed. Camp details were better attended to, and the enlisted men are entitled to credit for good discipline, earnest work and loyal support of their officers.

Practical work seems to be the desire of all, and the coming year ample opportunity should be given for a more varied and extended instruction in this. This department does not favor long marches of troops not hardened to such work, but short marches, practical work in erecting barricades, field earth-works, cooking, and the general instruction of how a soldier should care for himself in the field, are what is most needed, all of which should be preceded by lectures and a study of the work to be done.

The attached table shows the record of attendance at armory inspections, camps and annual drills, which is satisfactory, but could have been better had some companies held up in number with the other companies of their commands.

The past year has shown that good companies, well officered, can keep up their enlistments and parade large commands without resorting to padding, and little of the latter has been done. When small numbers report, the reason is either poor officers, lack of energy or want of proper armories, and lack of support by city or town where located.

This department believes fully in disbanding struggling or poor organizations, and replacing with new companies in new localities, preferably in large cities, where a battalion can be quartered under one roof.

During the year this department reported Battery A as below the standard of efficiency, and it was disbanded and a new battery formed to take its place.

The following report in detail of organizations is hereby submitted. The averages are based upon attendance at armory inspections, camps and annual drills : —

FIRST INFANTRY.

The enrolment of this command for the entire year has been very close to the maximum allowed by law. The attendance at all duties has been large, averaging nearly ninety-six per cent. of enrolment.

The command is in a high state of discipline and efficiency. This condition would be still further improved if a uniform method of handling recruits and a system of tactical instruction of non-commissioned officers were adopted as a regimental measure. The command is well officered and the staff departments well served.

Suitable armory accommodations for Company F, Taunton, should be provided without further delay.

SECOND INFANTRY.

Attendance as a rule good at camps and annual drills.

Generally in very good condition as to serviceableness ; as a rule very well officered and of good personnel. Some companies, notably D, L and M, do not seem to be quite up to the general standard, and are urged to improve their condition.

Attendance as a rule has been good, and earnestness in the work seems to be the rule.

FIFTH INFANTRY.

Attendance good, except in companies E and M, which show an average of 45 or less, Company M being about 37, Company E 42. Company G is rated poor, and should receive attention at once. Poor or only fair companies in a command add nothing to its record, but tend to reduce it, and they are not just to the companies which are good.

This regiment, while generally reported as in good condition, has too many companies rated fair which may be easily brought up to a high standard. Companies E, G and M, while the latter has improved its condition during the year and the former is quartered in a very poor drill hall, seem to demand unusual attention to bring them to a proper standard of enrolment, attendance and performance of duty.

SIXTH INFANTRY.

Attendance fair; camp and annual drill attendance generally good, but the year's average was reduced by weakness of some companies at armory inspections. The armory inspections showed the companies to be in sound condition; five companies rated excellent, three very good, two good and two fair.

EIGHTH INFANTRY.

Enrolment has not been as large as should be; attendance only fair. Reduced average, on account of eight companies being below an average of 50 men at time of duty, Company A having an average of  $38\frac{2}{3}$ , all other companies averaging below 50 were above 45 average.

Companies that are reported as only fair in this regiment, as in others, are so by reason of not being properly officered, and a weeding out of inefficient material is in process.

New life and inspiration appear to be injected into this command by the new administration, and an improvement is noticed in discipline and field work, as shown in the annual drill.

Suitable armory accommodations should be provided for Company A, Newburyport, without further delay.

NINTH INFANTRY.

Attendance very fair. The companies at armory inspections were found in good shape; four rated excellent, two very good, four good and two fair. The camp and field day performance of duty were very creditable.

Company M does not show improvement, and internal troubles should cease.

NAVAL BRIGADE.

Attendance hardly fair; an improvement will doubtless be shown, now that the command has the large frigate "Minnesota" for its use.

The brigade is overburdened with line officers, and their numbers should be reduced by legislation. If this were done, an engineer division could be created without additional expense, adding much to the efficiency of the organization.

There is much room for improvement in the system of drills. Less should be attempted and greater excellence attained.

Much is hoped for of this brigade, now that it has proper quarters for its drills and summer tour of duty.

The commanding officer of this brigade is a painstaking officer, and, with the reforms he has in mind, will improve the command.

FIRST CORPS CADETS.

Attendance good, and a marked improvement over former years. This command is in excellent condition, and maintains its high standard. Officers and men are intelligent and studiously comply with all orders and instructions, and every detail receives its proper attention.

SECOND CORPS CADETS.

This command is in fair condition, and should continue the improvement shown at this year's encampment. Officers should attend drills more than heretofore, and bring more snap to this command. It has every advantage, and excellent armory and personnel of men.

This department is of the opinion that this command should be concentrated at Salem. There should be four companies at its headquarters, or nearer at least than the city of Lowell.

The commanding officer is alive to the work this corps requires, and more systematic work by officers under him will be required.

FIRST BATTALION CAVALRY.

Attendance good. The battalion performed its duty in a most creditable manner during the year, and marked improvement was shown. All attention possible should be given proper seat and general soldierly carriage. This year this command has shown what earnest work will do, and it should be continued. The command was well horsed.

COMPANY F, CAVALRY.

Attendance good. Company improved its duty over previous years. A slackness in dress was noticeable in some enlisted men; this can easily be improved. The command was well horsed, and details of stable work well carried out.

FIRST BATTALION LIGHT ARTILLERY.

Attendance good, and this command is showing improvement each year. Drills should be more varied, and battalion should apply for practice with projectile.

BATTERY A, LIGHT ARTILLERY.

Total on rolls, 78; present, 61; absent, 17. Attendance fair. This is a new battery, and shows that it will be excellent with more experience.

AMBULANCE CORPS.

Attendance good at armory inspection and camp, small at annual drill. This corps is well officered, and performed its work in a most intelligent manner. It should give attention to attendance at ordered tours of duty, as their work is important, and should be present in good numbers for any emergency. The question of ordering the whole corps for each brigade camp should receive consideration, as it is believed that, if the command are all together at the tours of duty, it would be more beneficial to them.

SIGNAL CORPS, FIRST AND SECOND BRIGADES.

Attendance good. Both commands performed their duty well. On account of the limited equipment which can be procured from the general government, the question of transferring signal duty to regiments, and the making each of the Signal Corps an Engineer and Pioneer Corps, or consolidating them into one organization of engineers, is worthy of consideration.

Upon all tours of duty special and general reports were made by officers of this department, and copies forwarded to commanding officers, pointing out faults and requiring improvement. This policy is believed to be the best that can be adopted, as it gives officers and men an opportunity, which as a rule is followed, to improve where improvement is needed without waiting for the issue of the annual report of the year.

I desire to express my appreciation of the earnest, soldierly work of the assistants of this department.

REPORT OF INSPECTION OF THE NATIONAL GUARD OF MASSACHUSETTS.

[EXTRACT.]

The following extracts from the report of Lieutenant Colonel Miller, First Artillery, U. S. A., contain that which will be most interesting to the State troops.

FORT HAMILTON, N. Y. H., Sept. 9, 1895.

The Adjutant General U. S. Army, etc.

SIR:—I have the honor to report that, pursuant to Special Orders No. 116, Headquarters of the Army, A. G. O., Washington, May 17, 1895, I attended the encampment of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia during the times specified. Also, in compliance with the letter from the Military Information Division, dated May 18, 1895, from your office, I reported by letter to His Excellency the Governor of Massachusetts.

I was informed by the Adjutant General of the State, Maj. Gen. Samuel Dalton, as to the time he wished me to report at his office, Boston, Mass., which was June 3. I accordingly complied, and from that date visited with him all the encampments, remaining at each during the whole time.

It is needless to say that I was received by the Governor, the Adjutant General, the brigade commanders and all the officers whom I had the pleasure to meet, with the greatest courtesy and hospitality.

At all the encampments I was provided with messing and servants' attendance, and at the brigade encampments a fine mount and other hospitalities befitting the representative of the Hon. Secretary of War.

The following is my report, under headings as requested by my letter of instructions:—

2. STRENGTH.

- (a) Authorized.
- (b) Organized.
- (c) Per cent. attending camp.
- (d) Liable to militia duty, census 1890.

(a) Three hundred and ninety-eight officers and 5,434 enlisted men. This strength cannot be given exactly, as the strength of the Corps of Cadets is unlimited. The law reads: "There shall be such members of non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates as the Commander-in-Chief shall deem expedient."

The strength of the bands is not included in the numbers given above, and amounts to 334 men present in camp.

- (b) Infantry, . . . 319 officers, 4,527 enlisted men.
 Light Artillery, . 20 " 230 " "
 Cavalry, . . . 18 " 237 " "
 Signal Corps, . . 2 " 47 " "
 Ambulance Corps, 3 " 52 " "
- (c) Infantry present, 310 officers, 4,201 enlisted men, 93.09%.
 Light Artillery, . 19 " 209 " " 91.02%.
 Cavalry, . . . 18 " 237 " " 97.26%.
 Signal Corps, . . 2 " 46 " " 97.96%.
 Ambulance Corps, 3 " 44 " " 85.45%.
- (d) 339,691.

3. NUMBER OF ORGANIZATION, AND STATIONS OF BRIGADES, REGIMENTS AND BATTALIONS.

There is no division organization.

There are two brigades, the first and second, the headquarters of each at Boston. The First Brigade is commanded by Brig. Gen. B. F. Bridges, the Second Brigade by Brig. Gen. B. F. Peach, Jr.

The duties of the Adjutant General as Inspector General. In this department, in addition to the Adjutant General, there are four officers with the rank of colonel, all on the staff of the Commander-in-Chief, the term of office being at his will. During each brigade camp one of these officers (including the Adjutant General), as part of his duty, is assigned to be present with one of the infantry regiments and one with the mounted troops; in addition one may take in the instruction of brigade guard duty, another the operation of the Signal Corps, to watch and report upon their condition and work.

At the camp of Corps of Cadets the past summer, the Adjutant General assigned himself as inspector. As the Inspectors' duties brought them in contact with the commands in every way, examining sentinels, inspection of quarters, etc., I accompanied some one of them on his tour when I visited the regiments or battalions. I was strongly impressed by the efficiency and ability of each of these officers in his particular branch of duty, and the great benefit their work must be to the efficiency of the troops.

They were earnest in finding out the full state of affairs, and nothing escaped their observation. In addition to their camp duty, once a year they had to visit certain troops at their home stations and inspection report rendered. I found their instructions on blank inspection reports as follows:—

Devote most time to poor companies. Devote time to company officers on knowledge of general duty and whether lieutenants are useful to captains and command. Have officers question their men—including drummers—as to their duties. Question officers as to same. Report attendance. Amounts that State should pay for armory. Whether State property is dropped without authority by company commanders. If a company is found poor, make a special report. Through these officers and the surgeon general the commanding officer gets a full knowledge of the condition of the forces.

8. AMBULANCE CORPS AND HOSPITAL CORPS.

This corps consists of one captain, two lieutenants and fifty-eight enlisted men, being the same in enlisted strength as one infantry company.

The corps has one two-horse ambulance complete. One-half of this corps and the ambulance are ordered to each brigade encampment. The chief of the corps, the captain, visits each encampment. Each private is provided with one-half stretcher, enclosed in a canvas cover when not in use, and when in use the two halves are joined by inserting the ferrules of one in the socket joint of the other, forming a light and practical stretcher.

Two litter slings of leather are provided for each stretcher. Each private has also one belt and pouch, each pouch having the following contents: four triangular bandages, three assorted roller bandages, one pair of scissors, one package of corrosive sublimate tablets; first-aid packages, one spool adhesive plaster, one dozen safety pins, one ounce bottle of ammonia, same of ginger and whiskey. The corps is very expert in kit manual; in marching and extemporized litters, made by the use of army blankets, by the use of overcoat and rifle and various other methods; quickly lowering and carrying patients; making applications of necessary dressings for every possible supposable case of injury. This corps may be used for the benefit of the Commonwealth in the event of public calamity. To place the corps in ready position for such assistance, an alarm list is kept in the surgeon general's office, which contains the day and night telegraphic address of each member of the corps. The emergency chest is also always kept in readiness to be sent anywhere in the State.

There is no hospital corps. Each regiment, battalion and separate command has its own surgeon and assistant surgeon. Each brigade has its medical director. The surgeon general is one of the staff of the Commander-in-Chief, and is appointed by him; the medical directors by the brigade commanders; the surgeons and assistant surgeons by their respective commanders, and hold office at the will of said commanders. All appointees to the medical department have to be examined by a board of medical officers. The surgeons and assistant surgeons are each supplied with a field operating case, and each organization, when on a tour of duty, with a medicine chest and orderly pouch. After the tour these chests and pouches are returned to the surgeon general's office, where they are examined and expenditures made good. The emergency chest is sent to each brigade camp. It comprises an operating table, all appliances for sterilizing and all facilities for performing an operation. The chest is sent to smaller camps, if asked for. Each organization on tour of camp duty is supplied with one hospital tent, each with four beds, bedding, tables, etc., complete. All this property comes under the charge of the surgeon general. At the grounds of the brigade encampments there is a light frame building used as brigade hospital. It has a ward of six beds, a dispensary, storeroom and kitchen. The ward is provided with the necessary baths, toilet stands, slop-pail, etc. I visited all these hospitals with the surgeon general, who made a very rigid examination, and found everything very satisfactory. We also inspected the police of the encampments, the company kitchens, wash-houses and stables, and found the police in every respect excellent.

9. SIGNAL CORPS, — ORGANIZATION, EQUIPMENT AND EFFICIENCY.

The Signal Corps of each brigade consists of one first lieutenant, one first sergeant, four sergeants and twenty privates. It is provided with the usual kit of the United States Signal Corps. The corps practised twice daily at flag signalling, and at night at lantern and torch signalling. I watched it considerably, and was much pleased with the rapid flagging and apparent efficiency in that respect. At night its torch signalling was firm, of an easy, even motion and plain of discernment; I should pronounce it very efficient.

10. REGULAR ARMY OFFICERS ATTACHED TO HEADQUARTERS.

None.

11. MILITARY OR ADVISORY BOARD.

None.

12. ENCAMPMENT, — REGIMENTAL, BRIGADE OR DIVISIONAL. PERIOD OF DURATION. GROUNDS OWNED BY STATE; IF SO, LOCATION. REGULAR TROOPS ENCAMPED WITH STATE TROOPS.

There were two brigade encampments, each for five days on ground owned by the State, located at South Framingham, about twenty-one miles west of Boston, on Boston & Albany Railroad, and an encampment of each battalion of the Corps of Cadets, — that of the first Corps of Cadets being for one week, the legal requirement being only five days, but the members of the corps give first Saturday afternoon and Sunday without pay. The encampment ground of this corps is owned by themselves, and is located at Hingham, about seventeen miles south-west of Boston, on an inlet of Boston harbor, and reached by the old Colony Railroad, Plymouth branch, and by steamer, running daily three or four trips. The encampment of the Second Corps of Cadets is for six days, on grounds leased by the corps, located about three miles from Essex, reached by the Essex branch of the Boston & Maine Railroad.

There were no regular troops encamped with the militia.

One of the regiments of infantry is required by law to be instructed in heavy artillery duties, and the one designated is the First Infantry. This regiment last year encamped at Fort Warren, and had the advantage of using then at manual and mechanical manœuvres the various guns there mounted. At this camp at South Framingham there was some drill with 10-inch siege mortar, accompanied by firing practice of a few rounds, giving but little variety.

13. MOBILIZATION.

- (a) Points of concentration for service in State.
- (b) Points for service out of State.
- (c) Time required for concentration for service in and out of State.

(d) Plans for emergency.

(e) Per cent. that would turn out for sixty days.

(a) The Adjutant General has maps prepared, and on each are marked certain towns and cities, three or more in each regimental district and all railroad centres. Each brigade, regimental and battalion headquarters is provided with a copy of the map.

The following are some of the points marked for service within the State: Pittsfield, Springfield, Fitchburg, Worcester, South Framingham, Ayer Junction, Newburyport, Concord and Boston.

(b) The following are points fixed for service without the State: Pittsfield, for service in New York or westward; Springfield and Fitchburg, for service northward; Haverhill and Newburyport, for service towards Maine; Springfield and Worcester, for service southward; for ocean service, Boston, New Bedford, Fall River and Salem.

(c) The regiments, battalions and batteries can be concentrated in a very few hours, not more than eighteen, at any one point of a regimental district, and in a very few hours thereafter can be moved to any of the points of concentration in the State.

(d) Each brigade commander has the home and business address of the colonels, battalion and other commanders; the latter have the home and business address of the captains; and the latter the same of the lieutenants and chief of squads; and the latter of each man, and in the city of Boston his telephone number. The orders for assembly can now be sent to every headquarters by telegram or telephone. The whole militia were assembled the past year at Boston in less than thirty-six hours, fall field day.

(e) After consultation with the principal officers, I believe ninety per cent. of the command would turn out for service within the State and eighty per cent. for service without the State. Plenty of men would step in at once and fill places of men who for family or business reasons could not go. It happened so when militia were first called out for late war.

14. STATE APPROPRIATIONS.

Two hundred and fifteen thousand dollars, disbursed by the Adjutant General under various appropriations, — pay, transportation, stationery, arsenal and armory rent.

15. NATIONAL APPROPRIATIONS.

Thirteen thousand, one hundred and twenty-two dollars, expended in purchase of arms and clothing from United States ordnance and quartermaster's department.

16. ARMAMENT, — CAVALRY, ARTILLERY AND INFANTRY, CHARACTER AND CONDITION.

The cavalry is armed with Springfield carbines, caliber .45 ", and the cavalry sabre, all in good fair condition; the artillery, batteries B and C, with four 3" muzzle-loading ordnance guns, in fair condition, each with limber and caisson complete; battery A, with four twelve-pounder Napoleons, new, each with limber and caisson. The usual implements — paulin, pickaxes and long-handled shovel — belonging to the carriages were all in their proper places; some of the long-handled shovels were not of the regulation kind, but will do.

The infantry is armed with the Springfield rifle musket, caliber .45", of three different models, some of the older models much worn, some very few bent and useless. As to cleanliness, those of the First Corps of Cadets were absolutely clean; of the Second Corps of Cadets, fairly clean; of the brigade infantry I had only an opportunity to handle a few guns, and unfortunately those I examined were more or less rusty. My conclusion in general was that nine-tenths of the muskets were in fair condition of cleanliness, and serviceable, none in reverse. To each regiment of infantry is assigned one Gatling gun with Accles feeder; each was in excellent condition.

17. EQUIPMENT, — CAVALRY, ARTILLERY, INFANTRY, — CHARACTER AND CONDITION.

The cavalry equipment is the same as that of the United States Cavalry, — one set of horse equipments, less nosebag, picket pin and lariat; also cartridge box and belt, haversack, canteen and strap, all in good, serviceable condition.

18. UNIFORM CLOTHING, — CHARACTER AND CONDITION.

The artillery equipment: full set of harness wheel and lead, — old style, — and horse equipments necessary for the number of men required to be mounted; the limbers of the pieces were properly equipped with buckets and implements prescribed in tactics. The personal equipment of the men was: for each, one haversack, one canteen and strap; for drivers, one driver's valise, no knapsack for the cannoneers. The harness for batteries B and C was reported as old and the leather lifeless, needing many repairs in the course of the year. That of Battery A appeared to be in good condition.

Infantry. — Each man is supplied with the gun sling, sword and belt for sergeants, bayonet scabbard, canteen and strap, cartridge belt of webbing, haversack and box knapsack, all in good condition. The troops of the brigade camp wore the fatigue uniform, including campaign hat. No full-dress uniform was taken to the field.

The State issues to the enlisted men, not of the Corps of Cadets, a dress coat, a light blue overcoat, trousers, a blouse, a cap with ornaments, one black and one white helmet, one light-brown campaign hat, and the necessary chevrons, brassards, etc.

The uniforms of officers and men conform as nearly as possible in color and character to that of the United States of the same arm, except that the infantry adheres to the dark-blue facings. Blanket, shoes and underclothing have to be supplied by the men themselves. The captain of a company or battery is allowed $1.75 per man a year for repairing uniforms and other property of the State for which they are responsible.

The full-dress uniform of the First Corps of Cadets consists of a white cloth dress coat, a shako dress hat, light blue trousers; the fatigue uniform was the same as that of the brigade infantry. The corps also had a brown canvas suit complete, with a low, round, brown-colored fatigue hat. The corps owns all its uniform. It is not issued to it by the State.

The uniform of the Second Corps of Cadets was, for full dress, one scarlet coat, and a black dress hat with pompon similar to that of the West Point Cadets, 1858. This part of the uniform is owned by themselves, otherwise their uniform is issued by the State. The two corps wore full dress at guard mounting, parades and reviews; on other duties, the fatigue uniform. The company commanders generally were particular as to neatness and good fit of uniform.

The State issues yearly supplies of clothing to the companies. The beginning of the new issues annually is in January, at which time an abundance is on hand, while towards the end of the year there is quite a limited supply. All arms, clothing and equipments have to be deposited in the armories immediately after the completion of any duty they have been taken out to perform, and it is forbidden for any person to wear or use them except when on military duty. No clothing held in reserve, the annual supply purchased in January is for issue the remainder of the year.

19. HORSES OWNED OR HIRED.

They are supplied by the officer or soldier requiring them for service, the officer or soldier getting a per diem from the State. In the cavalry many of the men own their horses and bring them to the field, others hire them. Certain draft horses, thirty-two in number, for a four-gun battery, may be hired by the captains at the expense of the State.

21. CAMP AND GARRISON EQUIPAGE.

(a) Tentage, etc.

(b) Mess outfits.

(a) There are kept on hand at the State arsenal about nine hundred wall tents and one hundred and sixty wall tent flies, with tent poles and pins for same. During the past year the State has purchased two thousand one-half pieces of shelter tents, so called; each piece is really a rubber blanket with a pocket on inside for underclothing; the edge and sides of each piece have eyelet holes for lacing. Ridge and upright poles were supplied to go with it. I watched the experiment of trying to use the rubber blanket as a shelter tent, and in most of the cases I noticed the parts where laced together along the ridge poles failed to make a water-tight connection. Some men placed the ridge poles so that the edges of the blankets pressed to one side of the ridge poles, thus allowing one-half to overlap the other, thus shedding the water. The latter is the way it was intended to be. I have great doubts of the wearing power of rubber blankets being used this way, as the rubber backing will soon wear off, rendering it useless to shed water, and the material is not strong enough to hold the eyelet rings if submitted to much pull.

(b) During the past year a board met and devised an emergency cooking kit, consisting of a nest of four tin boilers; one gridiron, made about five feet long and fourteen inches wide, like a ladder; two tin pans; one dipper; one quart cup; two saucepans; two steamers; one can-opener; one cleaver and one butcher knife, — about forty kits; also one Buzzacott mess kit was exhibited. Twenty have since been obtained and twenty more are en route to the State arsenal. The results with emergency kit were good, and the Buzzacott kit is too well known to require criticism.

22. PROPERTY ACCOUNTABILITY, NATURE OF, — ARE REGULATIONS IN REGARD TO, STRICTLY ENFORCED?

Every officer to whom property belonging to any of the departments is issued has to give receipts to the issuing officer, corresponding to the latter's invoice of the same, and has to make semi-annual returns, except for medical property, to the Adjutant General, and for medical property to the surgeon general.

The accounts of each officer are kept at the Adjutant General's office, and the books of his office are rigidly posted to date, so that, upon reference to the books, the accounts under all appropriations are evident at a glance.

A company commander is allowed fifty dollars per annum responsibility money to cover losses that cannot be explained. Worn-out property may be condemned by a board of survey, and disposed of as recommended, that bought of United States appropriation being referred to the head of the proper department of the United States Army for final orders. All property as to condition is inspected by the inspector's department every year, and reports sent to the Adjutant General.

23. SUBSISTENCE: RATIONS, COMPONENT PARTS OF; HOW FURNISHED, HOW PREPARED.

There is no regular ration provided by law. The officer or soldier has to provide his subsistence out of his pay. In camp the messes are let by contract to caterers, some cases regimentally; in others the captains see to it, and one officer as caterer takes charge of the mess. The State has an emergency ration. Of this, one day's ration for fifty-eight men is sixty pounds of bread, sixty pounds of meat (cooked or raw), eleven and one-quarter pounds of coffee and eighteen pounds of sugar. Each captain is required to inform himself where he can get this ration at once for two days' supply.

Under section 127, Law of 1893, the Commander-in-Chief may order rations to be issued to troops on duty, the cost of the same to be deducted from the pay of troops. In active service the emergency cooking kit and Buzzacott kit will be used.

25. STORES.

(a) Purchase of.

(b) Amount required in addition to those now on hand, to enable the command to take the field for sixty days.

(c) Medical supplies.

(a) Stores, except medical, are purchased in time of peace by the Adjutant General in his dual capacity, represented by the quartermaster general and chief of ordnance, and medical stores by the surgeon general, usually in open market.

(b) Camp equipment, 800 axes and helves, 800 hatchets and helves, 520 pickaxes, 2,500 shelter tents, or an equivalent in "A" ventilated tents.

Artillery Ammunition. — Three-inch muzzle-loading guns, 2 batteries, 4 guns each, 8 in all; 160 canister, 160 time shell, 565 percussion shell with fuses; 400 case shell, 160 solid shot, 1,650 one-pound cartridges, 2,500 friction primers, 600 paper time fuses, 10, 15, 20 and 25 seconds equal proportion; twelve-pounder Napoleon battery, 4 guns; ammunition, 192 spherical case with Borman fuses, 142 solid shot, 700 friction primers.

Equipment. — Artillery: 24 vent punches, 24 gunner's pincers, 24 fuse wrenches, 16 fuse cutters, 8 fuse gauges, 36 tow books, 6 long-handled shovels, 12 felling axes for caissons, 12 picks, 4 pendulum hausses for twelve-pounder Napoleon gun. Small-arm ammunition: 21,000 ball cartridges, caliber .45", Springfield rifle; 10,000 ball cartridges, caliber .45", Springfield carbine; 42,000 ball cartridges, caliber .45", for Gatling guns. Of medical supplies there is probably enough on hand for sixty days.

Field Exercises. — (a) The companies are assembled in their armories for drill and instruction once a week, which instruction is entirely practical, consisting of exercises in the school of the soldier and of the company, of instruction in guard duty, the formality of posting reliefs and relieving sentinels; the officer, visiting the sentinel on post, questions and instructs them in the orders.

The battalions of some of the regiments assemble in their armories once a month for battalion drill, but in others the companies are so scattered it is difficult to assemble them at all for drills, battalion and regimental ceremonies, except at the annual encampments. Each of the troops of cavalry has about three drills (dismounted) a month in its armory.

The main reliance for drill and instruction of all arms is that provided by the annual encampments, where the usual routine of camp duty is carried out according to the list of calls, setting up drills and police of camp immediately after reveille, at stated hours guard mounting, drills and parades.

The infantry was exercised in battalion and regimental drills and the same in open order. During one day of the camp, regiment marched as if into the enemy's country, with advance, rear guard and flankers; and at the halt they were instructed in the use of the emergency and Buzzacott cooking kits, and in pitching the rubber cloth shelter tent.

The regiments improved greatly from day to day in accuracy of work. The cavalry practised at mounted setting-up drills, troop and battalion drills, guard mounting and dress parade, and performed daily mounted patrol duty. They showed improvement from day to day. The light artillery were also exercised in mounted setting-up drill, in the usual ceremonies and drills of the school of the driver, of section, of platoons, of battery and battalion, making very fair progress, considering the fact that most of the horses were brought to camp green and unaccustomed to the work.

REVIEW, GOVERNOR'S DAY.

On Friday, the next to the last day of the camp, His Excellency the Governor reviews the brigade troops in which all the command appear in order: first, infantry, each regiment followed by a Gatling gun moved and hauled by men of the regiment; second, the light artillery; third, the cavalry; fourth, the signal corps; fifth and last, the hospital corps, including ambulance. I attended the reviews of the two brigade camps, being temporarily on the staff of the governor.

An additional review of the First Brigade was given in honor of Maj. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, U. S. Army, which I attended as one of the staff of the major general. It is needless to say that the command in each case looked and marched well, and presented the very finest military appearance, impressing the mind of a military man that the force was one that could be depended upon to do the best of work if required.

THE CORPS OF CADETS.

The drills consisted of setting-up drills, police duty, drills in the school of the battalion and at open order, the company and battalion drills, and the usual ceremonies, guard mounting, dress parades and reviews.

One forenoon was given by the First Corps of Cadets, fully equipped and carrying cooked rations, a march as if in the presence of an enemy, with advance guard, flankers and rear guard, and upon arriving at the place occupied by the enemy attacked the place in battle formation; and after that made coffee, had a field dinner and returned to camp.

The police of the camp of the First Corps of Cadets was more than excellent, if such a thing were possible to be. Drills and ceremonies were executed very accurately. The improvement looked for daily while in camp could not be expected, as they were a well-drilled corps to start with.

The Second Corps of Cadets are not all from one city, one company being from Salem and the other from Lowell, and, though well drilled in company manœuvres and exercises, had opportunity and did show great improvement in battalion drill.

In this corps more attention was given to the open order battalion drill and battle formation of battalion.

These two corps were likewise reviewed by the governor, and marched and looked well.

FALL FIELD DAY.

The Militia Laws, section 106, provide that each command shall parade for instruction one day each year, at such time and place as the Commander-in-Chief shall designate. This day is usually devoted to field exercises; one or more commands are called out to assemble at or near some town or grounds suitable for the purpose, and the troops exercised in approaching and defending the position, the marching when nearing the position being conducted as in the presence of an enemy, reconnoitring parties and scouts out, advance and rear guards and flankers.

Last fall on this day all the troops were assembled near Boston, the men with ration in haversack and canteens.

I learned from Brigadier General Peach's report that he, the senior brigadier general, per Orders No. 17, c. s., was instructed to take command of the troops arriving in Boston or located north of Beacon and School streets, and established his headquarters at Somerville at 9.30 A.M., ordered certain commands arriving to disembark at certain stations of his district, staff officers having been sent to those stations to give his orders to arriving commands. The troops thus meeting were organized into provisional brigade, and proceeded to an unoccupied field near Harvard and Cambridge streets.

The column left this field at 12.35 P.M., and proceeded to the corner of Beacon and Exeter streets, where troops of the provisional brigade not belonging to the Second Brigade were sent to their respective organizations, General Peach giving up the command to Colonel Bancroft of the Fifth Infantry, in order to assume command of all the forces.

I learned from Brigadier General Bridges' report that he at 9.30 A.M. established his headquarters at Walpole Street, Boston, and later, 10.30 A.M., at Back Bay Fens. Staff officers were detailed at the various places of disembarking, to give orders, etc. After all the troops assembled they were practised in drill, those under Colonels Mathews and Clark in field and street movements, those under Colonel Bogan in street drills; the Naval Brigade at street and electrical work, exploding torpedoes, etc. At 1.15 P.M. headquarters were moved to junction of Exeter and Marlborough streets, where the organizations of the brigade reported promptly at the designated hour; the sharpshooters and distinguished marksmen formed on the right of their commands, and the brigades reported to Gen. B. F. Peach, Jr.

From General Peach's report, he assumed command of all the forces at 1.30 P.M., and at 2.00 P.M. marched the forces over the prescribed route, giving His Excellency the Governor a marching salute as they passed the State House. The total strength present consisted of 5,760 officers and men of all arms and corps, ninety-one per cent. of enlistment.

No arrests were made for straggling or for other breach of peace. The discipline and deportment of the entire force were highly commendable, and can truly be rated as excellent.

27. PERSONNEL AND DISCIPLINE.

The personnel of the officers is excellent. Some of the higher officers have had honorable experience in our late war. All are gentlemen of intelligence, and many are graduates of the best schools and colleges in the State. The medical department especially is composed of men having the highest reputations as physicians and surgeons in the country.

The men are usually quite well educated, quick to learn and of good physical development; in the latter respect great watchfulness is given by the medical department, and, though a medical examination is not required in taking on recruits, men found not physically qualified are recommended for discharge.

The discipline throughout is good. The greatest courtesy exists between officers, and enlisted men are carefully taught the necessity of saluting officers; the junior officers also on meeting a senior always salute. The men are not allowed during the encampment to remain about the officers' tents in familiar manner. During my visits, for four years, I have not seen a single case of drunkenness.

In the First Corps of Cadets the discipline is very remarkable, and beyond my understanding. Duty is performed in an efficient manner, and all rules and regulations carried out to the very letter; no disturbance of any kind occurred, and perfect obedience; the whole camp seemed pervaded with the idea of how perfectly they can perform their military duties.

28. THEORETICAL INSTRUCTION.

There has been no purely theoretical instruction given the men. The officers have talks with the non-commissioned officers and men at times, on tactics, guard duty, etc. An officers' school was started the past year, and conducted by officers giving lectures on military subjects. I have read copies of the same, and find much matter in them useful to any officer, and consider the school quite a step in advance.

29. GUARD DUTY, HOW PERFORMED. OFFICERS AND NON-COM-MISSIONED OFFICERS WELL INSTRUCTED. SENTINELS WELL INSTRUCTED. ANY OUTPOST DUTY.

Guard duty is well performed in all the camps. In the two corps of cadets I found the officers and non-commissioned officers and men well instructed. In the brigade camps the guards were so large that I could not well judge from my opportunities how well the officers and men were instructed. The sentinels walked post in a military manner, and, from the questions I heard a few sentinels asked, I should judge they needed more practice in this part of the instruction. The men were intelligent, and two or three tours of guard duty in camp would give them such experience that they could well be trusted with the most important duties.

30. TARGET PRACTICE: CAVALRY, ARTILLERY AND INFANTRY; RANGE AND GALLERY; ANY HELD AT STATIONS OF TROOPS, ANY HELD IN CAMP; UNDER WHAT SYSTEM OF INSTRUCTION, AND QUANTITY OF.

The artillery have had no artillery practice for years, in consequence of having no range; some of the men of one battery, Light Battery B, First Battalion, engage in small-arm practice.

The infantry and cavalry arms give considerable attention to small-arm practice, and are instructed at their armories in aiming and sighting drill before going to the ranges. Nearly every city or town where there are troops have provided for them some kind of a range for small-arm firing. The system in respect to enforcing practice is voluntary; the men desiring to qualify go to the ranges of their own accord, supervised by a commissioned officer, and are allowed to fire as much as necessary to qualify. During the past year ninety per cent. of the whole force reached a rating of some classification. The system of instruction is that of the Blunt's rifle practice.

Distinguished Marksmen, Men of Certain Record.

Sharpshooters, 3 ranges, 2 scores, .	22 out of possible 25,	200 yards.
Sharpshooters, 3 ranges, 2 scores, .	24 out of possible 25,	500 yards.
Sharpshooters, 3 ranges, 2 scores, .	25 out of possible 25,	600 yards.
First-class marksmen, 2 ranges, 2
scores, . . . . .	22 out of possible 25,	200 yards.
First-class marksmen, 2 ranges, 2
scores, . . . . .	22 out of possible 25,	500 yards.

Second-class marksmen, 1 range,
2 scores, . . . . . 18 out of possible 25, 200 yards.
Third-class marksmen, 1 range, 2
scores, . . . . . 15 out of possible 25, 200 yards.

Teams of twelve from each company, firing seven shots at two hundred and five hundred yards (annual competition), and the regiment whose team makes the highest score carries a tri-color on its colors for a year. The First Regiment of Infantry had this honor for 1895. Individual prizes are also given in the classes of sharpshooters and first-class marksmen.

Distinguished marksmen's competition is also held; it consists of firing seven shots at two hundred, five hundred and six hundred yards, estimating seven distances. Competitors making the fifteen highest aggregate scores win prizes. Prizes are also given for estimating distances. Twenty-four companies won prizes of twenty-five dollars each for making a full enrolment of qualified marksmen, the company doing best getting fifty dollars, which was Company C, First Regiment of Infantry.

31. TRANSPORTATION, — WAGON, RAILROAD, RIVER.

Two wagons and one ambulance at State arsenal owned by the State. Any number can be obtained at once by hiring. Railroad and water transportation in great abundance everywhere in the State, especially ocean transportation in the way of ocean steamers.

32. MILITARY CODE, DATE OF, ETC. DO STATE LAWS PROVIDE FOR STATE TROOPS BEING CALLED INTO THE SERVICE OF THE UNITED STATES?

The latest book is entitled the Militia Law, dated 1893. It contemplates that the forces may be called into the service of the United States. The legal manner of so doing is not fully understood.

33. REGULATIONS, — NATURE AND DATE OF.

The State has regulations similar to the army regulations of 1878. They are of quite old date.

34. MAPS, — SCALES AND CHARACTER.

The Adjutant General has certain maps, previously referred to, giving points of concentration, but no surplus; other later ones are now completed, one of which he will forward to the war department. I send herewith a pocket map of Boston, which he gave me.

35. ARMORIES, LOCATION AND DESCRIPTION.

There are two armories in Boston, each for a regiment; one in Worcester, one in Fitchburg, one in Lowell, one in Lawrence, one in Lynn, one in progress of erection at Springfield and another being built in Boston for the First Corps of Cadets. Each of the last five is fitted for a battalion of four companies. The general description, which will apply to each, is: they are built of brick and masonry, in solid manner, with a head house four or five stories high, each head house having defensive arrangement of towers, usually four in front, flanks and curtains, barred windows, and loopholes for small-arms. The head houses are divided off into suitable rooms for regimental, battalion and company headquarters, and arm and store rooms. On back of the head house is built a large, airy drill shed, also with barred windows and loopholes, divided into drill rooms, gallery-practice range and storerooms. There are no other armories built on defensive principles, but at each city or town, elsewhere than above named, where companies are stationed, there is some suitable hall leased. Said hall is fitted up along the sides and ends with closets for arms, clothing and equipage. There are thirty-six such cities and towns.

36. ARSENALS, — LOCATION AND DESCRIPTION.

There is only one State arsenal, which is located at South Framingham. It is a brick building two and a half stories high, two hundred by forty feet, cellar of seven feet, first and second floors eleven feet high. The cellar is used as a storeroom for tent poles and packing boxes, the first floor for the superintendent's office, storeroom and artillery equipment property. The second floor has repair shops, clothing and infantry equipments. The attic is used for the storage of tents.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

After careful consideration and consultation with the higher officers of the militia of the State, I can think of no assistance that can be given the State militia under the present laws.

I would recommend that the First Regiment of Infantry of the M. V. M., the one designated to be trained, instructed and exercised in heavy artillery, be allowed and encouraged to have its drills at Fort Warren, also that such artillery practice be at the cost of the State as the Commander-in-Chief, the governor of the State, may direct. Some of the officers and soldiers of this regiment understand the use of azimuth circles, the plotting of shots, and are prepared to do all the necessary work, even putting out the targets.

A law permitting the exchange of muskets worn out in service is greatly desired by the Adjutant General of the State, and such a law is recommended.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) M. P. MILLER,
Lieutenant Colonel, First Artillery, U. S. A.

REPORT OF THE SURGEON GENERAL.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
SURGEON GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, Dec. 14, 1895.

Maj Gen. SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General.

SIR: — In accordance with section 19 of the militia law, I have the honor to forward to you herewith my report to His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief of the work of this office during the past year.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

EDWARD J. FORSTER,
Surgeon General.

---

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
SURGEON GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, Dec. 14, 1895.

To His Excellency FREDERIC T. GREENHALGE,
Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

SIR: — In accordance with paragraph 1781 of the regulations for the militia, I have the honor to present the following report of this office for the past year.

My predecessor, General Burrell, owing to increased professional duties incumbent upon him as assistant professor of clinical surgery in Harvard University, was compelled to tender his resignation on the 22d of April.

You did me the honor to promote me, from the position of medical director of the First Brigade, to that of surgeon general. I was qualified on the 23d of April, since which time I have endeavored to carry on the office mainly on the lines laid down by General Burrell, ever having in view the increased efficiency of this department of the service.

Examinations for State Aid. — The number of those examined has fallen off from previous years; ninety-seven have been examined for the commissioners of State aid; with scarcely an exception, the applicants appeared to be worthy but unfortunate men. As time goes on, the number of those, still uncared for by friends or State, who in the time of our country's peril freely and fearlessly exposed themselves to the chances of war, gradually but surely decreases.

Association of Military Surgeons of the United States.—By Special Order No. 62, I was directed to attend the fifth annual meeting of this association at Buffalo, N. Y. I was accompanied by Major Bryant, surgeon of the Eighth Infantry, Captain Standish and Lieutenant Bell of the Ambulance Corps, Lieutenant Brown, assistant surgeon of the Second Infantry, and Lieutenant Chase, assistant surgeon of the Fifth Infantry. These officers attended at their own expense, contributed papers or took part in the discussions. I consider these meetings of great value to medical officers, both on account of the instruction received, and the expansion of their views, by contact with officers of the regular army and navy and the national guard of other States. A report of this tour of duty was submitted upon my return.

Chickamauga and Chattanooga National Military Park.—By Special Order No. 94, I was detailed as medical officer to accompany Your Excellency and the Massachusetts delegates to the dedication of this National Military Park. The delegation numbered seventy-two persons. The journey down was without accident. As we were leaving Chattanooga, on our return, one of the delegation, in jumping from a runaway carriage, sustained an injury to his foot, which necessitated the application of a plaster-of-Paris bandage and the subsequent use of crutches for some time. Another of the party died some days after our return. He had consulted me just as we were leaving New York, on the way home; his condition was such that he was advised to at once return to Boston, and not remain over at Fall River with the delegation. His disease, in my opinion, was contracted before leaving home.

Cotton States and International Exposition, Atlanta.—I had the honor, as medical officer, to accompany Your Excellency and the Executive Council to Atlanta, Ga., and be present at the exercises on Massachusetts Day at the Exposition. The trip was made without accident or sickness of any kind.

Relations with the Regular Services.—The cordial relations established with the offices of the surgeon general of the army and the surgeon general of the navy have been maintained. Any assistance or information desired has been promptly rendered.

ORDERLY POUCH (OPEN). Weighs  $7\frac{1}{2}$  pounds.

ALUMINUM FLASK.

As evidence of the interest shown in the work of medical officers of the militia, reference is made to the letter of Colonel Alden, assistant surgeon general United States Army, printed in Circular No. 3, which is appended to this report, giving our medical officers the opportunity of attending certain exercises of the army medical school.

Personnel. — The changes have been as follows: Resignations, one surgeon general; one surgeon and one assistant surgeon (due to change of commanding officer); and one assistant surgeon. Discharged by reason of disbandment of organization, one assistant surgeon. Promotion, one medical director to be surgeon general. Appointments, one medical director, two assistant surgeons. One vacancy exists, — that of surgeon of one of the regiments.

Board of Medical Officers. — The Board is composed of Lieutenant Colonel Hersey, president, and Major Marion. There is one vacancy, Major Foster having been relieved at his own request, owing to extended leave of absence, with permission to cross the seas. During the past year, one appointee as medical director and two appointees as assistant surgeons have been examined and found qualified.

Equipment. — A change in the equipment of medical officers has been instituted. Formerly only senior officers of organizations were supplied and held accountable for property. It is now proposed to furnish all medical officers with an orderly pouch, a medicine case for emergencies, a pocket case of instruments, an hypodermic syringe and the necessary books and blanks. Every medical officer will thus be equipped and ready for any emergency call, and junior officers will learn the methods of acquiring and accounting for supplies, and the proper filling out of blanks and returns, — a subject about which, for want of experience, they are deficient. The contents of the orderly pouch have been revised and a tray of aluminum added, as suggested by General Burrell. New pouches have been purchased to equip the junior officers. The contents of the field medicine chests need careful revision; when this is accomplished these will be issued to the senior officers of organizations, and remain permanently in their custody. Articles as they are expended will be furnished by requisition on this office; this will save much in the way of transportation of the chests to and from this office. It is also proposed to furnish each organization a supply or reserve chest for extra supplies, and such necessary articles as cannot be placed in the field chest or orderly pouch, as extra bandages, plaster-of-Paris bandages, dressings, splints, etc. The equipment of the medical officers of the naval militia should be changed, to correspond with that furnished medical officers of the regular navy. The emergency chest, of which a cut was given in last year's report, has met with general approval; it was made of hard wood, and too heavy for easy transportation. It is proposed to make a new and much lighter one for use at the smaller encampments and by the Ambulance Corps, the present one to be kept at the State camp.

Ambulance Corps. — A division of this corps has been present at each brigade encampment, and rendered efficient service. I would recommend that a small detachment be present at each encampment, as an aid in teaching company bearers. I would also recommend that a detachment accompany each organization at its annual drill. At the request of the committee of arrangements of the Knights Templar Triennial Conclave, the corps did voluntary duty at the time of the parade of the knights, and added to its already well-earned reputation. The report of Capt. Myles Standish is appended. The corps is divided into two divisions, one stationed in Boston, the other in Lowell; the former is handicapped by the distance of its quarters from the residences of a majority of its members, the latter by the lack of a sufficient number of lockers for the use of the men. The Naval Brigade, when stationed on board the "Minnesota," will make room in the south armory, a portion of which it is to be hoped will be assigned the Boston division. Experiments are in contemplation by which the bicycle can be utilized for quickly transporting men to the injured, and then made of service in transporting the latter on what would be a four-wheeled hand litter. At my request, Captain Standish has revised the drill regulations of the corps; these, having been approved, will soon be issued in book form, for use by the corps and by medical officers in the instruction of company bearers.

Company Bearers. — To establish "company bearers" as part of the militia system of the State, at my request the following paragraph was incorporated in General Order No. 6: —

IV. Company commanders, with the concurrence of the senior medical officer of the command, will designate four privates for instruction as litter bearers. They will be known as "company bearers," and shall be instructed under supervision of the senior medical officer at least one half-hour daily while in camp, and such other times during the year as the commanding officer and the surgeon may deem advisable, in the duties of litter bearers and the methods of rendering first aid to the sick and wounded.

This special instruction will not relieve them from the performance of all their regular military duties. They will give first aid to the sick or wounded or carry them to the rear until relieved by members of the Ambulance Corps or a medical officer. When so relieved they will immediately join their companies.

When on duty where their services may be required, they will wear as a distinguishing mark a red brassard around the left arm, just above the elbow.

Officers of the inspector general's department and medical inspectors at their regular inspections will specially examine the company bearers as to their efficiency in the litter bearers' drill, and the methods of rendering first aid to the sick or wounded.

On requisition made to the surgeon general, senior medical officers of infantry organizations will be furnished with a sufficient number of litters and brassards.

Reports of tours of duty by medical officers will contain the name and company of all company bearers.

Much interest has been shown by those detailed for "bearer" work.

Veterinary Officers.—These officers continue to save expense to the State, by a careful inspection of all horses to be used for military service, rejecting all found to be unsound. As the work of these officers is general, they should not be attached to any battalion organization, but to either brigade or State headquarters, preferably the latter, and detailed for duty whenever mounted troops are ordered for service. I recommend that such alterations in the law be made as are necessary to change the status of these officers.

To state my views, I cannot do better than quote from the very able and valuable report of Lieutenant Osgood, printed last year:—

The importance of the veterinarian in our own volunteer service having been already recognized and provided for in a measure by the passage of a bill by our Legislature in 1890, providing for such appointment, leads me to call your attention to the facts that since that time no steps have been taken to perfect the service; that, if such establishment is desirable, its efficiency should not be curtailed through want of further legislation.

In considering, however, what legislation is necessary, if any, let us consider the changed conditions and what is expected of the veterinarian to-day, as well as what responsibilities will naturally be imposed upon him as the service is perfected, or in case the militia were ordered into active service. The general order issued by the Adjutant General's office requires that all horses reported for duty in the service of the artillery or cavalry shall be inspected prior to their leaving their home post.

The regulations of the surgeon general's office are that at time of inspection all animals which are accepted shall be numbered and tagged, and a record kept of the name and address of the owner, color and sex of the animal, and in what condition received, which record is open to the inspection of the medical director or surgeon general. This, as has been pointed out, with the present force is impossible, owing to the fact that one of the batteries of the brigade is stationed at Worcester, one at Lawrence and the cavalry at Chelmsford.

If the State's interests are to be protected, a veterinary surgeon should accompany each battery, whether transported by rail or marched over the highways. Accidents or sickness are liable to occur, resulting in the death of animals, for which the State is responsible, providing it does not take all reasonable precautions to prevent such results. . . . The cost to the State for the unnecessary loss of a single animal would more than provide for an adequate veterinary corps.

During camp the veterinary surgeon's duties embrace the entire veterinary supervision of the brigade, which includes the frequent inspection of stables and horses, prevention and cure of disease, the dispensing and administration of all medicines and dressings. At the expiration of the tour of duty he should provide a veterinarian to be present with each command in case of accident or sickness, until such time as the animals are safely returned to their home post.

Considerable saving could be made on hay, grain and straw if purchased in bulk, and issued to the different commands on the basis of a fixed ration. A large saving was made by the artillery staff in this way during the present year. These duties cannot all be attended to in a creditable manner, owing to the inadequate force.

Blanks. — The blanks, arranged by my predecessor, have proved of value in systematizing the work of medical officers and this office; while modelled after those in use by the army, they are so modified as to meet the wants of a State service. Many requests for sets have come from sister States, which have been promptly granted.

Inspections. — A careful medical inspection of each encampment has been made, and of the equipment of each medical officer. Reports of these inspections have been sent to each commanding officer, the inspector general, and a copy retained in this office. Having made some of the inspections last year as acting surgeon general, it was pleasant to find a steady improvement.

Reports. — A report following each tour of duty is expected from the senior medical officer of each organization, and twice yearly (July and December) a property return from all. These have been carefully made out, and, with but few exceptions, promptly rendered.

State Camp Ground. — The hospital building needs some slight repairs, and water should be introduced. This is a want felt also by the Ambulance Corps, whose quarters are close by, and who have been obliged to go outside for a supply. Another bath house for the artillery and cavalry is much needed, and should be built. An arrangement should be made by which patients in the hospital may be supplied with food, and not be dependent upon their own organizations ; they could be supplied by the same caterer as the Ambulance Corps, if funds were available to pay him. Bathing facilities for the officers stationed at State and brigade headquarters would add greatly to their comfort.

Rations at Camp. — As the law now provides “ that the Commander-in-Chief at his discretion may order rations issued to troops on duty and the cost of the same be deducted from the pay of troops,” I would recommend that this be done, in the interest of economy to the troops, and saving them from much unnecessary illness by the elimination of many articles of diet which are injurious, but are now found at most of the messes. I am informed that a ration, not that of the army, but one suitable and sufficiently varied, can be furnished for $1.15 a day, per capita, when eight hundred or more are to be fed. I desire most heartily to second and renew the recommendation of General Burrell, that all alcoholic beverages be excluded, by order, from the quarters both of officers and enlisted men.

Physical Examination of Recruits. — Voluntary examinations of recruits are maintained in some commands ; to secure the greatest efficiency of our State troops, such examinations should be mandatory with all, and I so recommend. Whether medical officers should receive compensation for making them is a mooted question ; under existing conditions, a small per capita fee seems desirable.

Library. — The books found in this office have been carefully arranged, and quite a number of special interest to medical officers have been added. Through the courtesy of the secretary of State and others, a complete file of the reports of the Adjutant General and surgeon general has been secured. From the surgeon general of the army, reports of his office since 1875, and other valuable publications, issued by the general government, have been received.

School for Medical Officers. — One session has been held, presided over by Major Devine, surgeon of the Ninth Infantry. The valuable and interesting papers which were read and discussed have been printed by the Adjutant General and issued in circular form, for the information of the militia.

Number of Medical Officers. — The change in formation, by which a regiment has three battalions, and these liable to be on separate duty, makes it desirable that each regiment should have three medical officers. I therefore recommend that another assistant surgeon be given to each regimental organization having three battalions ; and also that the battalion organizations of artillery and cavalry should, as formerly, each have an assistant surgeon.

I renew the recommendations of my predecessors, that assistant surgeons after five years of service be given the rank of captain.

Tenure of Office. — One of my predecessors, General Kittredge, recommended that a medical staff corps be organized. For a militia service such a corps would, in my opinion, be a great mistake; medical officers should continue, as now, to be regimental or organization officers, but their tenure of office should be dependent only upon good behavior and efficient service. First appointments should be made only to the lowest grade, and promotions by selection from those already in the service. Applicants for a medical position in the militia might be examined by the Board of Medical Officers, and a list of those found qualified for appointment be kept by the surgeon general. A commanding officer having the appointment of an assistant surgeon should have the right to have the Board examine any candidate he might desire to appoint. I recommend that the necessary changes in the law be made, that tenure of office be solely dependent upon good behavior and efficient service.

My thanks are due to the medical officers for the cordial support which they have rendered me, and for the kindly way in which they have received suggestions and criticisms.

The Commonwealth is to be congratulated that men of such ability as are its present medical officers can be found to enter its service, notwithstanding the uncertain tenure of their office, the want of any system of promotion, or increased rank, for years of devoted service.

To Major General Dalton and to Colonel Capelle I am under obligations for many kindly offices and friendly advice.

To Your Excellency I am indebted for the interest you have manifested in the work of this department.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully,

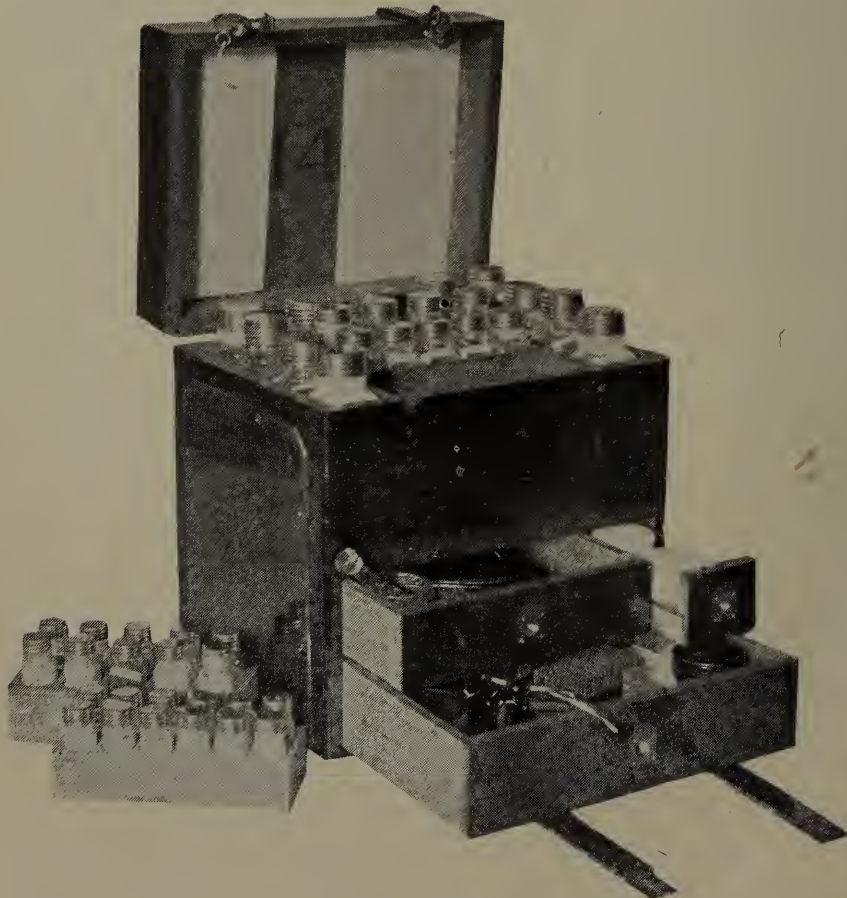

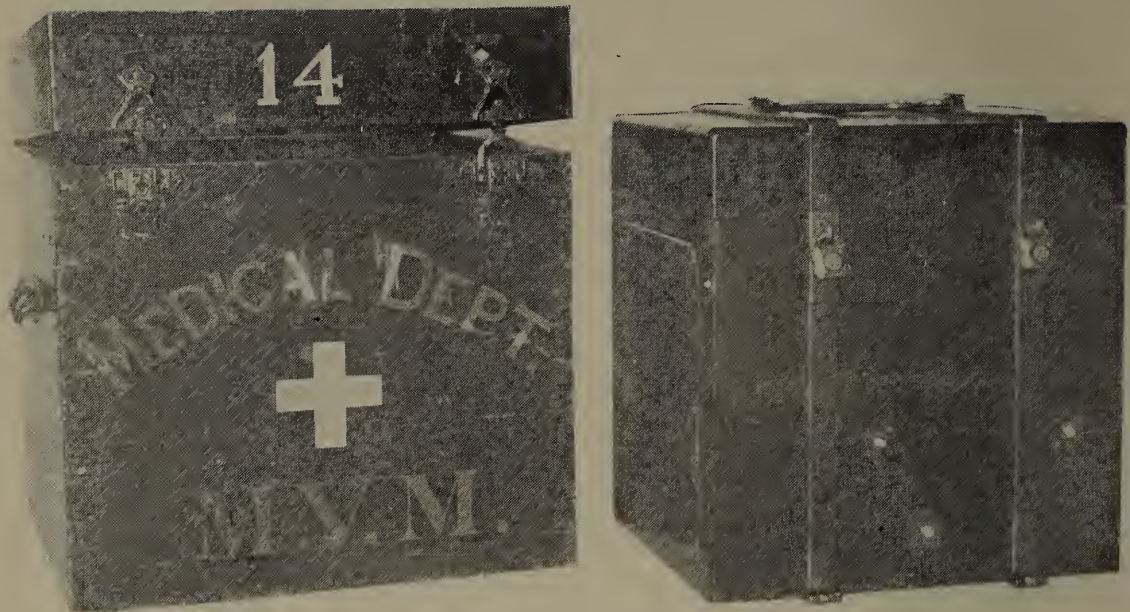

Your obedient servant,

EDWARD J. FORSTER,
Surgeon General.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,

SURGEON GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, May 17, 1895.

CIRCULAR No. 1.

I. Senior medical officers of organizations will make requisitions for medicine chests and supplies for the annual tour of camp duty through medical channels direct to this office without delay. Requisitions should be in this office one week before the tour of duty.

II. Medical officers will take to camp all property issued by this department, including books of record, etc. (written up to date), to be ready for inspection.

III. Medical directors and surgeons of the Corps of Cadets and Naval Brigade will be furnished the emergency chest, meteorological instruments and disinfectants on requisition direct to this office.

IV. In every case of a soldier arriving in camp unfit to properly perform his duty, the surgeon will notify his commanding officer, on Form No. 13, of the facts, and at once send a duplicate through medical channels to this office.

V. Medical officers will remember that they are personally responsible for property in their charge; they will request their commanding officers to furnish necessary guards.

VI. A commissioned medical officer will at all times be present with each organization.

VII. Hospital stewards will not treat or prescribe for any cases of sickness except under the immediate supervision of a commissioned medical officer.

VIII. Attention is called to the necessity of promptly forwarding to this office Form No. 16, fully filled out in all cases of severe illness or injury occurring on the camp ground. This applies to civilians as well as to members of the militia.

CIRCULAR No. 3.

The attention of medical officers is called to the following letter and programme, just received at this office : —

[COPY.]

WAR DEPARTMENT, SURGEON GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, Nov. 16, 1895.

Gen. E. J. FORSTER, Surgeon General of Massachusetts, State Capitol, Boston, Mass.

SIR : — I have the honor, by direction of the Surgeon General, to forward you the enclosed programme of the coming session of the Army Medical School, which has just been published.

Referring to communications from the former Surgeon General, State of Massachusetts, General Burrell, in regard to the admission of medical officers of the volunteer militia to the school, the Surgeon General would most heartily favor such a proposition, but it is proper to point out that, as you will see from the printed programme, much of the instruction given at the school would not be applicable to the needs of your service. The spaces for students in the pathological and chemical laboratories are entirely filled by our own student officers, nor would such instruction be specially desirable for gentlemen of the volunteer militia, since similar instruction could be obtained more conveniently in Boston.

If any medical officer of your service desires to avail himself of any part of this instruction that is available for him, such as the lectures and instruction in hospital corps drill and first aid, his application, approved by you, will be submitted to the Secretary of War by the Surgeon General, cordially approved.

The lecture rooms of the school are always open to officers of your service who may chance to be in the city, and they will be very welcome.

Very respectfully,

C. H. ALDEN,
Assistant Surgeon General, U. S. Army.

REPORTS OF MEDICAL OFFICERS.

---

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BRIGADE, M. V. M.,
BOSTON, Oct. 9, 1895.

Brig. Gen. EDWARD J. FORSTER, Surgeon General of Massachusetts.

SIR:—I have the honor to forward to you the reports of the medical officers of First, Second and Sixth Infantry, also of the First Light Artillery and Troop F, Cavalry, First Brigade M. V. M.

The tour of duty of the First Brigade at Framingham, June 4 to 8 inclusive, from my stand-point was a great success.

After the first day the weather for work was all that could be desired.

There was very little sickness. The sanitary conditions of the camp were good, I might say first class, the regimental quarters being kept clean. There might be an improvement in the cleanliness of some of the sinks.

The order and discipline of the men of the whole command was something of which any officer of the brigade should be proud. I give this opinion from experience with good men in active campaigning. Order and discipline have much to do with the health of men while doing military duty, and the discipline of the First Brigade had much to do with the health of the command.

My duties while in camp were made very pleasant by the universal kindness of the medical staff.

I am, most respectfully, your obedient servant,

ROBERT A. BLOOD,
*Lieutenant Colonel and Medical Director,
First Brigade, M. V. M.*

HEADQUARTERS SECOND BRIGADE, M. V. M.,
BOSTON, MASS., July 31, 1895.

Brig. Gen. EDWARD J. FORSTER, Surgeon General of Massachusetts.

GENERAL: — I have the honor to submit the following report of the medical department of the Second Brigade, M. V. M., during the encampment at South Framingham, from the 22d to the 27th of July, 1895.

The weather during the week was all that could be desired. With the exception of a light shower on Monday, 22d, no rain fell until Saturday, 27th, and then not for some time after all the troops had left camp. The nights were cool, and the days not too warm for good military work.

Weather observations were taken three times a day, by the brigade hospital steward, Dr. William Bryant. The highest temperature recorded was 85°, the lowest 61°, and the mean average for the five days was about 70.6°.

The new cage for the meteorological instruments is very neat, compact and convenient, and a great improvement over the old one in looks, and also for the safe-keeping of the instruments when in use.

The health of the brigade was excellent, as shown by the following summary report: —

Fifth Regiment Infantry, whole number sick and excused from a part or the whole duty for the five days, nineteen. Two of these men were discharged for physical disability before the close of this tour of duty, one for "mitral obstruction following articular rheumatism, the other developed hernia on Friday," and was sent home for treatment.

The Ninth Regiment reported one officer disabled by kick from a horse and two enlisted men excused from duty by reason of illness; about fifty men were treated during the week for minor ailments, incident to camp life.

The surgeon of the Eighth Regiment reported none excused from duty by reason of sickness for the entire five days.

Battery A, Light Artillery, reported eleven sick during the week; one, however, was a musician, he was sent to brigade hospital for treatment, next morning he was so much improved, and there being no arrangement for food for convalescents in this hospital, he was returned to quarters and later to duty.

The First Battalion Cavalry, but six men excused from duty by reason of injury or sickness during the week. A total of one officer and thirty-eight enlisted men excused from duty in the brigade during this tour of duty, — a much smaller number than for many years past.

This healthy condition in camp was doubtless due in part to the weather, but largely to the yearly improvement in the class and quality of men enlisted, and especially so in the new recruits to our State militia this year.

SANITARY AND POLICING.

I made a careful inspection of camp between 9 and 10 o'clock A.M. daily, accompanied by the surgeons. I found no tendency among the various officers on duty to draw dividing lines, each organization appearing to assist the other in having the policing thoroughly done, and in consequence the grounds were at all times kept very neat and clean. The grounds around the kitchens and mess houses were especially well kept, due in part, at least, to the fact that one caterer was employed by a majority of the companies, and to his willingness to coöperate with the officers in preventing the servants from throwing swill and dishwater upon the ground. The washing places, after Tuesday, were not used for dumping purposes, and therefore were kept in much better condition than in former years. The bath house in the rear of the Fifth Regiment was well patronized. I would in this connection suggest that a similar bath house be erected in a convenient place for the use of the mounted troops.

The sinks, used by the officers and enlisted men of the line were not kept in as good condition as last year, owing to the lack of a proper supply of copperas. Men with teams from the arsenal came around with dry earth three times a day, as usual, but I found it quite impossible to get the copperas until Friday, and then it was thrown into the vaults dry, instead of dissolving it and pouring the solution over the excrement before the loam is put in. It should also be thrown upon the walls of the vaults, especially at each end, where the urinals are.

As soon as the reports of the surgeons are all in, I will forward a copy of them to your office.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

FREEMAN C. HERSEY,
*Lieutenant Colonel and Medical Director,
Second Brigade, M. V. M.*

WILLIAM BRYANT, Brigade Hospital Steward,
Observer.

BROOKLINE, MASS., Aug. 1, 1895.

Lieut. Col. FREEMAN C. HERSEY, Medical Director, Second Brigade.

SIR:—In accordance with your suggestion to prepare a special report on bathing facilities for troops at the State camp, South Framingham, I have the honor to submit the following.

The present facilities consist of a small building containing stalls provided with wooden wash tubs. Water is piped to the bath house from a pond, and enters the tubs through rubber hose pipe. Ex-Surg. Gen. H. L. Burrell, then medical director, First Brigade, who secured for the troops this bath house, intended it only as an experiment, to determine whether or not bathing facilities would be appreciated. The almost tropical weather in which the two brigades are obliged to perform camp duty keeps the present inadequate and primitive bath house in constant use. That more commodious and improved facilities should be provided, at both ends of the camp ground, that the mounted troops also may share the benefits, should be, it seems to the writer, the logical outcome of General Burrell's experiment.

It is found that the best modern arrangement for baths for troops requires the abolition of tubs and the adoption of the shower bath, or, as it is termed, the "rain bath," comparatively little known in this country, but the advantages of which are so obvious that its rapid and successful general introduction may confidently be predicted; in fact, New York and Boston have recently begun to introduce the system as the best one for their free public baths.

One feature of their construction is novel and of considerable importance, i.e., the inclined angle at which the shower is placed, the object being to avoid a vertical stream striking the head of the bather. Among the advantages of the rain bath over the tub bath are the following:—

It saves much valuable time in taking a bath, so a given number of stalls will accommodate a greater number of men.

The tonic and mechanical effect of the shower is superior to that of the tub bath.

The body of the bather does not come in contact with soiled water or surfaces, thus preventing the possibility of communicating disease.

It economizes water, the shower consuming but from three to five gallons per minute, while the tub bath requires forty-five to sixty gallons.

The first general use of rain baths was made in German military barracks. Pettenkofer's "Handbook of Hygiene" states that experiments with tub baths for soldiers proved unsuccessful, and his conclusion was that the rain bath was the best adapted to the needs of the military service.

In constructing rain baths the floors of the building should be made of some impervious material, e.g., Portland cement, and the floors of the bathing stalls should be sunk in the form of a basin from four to six inches deep, with rounded angles, to serve for foot baths; a short stand pipe is used for plug and overflow.

It is not proposed to use any hot water in the rain baths at the State camp, but each bather could be furnished a little cheese-cloth bag of powdered soap. Each stall would be provided with a door, to fasten inside, clothes hooks and a cuspidor. It is believed the present bath house might be altered at reasonable expense, and enlarged, and so made adequate for half a brigade; its distance, however, from the other end of the field, makes it advisable to locate a second bath house at some point more accessible to the mounted troops, who now complain of their lack of bathing facilities.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

H. LINCOLN CHASE,
First Lieutenant and Assistant Surgeon, Fifth Regiment Infantry, M. V. M.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST CORPS CADETS, M. V. M.,
BOSTON, July 22, 1895.

Brig. Gen. EDWARD J. FORSTER, Surgeon General of Massachusetts.

GENERAL:—I have the honor to submit the following report of the medical department of the First Corps of Cadets during the encampment at Hingham, from the 13th to the 20th of July, inclusive.

The weather during three days was disagreeable. Fogs in the early morning, with occasional showers during the day and a low evening temperature, made a marked contrast with the good weather which the corps has usually had, and which prevailed during the other days of the camp. The meteorological observations, a record of which is enclosed, were taken by Asst. Surg. Charles M. Green. The mean average of the thermometer for the week was 67.29, — a lower average than has prevailed for many years.

The health of the command was good, although the number of calls on the medical department for slight ailments was much greater than usual, owing to the dampness and cold of the weather during a part of the week.

A daily morning inspection of the camp was made, in company with the officer of the day. The dietary for the day was examined. The food was, as usual, simple in character and well cooked.

In accordance with General Orders No. 6, A. G. O., privates were detailed by the company commanders as litter bearers. These details reported daily at 12 o'clock, except on one day when the weather did not permit, and on another day when special work ordered by the commanding officer prevented. Instruction was given by Assistant Surgeon Green. Absence of some of the men, owing to guard detail and other special work, which necessarily prevented any regular attendance, rendered any very practical result from such attempt at instruction being obtained.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WILLIAM L. RICHARDSON,

Observer.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND CORPS CADETS, M. V. M.,
SALEM, Aug. 20, 1895.

Brig. Gen. EDWARD J. FORSTER, Surgeon General of Massachusetts.

GENERAL:—I have the honor to forward the following as the report of the medical department of the Second Corps of Cadets, M. V. M., for the week of August 5–10 inclusive, 1895.

Monday, August 5, was the fall drill, and the remainder of the week the annual encampment.

The health of the command was excellent, in fact, it was without exception the best since my connection with the corps as surgeon. Only three cases of heat prostration during the whole week; not one of these proved to be at all serious, all three being able to do full duty in a short time.

For the first time, and in accordance with General Order No. 6, this battalion had company bearers appointed to act as an ambulance corps, and the medical department of this command feel proud of their work for the week. Every day, for from one-half to one hour, these men were drilled in the exercises and duties required of them as company bearers. Lectures were given by the surgeon and the assistant surgeon, and drills by the hospital steward. These sixteen men were very enthusiastic, and eight of the number already have the emergency corps badge; the rest are anxious to secure the same, and will just as soon as they can hear the remaining lectures and pass the required examination.

This year showed a decided improvement over any other as regards the condition of the grounds in and about the camp.

The garbage casks were also an innovation, and when removed every day served to keep sweet and clean that portion of the cook house area.

The building of the ice house this year proved to be a wise procedure.

The water supply was, as last year, excellent, the purity of the water and the abundant quantity of the same being sufficient for all demands.

The food, both as regards the quality and quantity, was all that could be desired.

The sinks, disinfected this year by the copperas solution, were a decided improvement over any former year.

The weather throughout the week was all that could be desired, and the meteorological report is enclosed with this report.

I desire to call attention to a few recommendations:—

1. That the red brassards for the Second Corps of Cadets be edged with white, so that they can be seen better when worn on the red coat.

2. That racks be provided for airing the mattresses, as, when piled up, as is now the practice, only the top one gets airing.

3. That bathing be compulsory, and that a certain time be given to the men for this purpose.

I have the honor to be your obedient servant,

BENJ. R. SYMONDS,

BENJ. R. SYMONDS, Major and Surgeon, Second Cadets, Observer.

HEADQUARTERS NAVAL BRIGADE, M. V. M.,
SOUTH ARMORY, BOSTON, Aug. 19, 1895.

SIR: — I have the honor to submit the following medical report of the tour of duty performed by the Naval Brigade, M. V. M., July 29 to Aug. 3, 1895.

The brigade was quartered on the receiving ship "Wabash" and the monitor "Passaic," at the Charlestown Navy Yard, the enlisted men sleeping in hammocks on the "Wabash." It was intended to send two divisions on each of the first four evenings down the harbor to camp for the night on one of the islands, but on account of the weather this was done on two nights only. A medical officer accompanied each expedition.

On Wednesday the Second Battalion went to sea in United States steamship "Raleigh," for target practice. Both assistant surgeons and the apothecary were detailed for duty on this occasion.

The messing arrangements were the same as last year, being under the management of the equipment yeoman, a professional caterer. After two years' experience it seems safe to pronounce this plan an unqualified success, an abundance of wholesome, well-cooked food being provided, at a low price, — less than one dollar a day per man.

Being quartered on national vessels, the sanitary arrangements were of course beyond our control, but I believe they were in every way satisfactory.

The bathing facilities were excellent, the men being allowed by the commandant to bathe morning and evening at the farther end of the yard.

The sick bay of the "Wabash" was placed at our disposal. The baymen, one from each of the eight divisions, reported at sick call, and were instructed in first aid, etc., by the assistant surgeons.

This tour of duty was, medically speaking, almost entirely devoid of interest. There were no accidents and very little sickness indeed, and that, for the most part, of trivial character, only two men being put on the binnacle list during the week.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GARDNER W. ALLEN,
Surgeon, Naval Brigade, M. V. M.

To the Surgeon General.

HEADQUARTERS AMBULANCE CORPS, M. V. M.,
BOSTON, August, 1895.

Brig. Gen. E. J. FORSTER, Surgeon General.

SIR:—I have the honor to report that, in accordance with permission received from State headquarters, the Ambulance Corps did a full day's duty on the occasion of the Knights Templar parade on the 27th of August. The corps was divided into small detachments, and placed at stations along the line of march. The day's duty was in every way satisfactory. There were attended during the day by the different stations seventy individuals. These cases were generally cases of slight attacks of heat-exhaustion; nevertheless, there were a number of severe cases, including one fracture of the skull, one fracture of both bones of the leg, two cases of fracture of the clavicle, two fractures of bones of the arm, two cases of apoplexy, three of epilepsy, etc. The services rendered were so highly appreciated by the recipients that in three cases the men on duty were offered a ten-dollar bill by the injured man. The money was in all cases declined by the men to whom it was offered. The corps has also been presented with a gold medal by one of the visiting Knights Templar, as a token of his appreciation of the services rendered to the Knights on that day.

Yours respectfully,

MYLES STANDISH,

Brig. Gen. E. J. FORSTER, Surgeon General.

SIR:—I have the honor to report that the Ambulance Corps performed its annual drill on October 7 at Lowell.

The entire command arrived on the South Common, where the day's duty was done, at 10 A.M. The morning hours were devoted to pitching, striking and packing the hospital tents. This was done a number of times. As the corps has never had any practice in this work except on two occasions before, I deemed it best to devote its whole forenoon to it.

The mid-day meal was taken on the field. In the afternoon there was an exemplification of the entire machinery of caring for the wounded behind the fighting lines. Wounded men were placed among the trees on the hill on the north side of the Common, the supposition being that a charge had been made up the hill, and the line of battle had passed over the hill and gone beyond. A dressing station was established in the hollow between two hills, for protection from stray bullets coming from the battle beyond. Squads of litter men went out up the slope and brought in the wounded. First dressings were applied under the charge of Lieutenant Bell at the dressing station ; the wounded were then placed in the ambulance and taken to the rear, where they were delivered to the field hospital. Here Lieutenant Rolfe had an operating table spread under a tent fly, and permanent dressings were applied to all the cases, and the patients transferred to beds in the hospital tent adjoining.

It was the most instructive day's duty the corps has ever performed, and the work itself was done in a manner to please a critical observer.

The Boston division left Lowell at 6.30 on the return trip.

Respectfully,

MYLES STANDISH,

CONVENTION OF ASSOCIATION OF MILITARY SURGEONS OF THE UNITED STATES,

AT BUFFALO, N. Y., MAY, 1895.

SURGEON GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, 14 June, 1895.

SIR:—I have the honor to report that, in compliance with Special Order No. 62, c. s., I represented the medical department of the militia at the fifth annual meeting of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States, at Buffalo, on the 21st, 22d and 23d of May.

Fifteen of our medical officers are active members of the association; of this number, there were present, besides myself: Maj. Giles W. Bryant, surgeon Eighth Infantry; Capt. Myles Standish of the Ambulance Corps; Lieut. O. J. Brown, assistant surgeon Second Infantry; Lieut. H. L. Chase, assistant surgeon Fifth Infantry; and Lieut. R. E. Bell of the Ambulance Corps.

Papers were read by Captain Standish and Lieutenants Brown and Chase; these will appear in the printed proceedings of the association. All the papers were valuable, and well received. That of Captain Standish, entitled "Color the canvas of hospital tents," called attention to the deleterious effect upon the eyes of patients caused by the glare of the white canvas of which the hospital tents are made. "Effect and treatment of heat and sun-strokes at camp of instruction," was read by Lieutenant Brown, and "Measures for the prevention and suppression of dangerous contagion in garrison and in the field," was read by Lieutenant Chase.

The value of these meetings, bringing together military surgeons from all parts of the Union, including national guardsmen, officers of the regular army and navy, can hardly be over-estimated.

The members of the regular services acknowledge the benefit derived from meeting their confrères of the militia; and, if such be the case, how much more can the militia surgeons learn from those whose life work is military sanitation. To the surgeon generals of the different States the benefit of learning from each other how each State maintains its medical department is great, for by comparison of methods new ideas are gained.

An invitation was extended to the association to meet in Boston in 1896; but, as the new president was the surgeon general of Pennsylvania, it was decided to meet in Philadelphia, leaving Boston for a later time.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

EDWARD J. FORSTER,

Surgeon General.

Maj. Gen. SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General.

REPORT OF THE JUDGE ADVOCATE GENERAL.

JUDGE ADVOCATE GENERAL'S OFFICE,
BOSTON, Dec. 27, 1895.

Maj Gen. SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General, State House, Boston.

GENERAL:—I have the honor to submit my report for the current year.

William H. Ruddick, first lieutenant, Battery A, was tried before me upon charges and specifications preferred by Capt. Dexter H. Follett, Battery A, and my report and recommendations thereon have been filed with you.

Pursuant to orders directing me to investigate the condition of Battery A, in accordance with recommendations made by Gen. Benjamin F. Peach, Jr., for the purpose of ascertaining the cause of the unsatisfactory condition and lack of harmony prevailing in said battery, I held numerous sessions and examined extensively the affairs of the company, and made my report thereon to you.

Lieut. Frank B. Parsons, Company D, Naval Brigade, was tried before me upon charges and specifications preferred by Capt. John W. Weeks, Naval Brigade, and my findings of facts in relation thereto were reported to you.

In compliance with Special Orders No. 72, an investigation relative to the accidental shooting of John J. Donohue at the burial services of the late General Cogswell, in Salem, was made by me, and my report filed with you.

The court-martial proceedings against John Holland, Company D, Battalion of Cavalry, were sent to me for review, and my report thereon has been made and sent to you.

Very respectfully,

EDGAR R. CHAMPLIN,
Judge Advocate General.

BOARD OF MILITARY EXAMINERS.

STATE HOUSE, BOSTON, Dec. 31, 1895.

Maj. Gen. SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General of Massachusetts.

GENERAL: — I have the honor to submit the following report of the transactions of the Board of Military Examiners for the year ending Dec. 31, 1895.

The Board has held fourteen meetings during the year. The total number of examinations was eighty-nine; of these, eighty-one were approved by the Board upon first examination, five were conditionally passed to reappear and upon subsequent examination were approved, three were rejected.

Forty-six of the entire number were officers who had previously appeared before the Board for examination for a lower grade.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

BENJ. F. PEACH, JR.,
Brigadier General, President of Board.

CHATTANOOGA AND CHICKAMAUGA.

BOSTON, Oct. 1, 1895.To His Excellency the Governor and Honorable Council.

I have the honor to submit the following report of the trip of the Massachusetts delegation to Chattanooga and Chickamauga, in accordance with Resolve 114 of the Legislature of 1895.

In accordance with the order of your honorable body, passed June 13, 1895, I took charge of the arrangements for the delegation. Many letters and notices were sent, and personal interviews held, and the final arrangements completed and arranged in book form for the convenience of the delegation.

The party left Boston on the afternoon of September 16, at 5.10, for Fall River, taking train on the morning of the 17th instant for Chattanooga, where they arrived during the morning of September 18, and were quartered at the Read House.

On the afternoon of September 18 the delegation proceeded in carriages to Orchard Knob, and dedicated the monument erected by the State to the memory of Massachusetts men who fell in the battles around Chattanooga. The monument was decorated with flowers and flags. His Excellency delivered a most eloquent address, and presented to the regimental associations of the Second and Thirty-third Massachusetts Volunteers one each of the silk flags that decorated the monument. They were given in charge of the delegates of those organizations, to be deposited, on their return home, with the president of each association.

September 19 the delegation proceeded in carriages to Chickamauga, and took part in the ceremonies of dedication of the National Military Park.

September 20 the delegation took part in the parade at Chattanooga, and left for return trip at 8 that evening.

September 21 the delegation made a short stop at Natural Bridge and Luray Caverns, in West Virginia, and arrived at midnight in Washington, D. C. After a carriage ride about the city, the delegation left at 11 A.M. for New York, arriving at the Fall River boat at 4.30, and reaching Fall River in the early morning of the 23d instant. Here they were received and handsomely entertained by the city authorities. The delegation reviewed the First Regiment of Infantry, M. V. M., which was performing its fall field day in Fall River, and arrived in Boston in the evening.

The following property, purchased for the trip, has been turned over to the quartermaster general's department: 1 State silk flag; 1 dress coat, infantry (made for color-bearer); 1 black helmet, infantry (made for color-bearer).

The two silk flags which were used to decorate the monument at Chattanooga, and which were presented by His Excellency to the Second and Thirty-third Regimental Associations, are in the hands of said associations.

Schedule attached, marked "A," gives the names of the delegates who went to Chattanooga. Those marked with a star were not present.

All correspondence and papers connected with the trip are on file in this office.

I desire to express my thanks to the entire delegation for many courtesies, and their efforts to well represent the old Commonwealth.

Respectfully submitted,

SAMUEL DALTON,
Adjutant General.

Mr. A. J. Simmons, Agent Baltimore & Ohio System, will have charge of transportation.

REPORT OF THE INSPECTOR GENERAL OF RIFLE PRACTICE.

OFFICE OF INSPECTOR GENERAL OF RIFLE PRACTICE,
BOSTON, Dec. 19, 1895.

Maj. Gen. SAMUEL DALTON,
Adjutant General, Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

GENERAL:—I have the honor to submit herewith the report covering the operations of this department for the season of range work closing October 31, and for the year closing Dec. 31, 1895.

DEPARTMENTAL ORDERS.

The routine of the year has followed, in the main, the lines laid down in 1894. The few deviations from former methods that were considered advisable will be found noted, under their respective headings, in the body of this report. The orders and circulars bearing upon this department and its work were as follows:—

General Order No. 1 (paragraph IV.), dated January 11, corrected a transposition of figures in the report of this department for 1894. General Order No. 2, January 11, published the general provisions for the rifle work of the year. Circular, February 9, announced the conditions of a voluntary revolver competition for commissioned and non-commissioned officers, held at the South Armory, Boston, March, 12, 13. Circular, March 9, published the target assignments at Walnut Hill, together with the rules governing military firing upon that range. General Order No. 5 (paragraphs XIX., XX.), April 27, laid down regulations for the use of the State range at South Framingham, and (subject to the option offered in paragraph XI., General Order No. 2, above noted) directed that regimental competitions be shot during the period of the several encampments. General Order No. 9, August 10, contained the details of officers for special duty at the State general competition of September 2, and announced the rules governing that event. Circular, September 2, gave specific information relating to the system adopted for the conduct of the State general competition. General Order No. 10 (paragraph VI.), September 3, prescribed the collar insignia (fatigue) to be worn by regimental and battalion inspectors of rifle practice.

The experience of my first year as chief of this department brought the conviction that a change in the method of computing the annual figure of merit was not only desirable but necessary. In my last report, wherein was given the efficiency rating of the entire State service for the years 1887-94, inclusive, the computation embraced not only the marksmen of record in the light artillery, ambulance corps, signal corps and corps of musicians attached to regimental and battalion headquarters, but also such marksmen as had been discharged from the service after qualification, but prior to the close of the target year. Furthermore, certain extra points of credit were given for such marksmen as had won individual prizes or had held places on winning teams.

By the conditions obtaining this year (General Order No 2, paragraph X.), the figure of merit is based upon the standing only of such marksmen of record as are actually in service on October 31, no credit being given for the large number of qualifications recorded by men subsequently discharged; permission to qualify was not extended to the light artillery, the ambulance and signal services or headquarters musicians; and the custom of adding extra points for individual distinction in matches was discontinued.

This departure from former conditions naturally has tended to lower the aggregate of the points representing the rifle efficiency of the force; yet the rating as now given is far more valuable, as indicative of the actual condition of the troops. The figures for the year just closed demonstrate that steady and persistent work has been done by the officers of this department; and it is worthy of note that the Eighth Infantry and First Corps Cadets, notwithstanding the more rigid requirements of the present system, have won higher ratings than those held by them in the year preceding.

As a matter of record, the figures of merit for the past nine years are given herewith, though the altered conditions of the season just closed render difficult any satisfactory comparison between the rating for 1895 and the results recorded in the years immediately preceding:—

	Points.
1887, . . . . .	5,193
1888, . . . . .	6,249
1889, . . . . .	7,121
1890, . . . . .	7,078
1891, . . . . .	8,096
1892, . . . . .	9,690
1893, . . . . .	12,716
1894, . . . . .	16,113
1895 (new rules), . . . . .	15,085

QUALIFICATIONS.

The degrees of proficiency prescribed for qualification in the several classes of marksmanship remain unaltered. Marksmen in the cavalry arm of the service are restricted (General Order No. 2, paragraph IV.) to the use of the carbine, and, as an offset to the limitations of that weapon, are allowed one point on each score at two hundred yards, and two points on each score at the mid-ranges. In 1894 cavalrymen were given the option of qualifying either with the infantry rifle or with the carbine, in the latter case being allowed one point only on each score at ranges beyond two hundred yards.

As noted in an earlier portion of this report, the qualifications of the year were confined to the infantry, cavalry, naval brigade and members of the staffs of the Commander-in-Chief and brigade commanders. By this limitation a considerable sum, formerly expended in ammunition, decorations, etc., for members of organizations not actually armed with the rifle or carbine, was made available for more practical use. At the same time the actual efficiency of the force as a whole was not appreciably lessened, since those debarred from qualifying by this innovation are not required, in the performance of their legitimate duties, to exhibit a proficiency with small-arms. Leaving out of consideration the portion of the force thus debarred from qualification, the records of the year show that 4,661 officers and men, or 84.95 per cent., were classed as marksmen of record on October 31. This would seem to be a satisfactory return for the time, energy and money expended in the province of this department.

COMPULSORY QUALIFICATION.

I feel compelled to renew my recommendation of last year, that qualification in at least the lowest grade of marksmanship be made compulsory. Granting the gratifying fact that by unremitting effort on the part of the officers of this department, supplemented by the invaluable assistance of the greater portion of the company commanders and subalterns of the line, a large percentage of the establishment yearly is qualified, it yet must be conceded that the best possible results have not been, nor can they be, attained under the present system.

Neither officers nor enlisted men are permitted to absent themselves from the drills required by law without incurring the only penalty to which recourse can be had, — discharge, for the “best interests” of the service; still less should they be permitted wilfully to neglect the all-important duty of fitting themselves for the intelligent and effective use of the weapons intrusted to their keeping. No company commander will continue to carry upon his rolls the name of a man so hopelessly awkward in his execution of the manual of arms as to lower the standing in drill of his company; yet it is a grim fact that officers may be found who are willing to retain in their commands men of absolute worthlessness from the stand-point of rifle efficiency. Elsewhere in this report I have, though most reluctantly, tabulated certain company scores which illustrate with startling distinctness the negligence of which portions of the force have been proved capable.

The troops are being instructed to-day in accordance with the latest drill regulations of the United States Army. Under those regulations the highest degree of intelligence and training is demanded not only from those in commission but also from the non-commissioned officers and privates. In the extended order drill, the combat system of to-day, the very essence of success lies in the unshaken self-reliance of every individual in the fighting line; and this indispensable element can be based on nothing else save the tried and proven control of each man over the weapon with which he is armed. To deploy for attack a company of unskilled marksmen, in these days of scientific warfare, is but to pave the way for inevitable discomfiture; to repel attack, with such material in hand, can be but an utter impossibility.

And if the second function of the State troops be considered, its status as the buttress on which rests secure the civil power of the Commonwealth, then none the less is the same skill with weapons required. The readiness of our militia to stand firm in the defence of law and order never has been questioned; its absolute ability to maintain that attitude ought to be rendered indisputable. A widespread knowledge that the military and naval forces of Massachusetts are, to a man, capable of making every bullet find its billet, would be worth more, as a wholesome deterrent to lawlessness, than volumes of prohibitory statutes.

If, in the matter of rifle qualifications, the present system of permitting men to use their discretion is to prevail in future, then

A critical analysis of these scores well may prove instructive. With the fact in mind that a “5” or a “4” actually represents the equivalent of a dangerous body wound, it is evident that the team of the Naval Brigade, with its opening round, would have put out of action ten of its opponents; the twenty shots of the first round by the combined infantry teams would have disposed of but three. Or, further (since a “5” may be taken as the exact equivalent of a fatal cranial wound), let it be assumed that the men were firing at an enemy protected by an epaulment, and exposing the head only; in that case the ten men of Company H, with an expenditure of one hundred rounds, would have killed twenty-eight of the enemy, while the twenty infantrymen taken for the purposes of this comparison would have accounted for but six, after firing two hundred rounds,—and even then, as is perfectly apparent from the evidence offered by the scores themselves, these six casualties would have been attributable purely to chance shots. Further comparison is needless. It must be seen, by even the most casual inspection of the above records, that a body of marksmen trained in the use of its weapon can confidently face odds of two — even of three — to one, provided its opponents are superior only in numerical strength.

The regulations for Massachusetts troops direct (paragraph 2344) that, in case of firing against rioters, pains shall be taken to make the fire effective only as against those who are actually engaged in the riot; further (paragraph 2346), the use of any ammunition save ball cartridge is prohibited; and, yet further (paragraph 2351), it is directed that any rioter seen to fire a shot, etc., shall be brought down, not by an indiscriminate volley, but by “a marksman, firing by order at that man.” It is pertinent to ask if a company of such marksmen as those whose scores are shown in the last two tables above would be apt to prove more destructive to the lawless mob immediately in their front, or to the innocent citizens upon the streets or in their houses, hundreds of yards away from the scene of trouble.

REGIMENTAL COMPETITIONS.

With three exceptions, — the Eighth and Ninth Regiments of Infantry and Second Corps Cadets accepting the option offered by General Orders No. 2, paragraph XI., — regimental and battalion competitions for company teams were held during the camp tour of the several commands. The summarized results will be found in the statistical appendix to this report; but it may be stated in this connection that the skill displayed by the eighty-eight competing teams gave satisfactory proof that, as a class, the company officers had devoted no little time and attention to the proper training of their men. It is a matter for regret that there were found exceptions to this broad general statement; but it is hoped that the officers of delinquent companies may realize their unenviable position, and see to it that in the competitions of the coming year their commands are in condition to achieve results that shall be at least above the plane of the ridiculous.

In the regimental competitions of 1894 the teams from the companies were made up of seven competitors; by the conditions prescribed in 1895 such teams were increased by three. This change proved of two-fold benefit, inasmuch as it offered a stronger incentive to practice by the enlisted men, in the hope of securing a coveted team position, and at the same time furnished a far more trustworthy basis for judging the actual shooting strength of the various companies.

The practice of conducting such competitions during the progress of encampments has certain advantages, of which the most evident is the considerable saving of the departmental fund, due to non-expenditure for transportation and extra-duty pay. On the other hand, the demands of routine camp work, together with other obvious causes, tend to lower the standard of matches shot under such conditions, and I shall arrange that the matches of the coming year shall be conducted as separate tours, with the legal pay and transportation allowance.

STATE GENERAL COMPETITION.

Under the provisions of General Order No. 9, the State general competition for 1895 was shot at Walnut Hill range, on Monday, September 2. Specific directions and rules for the conduct of the competition were embodied in a circular issued by this department on that date. The conditions of this year's competition did not differ materially from those of former seasons. Regimental and battalion teams, however, were increased in membership from twelve to fifteen (for reasons analogous to those leading to the increase in company teams, as before noted); the number of competitors to be mentioned in orders also was subjected to a like increase; the fifteen ranking scores by sharpshooters who never previously had won medals were recognized by individual decorations; a special competition was introduced for teams from the cavalry arm; and regimental inspectors were relieved from firing with their respective teams, to the end that they might more freely devote their attention to the general performance of their range duties.

The scores credited to the several competing teams as a result of this day's shooting are of such a high order of excellence as to call for official commendation. I invite your inspection of the detailed report appended, feeling that the figures therein exhibited prove most conclusively the present serviceable condition of the force. I regard the annual State general competition as a most valuable adjunct to the work of the target year, and think it gratifying that such keen interest in its result is shown by the commands of the State. I would, however, caution commanding officers against allowing the wholesome spirit of generous rivalry to become supplanted by the fierce desire to win at any cost. The attributes of the true sportsman are closely akin to those of the typical soldier; the sport itself should be held of more importance than the mere winning of the prize, however desirable that prize may be.

STATE AND LOCAL RIFLE RANGES.

The important provisions of section 90, chapter 367, Acts of 1893, are properly complied with by the civil authorities of the cities and towns within whose limits are stationed the units composing the military force of the State. No command is now able to plead insufficient range accommodations in extenuation of poor marksmanship. The ranges provided vary in degree from excellent to barely satisfactory, yet on any of them proper instruction in the elementary principles of rifle firing can be given. In my report of last year I stated that the authorities of the city of Boston had taken favorable action upon a petition having in view the securing of a modern and well-equipped range for the use of the large portion of the force stationed in that city; I now am gratified at being able to report that the sum of $125,000 has been appropriated for this purpose, and that it is probable that the coming year will see progress made upon this most desirable undertaking. Proper credit should be given to His Honor Mayor Curtis for the deep interest shown by him in this matter, and he should receive the assurance that such action on the part of those high in civil authority meets with due appreciation from those in the military service of the State.

Without again enumerating the reasons shown in my previous report, I must renew my recommendation that the State secure land for a model range, to be devoted to the uses of the establishment as a whole. It does not comport with the dignity of the service that State general competitions should be held upon civilian ranges, nor can proper freedom of action be enjoyed on such grounds. The new range, when secured, should be so situated as to permit of skirmishing practice with ball cartridge, and should afford opportunities for safe instruction in the important matter of volley firing.

CONDITION OF SMALL-ARMS.

Whether or not the small-arms in the hands of the troops are in a thoroughly serviceable condition is a matter of very vital interest in the operations of this department, since satisfactory shooting can be done only with accurate weapons, and the use of worn or injured rifles can result in nothing better than discouragement and disgust. It is true that the best of the rifles in the possession of a company commonly are employed in the instruction of the men; but this system has its vicious aspect, for every man should have his own particular rifle, and should be encouraged to become familiar with all its peculiarities, instead of being trained to shoot with one weapon, and then having another and a strange one issued for his permanent keeping. Knowing that, of the 6,330 Springfield rifles drawn from the government since 1876 (the date of discarding the Peabody, calibre .433"), no less than 3,900 (61 per cent.) had been drawn at periods prior to 1880, and therefore had been in service for a length of time varying from sixteen to twenty years, I directed commanding officers; when forwarding the reports for the target year, to state also the number of unserviceable rifles carried upon their property accounts on October 31. I respectfully invite your attention to the consolidated return appended, showing the number of rifles thus reported. It is true that the term "unserviceable" must not be construed as meaning that a rifle is in such ruinous condition as to call for the action of a condemning board; it means, however, that its accuracy is so severely impaired as to handicap heavily the efficiency of the man in whose hands it is placed. It will be noted that the infantry rifles are the only arms reported in poor condition; the cavalry drew their carbines in 1884, and thus are armed with comparatively new weapons, while the Lee rifles in the hands of the Naval Brigade were drawn as recently as 1893. I desire to express my appreciation of the quartermaster general's action in causing liberal issues of new rifles to be made during the past year, and I would recommend that the same policy be followed during the coming season, to the end that every man required to qualify himself for efficient service may be provided with a thoroughly reliable weapon for the accomplishment of that purpose.

THE SERVICE REVOLVER.

The officers and non-commissioned staff officers of the various commands have shown a commendable interest during the year in the matter of completing their equipment by the purchase of the regulation revolver. The subjoined table exhibits the revolvers owned by officers of the different organizations, as reported on October 31. The conditions governing revolver qualifications have not been changed since last year, and the report of the qualifications for 1895, published in the appendix to this report, will show what progress has been made in this branch of military marksmanship. In March last a competition was held over the revolver range of the South Armory, Boston, under the auspices of this department. Twenty-four officers and non-commissioned officers entered the match, and as an initial effort it was a pronounced success. Similar competitions will be arranged for the coming year, with a view to the further encouragement of practice with this effective weapon.

THE DEPARTMENTAL FUND.

The increased appropriation of the year past has proved sufficient, with proper economy, for the more pressing needs of the department. The allowance to companies has been made in proportion to their demonstrated efficiency. Under the system in effect in 1894, each company received 500 rounds of ball ammunition (practically equivalent to a cash allowance of $10), and on further requisition a money grant of $50 for the purchase of extra ammunition. By the method this year adopted no ammunition at all was issued, and the money allowance was fixed at the rate of $1.40 for each marksman of record borne upon the company rolls on October 31. The result of the new arrangement was the direct encouragement of qualifications, since the company which qualified its full complement of 61 officers and men received a cash allowance of $85.40 (an increase of $25.40 over the maximum allowance of the year preceding), while the company which, for example, qualified no marksmen at all, received what it had merited, — no allowance whatever.

The experience of 1894 leads me to believe that, with the same fund at my disposal during the season before me, I can meet in a proper way all reasonable demands made upon the resources of this department.

THE DEPARTMENT AND ITS OFFICERS.

In the main, I would repeat my comments on the scope of this department, made in my report of last year, again calling attention to the exceptional ability and indomitable perseverance demanded from those who would fill its subordinate positions alike with credit to themselves and to the service. No officer can perform his duties in this department without disproving the oft-quoted saying that staff officers in the volunteer service are intended rather for ornament than use. No commanding officer should for a moment forget that the inspector on his staff is commissioned to aid him in developing the full fighting strength of his command, nor should he allow this appointment, with its attendant responsibilities, to be held by any indifferent or incapable officer.

The statistics given in the later portion of this report will serve to show, in a certain degree, the amount of work, together with its relative effectiveness, that has been performed by the officers of the department within their several limits. Taken in its entirety, it furnishes a year's record of work faithfully done. The experienced eye will note the places where weakness has been developed, and to such places the attention of the inspectors of the department is called, to the end that the coming year may be marked by the correction of the errors detected in the experience of the year now closing.

I still feel that the usefulness of the department would be enhanced by the appointment of an assistant inspector general, ranking as major, upon the staff of the Commander-in-Chief; and I must again express my conviction that the officers of this department assigned to duty on staffs of brigade commanders are too far removed, both from the head of the department and from the troops of the line, to serve any end of more than moderate usefulness.

CLERICAL WORK OF THE DEPARTMENT.

The routine work of this office has required the customary and very considerable amount of clerical labor. During the season just closed there have been received 646 letters relating to the operations of the department; 923 letters, written in connection with matters of official business, have been mailed; and the usual large number of endorsements has been made upon the routine papers passing through the office. Both time and the most painstaking attention have been demanded by the preparation of the annual statistics of the department, a task involving the compilation of between 80 and 90 foolscap pages of tabulated figures.

THE ANNUAL STATISTICAL REPORT.

I would respectfully call your close attention to the appendix to this report. While frequent reference has been made to it in the preceding pages, it yet will repay a minute and close inspection, conveying, as it does, a broad general view of the year's rifle work on the part of the entire State force. By examining the relative standing of the regiments, battalions and companies, it will readily be noted to whom credit is due and to whom censure should be given.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

I desire to tender my sincere thanks to the following officers, whose services contributed so materially to render successful the State general competition of September last:—

Maj. G. H. Benyon, Fifth Infantry; Maj. T. F. Cordis, A. I. G. R. P., staff, First Brigade; Lieut. Com. G. W. Allen, surgeon, Naval Brigade; Capt. F. H. Appleton, First Corps Cadets; Capt. Philip Little, staff, Second Brigade; Lieut. E. P. Dodd, adjutant, Naval Brigade; Lieut. H. W. Sprague, signal officer of the Second Brigade.

My special acknowledgments are due to Maj. F. H. Briggs, A. I. G., staff, First Brigade, who for the tenth successive year assumed the onerous duties of chief statistical officer, and also to Lieut. W. A. Hayes, First Corps Cadets, to whom I am indebted for valuable personal services. I further would call favorable attention to the expeditious and satisfactory manner in which Lieut. A. C. Warren, paymaster, Fifth Infantry, performed the duties of his detail as mustering officer.

THE LATE COL. WILLIAM L. CHASE.

I cannot close this report without expressing, though most inadequately, my sense of the loss sustained by the service and by the Commonwealth in the death of Col. William L. Chase, inspector general of rifle practice from Jan. 8, 1891, to Jan. 3, 1894. A close student of military affairs, an officer fertile in ideas and energetic in the execution of them, he has left his impress on the service as a whole, and more especially upon this department, of which he served so worthily as chief.

For the second time, sir, I beg to assure you of my appreciation of the support and assistance for which this department is indebted to you; and personally I wish to express my thanks for the uniform courtesy and consideration with which our relations have been marked.

I have the honor to remain, sir,

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEORGE F. HALL,

Inspector General of Rifle Practice.

Sharpshooters of record, who have represented the State at Creedmoor, who may be mentioned in orders as the first fifteen, or who have won an individual trophy at the State match.

SHARPSHOOTERS CLASS (S. S.).

2 Scores of 22 out of a possible 25, at 200 yards.

2 " of 24 " " 25, at 500 "

FIRST CLASS MARKSMAN (1ST CLASS).

2 Scores of 21 out of a possible 25, at 200 yards.

SECOND CLASS MARKSMAN (2D CLASS).

THIRD CLASS MARKSMAN (3D CLASS).

2 Scores of 15 out of a possible 25, at 200 yards.

R. signifies that a marksman has qualified in a class lower than highest previously attained. Those whose names are in italics have failed to qualify in 1895.

REPORTS OF COMMANDING OFFICERS.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND BRIGADE, M. V. M.,
BOSTON, Aug. 1, 1895.

Maj. Gen. SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General State of Massachusetts.

GENERAL:—I have the honor to submit the following report of the tour of duty of this brigade at the State camp ground, South Framingham, July 23 to 27, 1895.

In accordance with Par. 10, General Orders No. 5, c. s., I assumed command of the camp ground on Saturday, July 20.

Detachments from the companies of the Fifth Regiment of Infantry arrived during the forenoon of Monday, and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon the annual rifle competition of this regiment took place.

The First Battalion of Cavalry, Maj. H. G. Kemp commanding, arrived upon the field at about the middle of Monday afternoon. Battery A, Light Artillery, Capt. W. D. Ewing, arrived at 6 o'clock of the same day, both organizations marching from Boston. Eleven companies of the Fifth Regiment of Infantry and nine companies of the Eighth Regiment of Infantry came into camp during the evening, so that at tattoo on Monday more than two-thirds of the brigade were in quarters on the field. The other organizations of the brigade, together with the detachment of the Ambulance Corps, reported promptly in accordance with orders.

The weather during the entire week was excellent, neither heat nor rain interfering in the least degree with the duties or comfort of the troops.

The health of the command was excellent; only a very small percentage was excused from duty at any time, and but few cases were admitted to the hospitals during the entire encampment.

Improvement was shown over previous years in guard duty, military courtesy, discipline, deportment, and also in arrangement of inside of tents, much that has been superfluous in former years having been eliminated.

Sanitary condition of camp was excellent. The absence of the large number of visitors that has usually been in camp on Wednesday and Thursday made it very easy to keep the grounds neat and clean. I believe the idea of restricting the public to Friday for visiting camp a good one. Besides the relief of extra policing, which is made necessary by the presence of a large number of visitors, the troops are relieved from the exercise of that courtesy and entertainment which it is desirable to show to friends if present, and which many people expect, notwithstanding the fact that the opportunities which the officers and men have for such purpose are very limited.

A very large number of visitors were present on Friday, but they were handled with ease, and cheerfully accommodated themselves to the requirements of the camp, and appeared to be well satisfied with the opportunities afforded them.

Promptness prevailed throughout the entire tour of duty. Officers and men did their full duty promptly and cheerfully. I congratulate the command on the very satisfactory manner in which the several duties were performed, as attested to by many visiting officers present competent to pass upon the same, and take pleasure in adding my appreciation of services faithfully rendered.

I renew my recommendation of previous years, that the troops encamp for six days' duty, instead of five, as now provided.

I also recommend that allowance be made for regimental rifle competition, so that the same shall not be required to take place at camp.

I have the honor to be,
Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
BENJ. F. PEACH, Jr.,
Brigadier General.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BRIGADE, M. V. M.,
BOSTON, June 28, 1895.

Maj. Gen. SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General State of Massachusetts.

GENERAL:—I have the honor to submit the following report of the encampment of the First Brigade at Framingham, June 4 to 8, 1895.

Pursuant to General Orders No. 5, c. s., A. G. O., I assumed command of the State camp grounds on Saturday, June 1, at 12 o'clock noon.

The First Battalion Light Artillery and Troop F, Cavalry, marched over the road, performing their one day's duty required of them as annual drill on Monday, June 3, Battery B marching from Worcester, Battery C from Lawrence and Troop F from Chelmsford, and prepared to bivouac at South Lincoln. On Monday afternoon, at your suggestion, Major Duchesney directed Troop F, Cavalry, to continue their march to South Framingham, and consequently they arrived in camp at about 8 o'clock P.M. on Monday.

Major Duchesney bivouacked with his battalion at South Lincoln, arriving in camp on the morning of Tuesday.

The three infantry regiments, the Signal and Ambulance Corps nearly all arrived in camp on Monday evening, and were ready to take up the regular routine of duty early Tuesday morning.

Guard was established at 8.30 o'clock P.M. on Monday, Company E, Sixth Regiment of Infantry, performing the camp guard duty, with Captain Valentine as officer of the day.

The weather on Tuesday, June 4, was heavy, and very little regular work was performed aside from guard mounting and general camp duties. On Wednesday the weather was more favorable for work, and every organization was employed to the best possible advantage.

In addition to the regular work, the rifle matches were shot in the morning by the Second and Sixth regiments.

At about 2.30 o'clock P.M. Colonel Parsons, commanding Sixth Regiment of Infantry, marched out, with his command, for practice in street and field work. The regiment, upon arriving at Brush Hill in Sherborn, immediately laid out their camp, built fires and cooked a ration, and performed other general camp duties, returning to the main camp late in the evening.

I take great pleasure in reporting that Maj. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, of the Regular Army, reviewed the brigade on the morning of this date, and I feel justified in saying that his presence in camp was greatly appreciated, and I also take pride in saying that I feel that the troops acquitted themselves creditably to the State.

On Thursday the First Regiment shot their rifle matches in addition to their regular work. Individual rifle practice was well conducted during the camp.

Thursday morning the Second Regiment of Infantry, and in the afternoon the First Regiment of Infantry, used the field and hill adjoining the arsenal for general instructions in outpost duty, extended order drill, as well as pitching shelter tents and preparing their meals on the march, which was sufficient to give every man general ideas that would be of value in case of an emergency call for troops. The outpost work was more satisfactory than formerly, and shelter tents were used to good advantage.

I heartily commend the troops for the disposition to make the best possible use of their time in camp. - They manifested a determination to profit by every means that would be of advantage to them and the State should they be needed for more active duty.

I have to express my appreciation and that of the entire command to the Commander-in-Chief for the pains he took to inform himself of the true condition of the brigade. I am sure that the command was encouraged by his extra time in camp, although short.

I also wish to express my obligations to the inspector's department, and to Lieutenant Colonel Miller of the United States Army, for the interest they manifested and suggestions made.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

B. F. BRIDGES,
Brigadier General.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST CORPS OF CADETS, M. V. M.,
BOSTON, July 22, 1895.

Maj. Gen. SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General of Massachusetts.

GENERAL: — I have the honor to report that my command went into camp on Saturday afternoon, July 13, and remained until Saturday, July 20. The duty of the 13th and 14th was performed by my order. Monday, the 15th, was the day of annual drill. The 16th to the 20th made the five days of camp duty according to law.

Since the encampment of last year the corps has purchased twelve acres of ground adjoining its previous purchase on the hill in rear of the camp, thus improving the backing of the rifle range, and giving more space for extended order drill. No material change has been made on the camp ground proper nor in the buildings thereon since last camp, because the land purchase absorbed all the money the corps could spare.

A gift of $2,500 for grading the camp ground proper was received while the corps was in camp, and will be used for that purpose in the next two months.

A revised edition of standing orders, copy of which is forwarded herewith, has been issued to the corps, and was an important factor in the conduct of the camp.

During the past year theoretical instruction has been given orally to meetings of officers and non-commissioned officers, and three papers have been read, — one by Capt. Andrew Robeson on extended order at one of these meetings, and two by the commanding officer at meetings of the corps.

The completion of the head house of the new armory has been of great benefit to the corps in many ways.

Recruit drills have been established under charge of lieutenants, assisted by a detail of non-commissioned officers, each detail performing this special duty during four months. No recruits have been allowed to drill with their companies until officially pronounced competent by the officer in charge. As a consequence, the companies were not hindered in their drills while in camp by the presence of uninstructed recruits, and the effect upon company and battalion drill was salutary.

In accordance with General Order No. 6, A. G. O., c. s., details of company bearers for litter drill were made; but it was impossible to hold these drills without interfering with more important duty. In my opinion, the instruction, besides being irksome to the men, was of doubtful utility; while the brassards ordered to be worn on the men's arms, broad scarlet bands, are not only unsightly, but I respectfully submit that in active service they would make the men conspicuous to the enemy, in violation of correct military principle. I therefore consider it my duty to make a respectful protest against the scarlet bands. I also believe that the instruction contemplated in General Order No. 6 can be better imparted in the armory during the winter than in camp, where the men have already to do all that can reasonably be asked of them.

The presence of Maj. Gen. Samuel Dalton as inspector general, and of Lient. Col. Marcus P. Miller, First United States Artillery, detailed by order of the War Department to observe the camp, not only gave the corps great pleasure, but added to the success of the tour by reason of valuable information that these accomplished officers were ever ready to impart.

His Excellency the Governor and Commander-in-Chief came to camp on the afternoon of July 16, spent the night, and reviewed the corps at 9.30 o'clock on the morning of the 17th, after which he departed. His visit, and the considerate attention he showed in passing a night with it, gave the corps much gratification.

His Honor the Lieutenant Governor visited the camp on the afternoon of July 19.

On the 17th the surgeon general made an official inspection of the camp, and passed the night with us. We were also favored with a visit from Brigadier General Sternberg, surgeon general of the United States Army.

On the 18th Col. O. H. Ernst, superintendent of the United States Military Academy, visited the camp.

The entire tour was the most successful duty I have ever seen the corps perform.

A table of attendance, showing the largest number the corps ever had present, is appended.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

THOMAS F. EDMANDS,

SALEM, Aug. 12, 1895.

Maj. Gen. SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General of Massachusetts.

GENERAL:—I have the honor to make the following report of the annual drill and encampment of this command for the year 1895.

The command left Salem by special train at 9 A.M., Monday, August 5, for Centennial Grove, Essex, where it went into camp and remained until the afternoon of Saturday, August 10, when it returned by special train to Salem.

The annual drill took place on Monday. Guard mounting followed immediately upon arrival in camp, and the regular routine of duty was entered upon at once.

His Excellency the Governor and Commander-in-Chief visited the camp and reviewed the corps on Friday, the 9th inst.

The weather throughout the week was pleasant, except for slight showers which did not interfere with camp routine.

Company team competition did not take place, owing to inadequate range facilities.

Discipline and military courtesy were good, and careful attention was given to the care of quarters.

The health of the command was excellent.

Maj. Gen. Samuel Dalton, inspector general of Massachusetts, and Lieut. Col. Marcus P. Miller, First United States Artillery, accompanied the corps from its armory and remained with it during the tour of duty; their presence was again a great pleasure to the corps.

The attendance, of which a table is appended, showed a good percentage present for duty.

I am, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

REPORTS OF COMMANDING OFFICERS.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH REGIMENT OF INFANTRY,
SECOND BRIGADE, M. V. M.,

BOSTON, Nov. 25, 1895.

Maj. Gen. SAMUEL DALTON.

ADJUTANT GENERAL : — I have the honor, in accordance with instructions from the office of the Adjutant General, to submit the following report of the annual drill of the Fifth Regiment at Newton, on October 10 of the current year.

The regiment, with the exception of companies B, C, F and M, embarked at the Boston & Albany Railroad station, the train leaving at the hour previously set, and reached Pine Grove station of the Falls branch of the Boston & Albany Railroad at Newton in ample season to begin the day's duty at 10 o'clock, the hour ordered. The plan of duty was that of manœuvres between two opposing detachments of the regiment, the largest detachment, consisting of the Second and Third battalions, under command of Lieutenant Colonel Whitney, the other detachment, consisting of the First Battalion, under command of its commander, Major Benyon.

The separate detachments left the train in good order, and Major Benyon immediately took up a position in the territory which had previously been engaged for the purpose of the manœuvres. His position occupied the slope of a wooded hill through which ran a road. The conception of the manœuvres was, that after Major Benyon's battalion had got into position the position should be inspected by the commanding officer, and criticised; that then Colonel Whitney's detachment should take up a position to attack Major Benyon's, and after it had been posted its position in turn should be inspected by the commanding officer.

This programme was carried out; Major Benyon's position was favorably commented upon, as was also Colonel Whitney's when it was finally made, although an error was made by the commander of the Second Battalion, in going into position, which was hardly excusable.

After both these positions had been inspected, Major Benyon was instructed to take another position in rear of his first, and was again inspected. This movement was followed by a corresponding movement by Lieutenant Colonel Whitney, whose position was again inspected. After a halt, in which rations were served, a third position was taken by Major Benyon's detachment and a third also by Colonel Whitney's. Blank cartridges were used during the manoeuvres incident upon the third positions.

After the manoeuvres were over, the regiment was assembled and marched to a field, where evening parade took place, and the regiment partook of substantial rations furnished by the city of Newton. After this the regiment was marched to West Newton, where it was reviewed at the city hall by His Honor Mayor Bothfield, members of the city government and many prominent citizens. At the conclusion of the review the regiment, with the exception of companies C and F, embarked for Boston, where it was dismissed.

The day's duty was carried out without accident, the behavior of the troops was of the best, and was warmly commended by the people of Newton. The attendance was not satisfactory in several of the companies, but of this the office of the Adjutant General has already been apprised, as I am aware from a copy of the report of Colonel Parker, A. I. G., who observed the day's operations, and to whom I am under obligations for his courteous performance of the duty assigned him.

I beg to state that in my judgment field exercises of this character are of much value to both officers and men, provided they are intelligently performed.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

WM. A. BANCROFT,

Colonel.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND REGIMENT INFANTRY,
FIRST BRIGADE, M. V. M.,

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 9, 1895.

Maj. Gen. SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General.

SIR:—I have the honor to submit the following report of the annual drill of this command.

The regiment, in light marching order, assembled here on the 7th inst., at 9 o'clock A.M., with the exception of Company M, which arrived at 9.30, and immediately marched to "Hermit's Cove," on the meadows directly across the river from this city.

The forenoon was spent in extended order work, company and battalion, and in outpost duty.

After lunch the following instructions were given to battalion commanders: Major Southmayd, with the First Battalion, to establish outposts to protect the main body; Major Whipple, with the Second Battalion, to represent the main body; Major Fairbanks, with the Third Battalion, to move across the field a mile away to represent the enemy, establish outposts and operate against Major Southmayd.

The plan was to have Major Fairbanks attack Major Southmayd's outposts, which were posted in a strong position, drive them back, and attempt to hold the position he had gained. The object was to teach outpost duty, attack and defence.

The field occupied by the contending forces may be described as two large meadows connected by a neck or narrow tract of land, flanked on one side by a branch of the Agawam River and on the other by an old water course which was nearly impassable except at one or two points. The water courses were fringed with trees and bushes. Extending across the neck or narrow tract of land there was a natural depression, which formed a good rifle pit and made the position an easy one to hold against a superior force.

The play opened with a spirited attack on Southmayd's outposts, which were re-enforced, but were forced back upon their supports and finally upon their reserve.

Fairbanks now had possession of the neck and rifle pit, which were the objects of his attack.

Southmayd saw that an attack from the front on the enemy's position would be useless, and determined to simply keep him engaged in front while a flank movement was made. An old scow had been discovered, and an attempt was made by Major Whipple to take two companies across the river in it to attack Fairbanks on his right flank, but in crossing the river with the first load the old boat leaked so badly it nearly filled with water, and the movement was given up.

Captain Pierce was then sent with another force through the old water course on Fairbanks' left. This movement was successful and a surprise to Fairbanks, whose first knowledge of it was when fire was opened on his left flank; he quickly refused his left, but Southmayd's advance in front at the same time compelled him to withdraw from the position.

The work was crude in many respects, and showed the need of study and practice along these lines; but it was of real profit to officers and men, and will result in much good. Every effort was directed to this end, rather than to spectacular effect. The affair was at times quite spirited, and the attempt to convey a flanking party across the river in a sinking boat added spice to it, as well as the flavor of real campaigning.

A large concourse of people witnessed regimental parade and the passage in review under the non-commissioned officers.

After muster the regiment was formed around the flag staff, and the beautiful and impressive ceremony of lowering "Old Glory," while the band played "The Star Spangled Banner" and the men stood with uncovered heads, was observed.

I am, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

EMBURY P. CLARK,

Colonel.

HEADQUARTERS SIXTH REGIMENT OF INFANTRY,
FIRST BRIGADE, M. V. M.,

MARLBOROUGH, Oct. 30, 1895.

Maj. Gen. SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General of Massachusetts.

SIR:—In accordance with General Order No. 10, A. G. O., I have the honor to submit the following report of the annual fall drill of the command at Milford, Oct. 2, 1895.

In compliance with General Order No. 10, headquarters Sixth Infantry, the command reported in fatigue uniform, campaign hats, overcoats, leggings, haversacks and canteens; the enlisted men carried overcoats in collar roll, the line officers in short roll and suspended from shoulder, mounted officers in roll and strapped to cantle of saddle.

Lieutenant Colonel Woodward, Major Taylor and companies A and H arrived in Boston in time to take the 8.30 train, Boston & Albany Railroad, for South Framingham; Major Darling, Adjutant Soutter and Company L embarked on same train; Assistant Surgeon Porter and companies C and G left Lowell on the 8.40 train, New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, for South Framingham; Captain Carr having made arrangements for the transportation of the Gatling gun, Company I joined the Lowell detachment at Concord Junction; Surgeon Rice, companies B and D and drum corps left Fitchburg at 8.20, on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, for South Framingham, and were joined at South Marlborough by the regimental commander, head-quarter attachés, Company F and band; Lieutenant Jones, I. R. P., companies E and A and detachment of Signal Corps, reported at South Framingham.

At 9.30 A.M. these officers and companies took a special train on the Boston & Albany Railroad for Milford. The troops were disembarked about a mile and one-half north of Milford, where an ambulance and horses for officers and Gatling gun were in waiting.

Major Chaffin and Company K left Southbridge at 7 A.M., on the New York & New England Railroad, for Milford, where they were joined by Company M.

Assistant Surgeon Porter, Lieutenant Jones, I. R. P., and companies E and F were sent to join the defending forces under Major Chaffin. Lieutenant Colonel Woodward was directed to exercise a careful supervision over and to make a detailed report of the defensive movements.

These forces were ordered to defend the approaches to the town against the force of eight companies under the regimental commander. Blank ammunition had been distributed to the attacking forces on the train, and forwarded to the defending troops in Milford.

The attacking force was formed in two battalions, under Majors Taylor and Darling, and advanced toward Charles River. Previous to this, two companies, A and C, accompanied by Adjutant Soutter, were ordered to the left as a flanking force, to hold the bridge over the Charles River on the main road. On their arrival there it was found that the opposing force was in a strong position covering the approaches to the bridge, and a sharp engagement followed. Hearing such heavy firing on the left, the commander reinforced the flanking forces by sending Company B to their assistance. This movement resulted in the capture of part of the defending forces.

The flanking movement having proved successful, Majors Taylor and Darling were ordered to advance their battalions in extended order to the river, where they took position under cover of such protection as was available. The Gatling gun was brought into position, well protected by high grounds in front, and commanding the approaches to the river, and the officer in command was ordered to open fire. The regimental commander was then for the first time informed by the officer in charge of the gun that the firing pins had been left in Lowell. This negligence on the part of the officer in charge of the gun, rendering it useless, received a reprimand.

On discovering that the Gatling gun was unserviceable, the bridging of the river was delayed, and a heavy musketry fire opened upon the force defending the only available place of crossing. The flanking force, that succeeded in taking the bridge on the main road, turning the right of the defence and capturing a portion of its force, was signalled to advance against the force holding the approach to the river; this they did, again turning the right of the defence, and compelling them to fall back. It was now practicable to bridge the river, and a volunteer detachment from Company L stripped and took some large timbers from an old ice-house owned by Samuel Hayward (who had given his consent), and in the short time of twelve minutes the bridge was laid and the troops were crossing it. The passage having been made, a line was formed, connecting with the flanking force, and a general advance was ordered. It was now discovered that the defending force had taken a new position on a road parallel with the river; two companies were ordered to the right and two to the left, which enabled them to bring an enfilading fire on the defence, who, finding themselves hard pressed in front and cut off from retreat, displayed a white flag and surrendered.

The assembly was sounded, the regiment marched to Milford Common, where it was formed in column of battalion, arms stacked and guards placed over them. Water and towels were provided, after using which, the men had dinner, provided by the town of Milford.

The troops were then allowed to rest an hour. When assembly was sounded, regimental line formed, and marched to Congress Street. There street riot drill was exemplified in square formation, according to Par. 367. Company I was deployed on the sidewalk as sharpshooters, covering the buildings on the opposite sides; after advancing in this formation some distance, the regiment was formed in column of companies, the Gatling gun to the front, supported by a platoon on each flank. On approaching Main Street, one platoon turned to the right and one to the left, and held the street. The next company advanced and performed the same movement, which was repeated by the other companies.

The march was then continued to the Common, where regimental parade was held in the presence of a large number of spectators.

The regiment was then formed in column of companies, and mustered for pay, after which regimental line was immediately formed; line of march was taken for the depot, through the principal streets, and a marching salute given to the selectmen of the town. On reaching the railroad station, the troops were quickly and in a very orderly way embarked, and started for home at 5.50 P.M.

No accidents occurred to mar the success of this tour of duty. The weather was all that could be desired, and the ground was favorable for the execution of the plan of the day's duty.

The regimental commander is of the opinion that it is essential that all officers be instructed in field and street movements. None can tell how soon the militia may be called out to defend life and property from an unthinking and riotous mob. This possibility makes an intelligent study of the management of troops in the street a matter of increasing importance.

The discipline of the entire command was excellent, and there was earnest and persistent effort on the part of both officers and men to make the tour of duty a success. Thanks are due to the town authorities of Milford for the generous courtesies tendered on this occasion.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

HENRY PARSONS,

HEADQUARTERS NINTH REGIMENT INFANTRY,
SECOND BRIGADE, M. V. M.,

BOSTON, NOV. 2, 1895.

Maj. Gen. SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General.

SIR: — In accordance with General Order No. 10, c. s., A. G. O., dated Sept. 3, 1895, the Ninth Regiment Infantry performed its annual drill at Lawrence, September 17.

Pursuant to General Order No. 4 from these headquarters, dated Sept. 2, 1895, the companies of the regiment were ordered to report in fatigue uniform, with campaign hats, overcoats rolled in yokes and without mess kits, some of which were to report at armory, East Newton Street, at 7.45 A. M. Line was formed at 8.10, with companies A, B, C, E, H and I, band and drum corps and field and staff, marching direct to the Union station, arriving at about 9 o'clock; companies D, G, K and L reporting at the station; companies F and M, under command of Major Donovan, reporting at Lawrence.

The train consisted of twelve passenger cars, one for each company, one for band and drum corps, one for headquarters, one baggage car and one car for the horses; some little delay in starting was caused by the railroad officials.

Arriving in South Lawrence at an overhead bridge, known as White Pup's bridge, about a mile and a half or two miles west of South Lawrence station, the regiment disembarked; Lieutenant Breen, I. R. P., and Paymaster Dobbins were assigned for duty with the First Battalion, Surgeon Devine and Chaplain Lee with the Second, Quartermaster Nugent with the Third, Lieutenant Colonel Logan and Adjutant Kelley being detailed to assist the colonel commanding.

The First Battalion, comprising companies A, B, E and H, under command of Major Grady, was ordered to form battle formation at a distance of about one thousand yards from a bridge which crosses the Merrimac River, known as Merrimac Street bridge, and which he was ordered to defend against an attack.

The Second Battalion, comprising companies F, G, K and M, commanded by Maj W. H. Donovan, and the Third Battalion, companies D, C, I and L, under Maj. M. J. O'Connor, were ordered to form for attack, all of which was accomplished expeditiously. Blank cartridges were then distributed, and upon order of regimental commander the attack was commenced.

Deploying two companies as a firing line and holding the remaining two in reserve, the commander of the First Battalion awaited the attack.

The skirmishers of the attacking force were soon heard directly in front of the scouts belonging to the First Battalion; a brisk exchange of shots was had with the enemy, who were almost invisible because of the thick growth of underbrush, behind which the Second and Third battalions had established their line of attack. Following these hostilities, the scouts of the First Battalion were driven back, and a stand was then taken which was soon relinquished. Retreating to the rear, the firing line on reaching the line of reserves halted, and the commander of the First Battalion made a successful stand, which was held for some time; it was but a temporary advantage, however, for the attacking party at once strengthened its firing line by bringing up the reserve, and a concentrated attack upon the First Battalion resulted in its retreating to a park known as Union Park, where a brief stand was taken.

The manner in which one or both flanks of an enemy's line can be turned was here very nicely exemplified by the Second and Third battalions, who made an unexpected attack and charge on both flanks and slightly in rear of the First Battalion; and, upon attempting to retreat, the First Battalion found the territory in their rear occupied by part of the attacking force, and surrender was inevitable.

The ground selected for the manœuvres was admirably adapted for the purpose, being thickly wooded and covered with underbrush and large rocks; the ground having many irregularities and small hills, and not being occupied by buildings, it gave proper shelter to the men acting as scouts.

The citizens of Lawrence turned out in large numbers, and were pleased and interested spectators of the proceedings, but interfered greatly with the regiment in its work.

After the battle the regiment marched about one and a half miles to a large field, upon which was erected a marquee, and there enjoyed a substantial dinner provided by the citizens of Lawrence, for which we return our sincere thanks.

Dinner over, at 2.30 P.M. the regiment started for North Lawrence, where it arrived at 3 P.M., and reported to the chief marshal of the parade in which the regiment took part, the parade being for the purpose of commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the incorporation of the city.

The regiment was dismissed from the parade at 5 P.M. All along the line of march the regiment received a perfect ovation for its discipline, steadiness and soldierly appearance. Embarking for Boston at 5.15, we were delayed some time awaiting the arrival of a train which was to proceed to Boston ahead of ours. We arrived in Boston at 7.35 P.M.

Companies D, K, L and G were dismissed at the Union station, and the remaining companies marched to the East Armory, where they were dismissed.

The service furnished by the Boston & Maine Railroad was entirely unsatisfactory; unnecessary delay at North Lawrence, no drinking water in the cars, and nobody to direct where the horses were to be loaded at Lawrence, made matters somewhat unpleasant.

I am indebted to Lieutenant Sprague, Second Brigade Signal Corps, for the hearty co-operation and assistance of his command during the manœuvres of the regiment.

Colonel King of His Excellency's staff accompanied the regiment on this tour of duty, and I am deeply grateful to him for his many valuable suggestions.

I had also the pleasure of the company of Maj. Perlie A. Dyar, First Regiment Infantry, M. V. M.

I was greatly pleased with the patience and effort shown by the officers and men of this command, as it was a hard and tiresome tour of duty, and I feel perfectly satisfied with what they accomplished.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

FRED B. BOGAN,

Colonel Ninth Regiment.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH REGIMENT INFANTRY,
SECOND BRIGADE, M. V. M.,

SALEM, Oct. 27, 1895.

Maj. Gen. SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General, M. V. M.

SIR: — I have the honor to submit the following report of duty performed by the Eighth Regiment at Ipswich, Oct. 25, 1895, in accordance with General Orders No. 10, A. G. O., c. s.

The regiment was divided into two provisional battalions, under the respective commands of Major Bailey and Major Dow. The opposing forces were designated as Greys and Blues. The day was devoted to reproducing a game of Kriegsspiel previously played between Major Bailey and Major Dow.

Permission was obtained from the owners to use a tract of land extending from Essex Falls (a station on the Essex branch of the Eastern Division of the Boston & Maine Railroad) to Brown's Crossing on the main line of the Eastern Division at Ipswich. This country extended easterly and westerly about five and one-half miles, and ranged from one to three miles in width. As it approached the railroad track in Ipswich it was bounded southerly by Miles River and northerly by the main highway between Essex and Ipswich, and was at this point about one thousand yards in width.

The general idea was that the city of Gloucester and the town of Essex, east of Essex Falls, were within the territory of the Blues, and that this territory extended westerly, and included the tract of country permission to use which had been obtained. The territory of the Greys consisted of the country west of the main branch of the Eastern Division of the Boston & Maine. The territory lying directly north and south of the strip of ground over which we had permission to move was considered neutral, the neutrality of which both sides were directed to respect. The division line between the territory of the Blues and the Greys was along the main track of the Eastern Division. For the Greys to invade the territory of the Blues it was necessary for them to cross the main track at some point between Miles River and the main highway from Essex to Ipswich.

Major Bailey was directed to mobilize his forces at some point west of the main line and five miles distant from the boundary line between the country of the Blues and the Greys. He was directed to advance into the country of the Blues and occupy as much of the country as possible.

Major Dow was directed to proceed through Essex Falls, and was advised that a hostile force was advancing against his territory from west of the main line of the Eastern Division. His instructions were to oppose the Greys occupying Blue territory. Blue reinforcements, consisting of two battalions of infantry, were expected to leave Gloucester (a point seven miles distant from Essex) at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. He was to delay the advance of the Greys until this reinforcement arrived, and was especially to prevent the Greys occupying the hills commanding the town of Essex, situated about a mile to the westward of the town.

Major Dow was directed to move from Essex Falls at 9 o'clock. Major Bailey was directed to leave the point selected by him for mobilization at half-past 10. It was intended that the movements should be so timed that a collision between the main forces should take place in the territory permission to occupy which had been obtained. This permission included not only the right to use the land, but to throw up intrenchments and to tear down walls which impeded the movement of troops. Every person owning land in this territory was personally seen and permission obtained. It was understood that all damages should be paid for by the regiment. The matter of compensation was left in the hands of Quartermaster Wonson. Responsible parties were employed by him at the close of the manœuvres to visit the places where the troops had been, and make settlement for any damage done. Permission was also obtained by Major Bailey to use a large tract of country within the territory of the Greys.

Under the direction of Maj. William R. Livermore, United States Engineers, a Kriegsspiel map was made of the country over which it was proposed to manœuvre. A number of civil engineers who are connected with the regiment volunteered, under Major Livermore's direction, to make the necessary surveys for this purpose. After this map was completed, and upon the invitation of Major Livermore, Major Bailey and Major Dow, with such of their officers as they chose to ask, met at Major Livermore's house in Boston and played a game of Kriegsspiel.

Major Bailey selected Asbury Grove as the point of mobilization for his command. His forces proceeded from this point toward the country of the Blues. A force of Blues mounted on bicycles, under the command of Corporal Stopford of Company E, harassed and delayed the march of the Greys by taking up various positions upon their front and flanks, and caused their advance guard to deploy. It was 12 o'clock before the Greys reached the railroad track which was the boundary between the two countries. Meanwhile, Major Dow had advanced his force from Essex Falls, and occupied a defensive position about half a mile to the east of the boundary line. The left of the line occupied by the Blues rested upon a high bluff running at right angles to the Miles River, known as the Fish Flakes. Their right rested upon a hill called Corn Field Hill. About three hundred yards in front of the Fish Flakes was another and smaller hill, known as Appleton Arms, which was occupied as an advance post. . . .

The defence occupied the Fish Flakes with two companies and the Gatling gun, which was horsed. One company occupied Corn Field Hill, and the remaining company was held as a reserve one-half mile in the rear of the centre. As the Greys developed their attack upon the right the Gatling was transferred to the Corn Field Hill and placed in a gun pit which had been previously prepared. The road through which the Greys were advancing passed over the Appleton Arms and skirted the foot of the Fish Flakes.

About 2 o'clock the advance guard of the Greys came in collision with the outposts of the Blues occupying Appleton Arms. The main body of the Greys were then about three-quarters of a mile in the rear of the advance guard. After reconnoitring the position, Major Bailey moved his main body to the north, along the railroad track, and to a position opposite the extreme right of the Blues. His movements were entirely concealed by the folds of the hills lying beyond the Appleton Arms. . . . His advance guard was used to contain the left of the Blues and his main attack was directed upon their right. Most of the fighting was done on the right flank of the Blues. The Greys succeeded in turning the right flank and moved along the main road toward Essex. The Greys had the advantage of a shorter line to the town of Essex. As soon as their right was turned, the Blues fell back along a road which intercepted the road along which the Greys were advancing, at a point about two miles from the town of Essex.

The bicycle corps and Gatling were first in position. It was a foot race between the infantry to see which force would first occupy the ground. Both sides had bicycle corps, but they were useless in this movement, as their ammunition had been exhausted. The Gatling took up a position on a hill about one thousand yards in the rear of the intersection of the roads. The high land which both sides were attempting to occupy was a plateau about five hundred yards wide. This plateau was approached simultaneously from opposite sides by both forces. The Blues occupied the southern slope of the plateau with their right protected by the Gatling, about eight hundred yards distant. The Greys occupied the northern slope of the plateau, refusing their left to avoid an enfilading fire from the Gatling. Neither side could advance across the plateau without being exposed to a destructive fire. This was the position of the opposing forces at sunset. Both sides could hold their ground, but neither could move within a reasonable time to warrant a continuance of the manœuvres. The regiment was assembled and marched to Essex, where a special train was taken and the companies were dismissed to their respective commanders.

The manœuvres were an exact reproduction of the game of Kriegsspiel as played. The last move, as played on the map, was purposely left incomplete.

I acted as director, Major Livermore acted as umpire. He was assisted by Major Ward, Captain Parsons, Captain Damon, Lieutenant Soutter of the Sixth, Lieutenants Ropes and Spencer of the Second Corps, Ensign Chase of the Naval Battalion, and by other officers detailed from the regiment. Captain Keeler of the First Brigade staff and Lieutenant Ballard of the Fifth served as volunteer aids to Major Bailey, and Captain Little of the Second Brigade staff served as aid to Major Dow. Lieutenant Tolman and a detachment of the Signal Corps volunteered and rendered efficient service.

The game, as played on the map and for the purpose of reproduction, was divided up into periods. At the beginning of any period the director's flag representing the number of that period was raised. Each company proceeded to occupy the position it had occupied during the game at this period. An assistant umpire was assigned to each company. When his company occupied the position prescribed, an assistant umpire's flag, representing the number of the period, was raised by his direction. As soon as the director saw that every detachment had completed the move belonging to this period and had displayed the flag corresponding to the number of the period, he displayed another flag representing the number of the next period. Each company then proceeded to complete the movement belonging to this next period, and upon its completion the assistant umpire displayed the number of the new period.

Owing to the lack of ammunition, the following rule was adopted: while any member of a platoon was firing, the platoon was credited with the fire of all its members. If an officer wished to represent a platoon firing, he ordered one man to fire. The man would fire until his ammunition was exhausted, when the platoon commander would direct another man to fire. During this period it was assumed that the whole platoon was firing. . . .

Some of the extended order work in the use of cover was remarkably clever. The platoons of Company D advanced over apparently open ground to within about four hundred yards of the Fish Flakes and Corn Field Hill respectively. I was watching this ground from the Fish Flakes, but did not discover the advance before it was declared by the assistant umpires' flags.

The service of information was well performed for the defence by the bicycle corps, and suggests the advisability of such a corps permanently attached to each regiment and trained for this duty. The Gatling detachment showed great zeal. It volunteered for an extra day's service, and spent October 24 in drill and a practice march from Hamilton to Essex. It spent the night in Essex. The detachment was under the command of Lieutenant Eldredge.

The umpire and his assistants spent the night of October 24 in Essex. The evening was devoted to going over the work of the next day and posting the assistant umpires in their duties.

The advance and rear guard work was undertaken with spirit, but disclosed lack of instruction and comprehension of duties. It is suggested that this kind of work be made a feature of infantry drill.

The regiment is much indebted to Major Livermore for his distinguished services, which contributed much to the success of the day.

I am, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

WILLIAM A. PEW, Jr.,

Colonel.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BATTALION CAVALRY,
SECOND BRIGADE, M. V. M.,

Boston, July 31, 1895.

Maj. Gen. SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General.

SIR:—I have the honor to report on the annual drill of my command. Permission was granted in General Order No. 6, c. s., A. G. O., to perform this tour of duty in connection with the regular tour of camp duty, and to make the drill a route march to the State camp ground on Monday, July 22, the day preceding camp.

In accordance with my orders, the command assembled at Union Square, Brighton. At 9 A.M. march was taken up for South Framingham. The march was through Brighton, Newton, Newtonville, West Newton, Newton Lower Falls, Wellesley Hills and then via the old Worcester turnpike to the camp ground.

Advance and rear guards and flankers were thrown out. Instruction was given in the usual precautions to be taken on a march in the vicinity of an enemy. Particular attention was given to the care and handling of horses on a long march. Attention was also given to individual horsemanship.

Halt for dinner was made at 12.15 P.M., just beyond Wellesley Hills. Picket lines were stretched by the road side and rations issued for men and horses.

March was resumed at 2 P.M., and the camp ground reached at 4 P.M.

The command paraded in campaign uniform, overcoats rolled on saddles. Rations, picket lines, etc., were carried in wagons.

On the march frequent short halts were made for rest, and for watering the horses. At intervals the command was dismounted and horses led.

Col. Fred W. Wellington, A. I. G., of His Excellency's staff, joined the command near Wellesley Hills and remained with us for a part of the day. The command is indebted to him for his interest in its work and for suggestions for improvement.

The strength of the command was: field and staff, 7 officers, 5 men; Troop A, 3 officers and 69 men; Troop D, 3 officers and 65 men; total, 13 officers and 139 men. The strength was reduced by the usual camp detail of 1 officer and 14 men.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

HORACE G. KEMP,

Major.

FIRST BATTALION LIGHT ARTILLERY, FIRST BRIGADE, M. V. M.,
HEADQUARTERS, LAWRENCE, MASS., July 1, 1895.

Maj. Gen. SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General State of Massachusetts.

GENERAL: — I have the honor to submit my report of the annual drill of the First Battalion Light Artillery, which took place June 3, 1895.

In obedience to Special Orders No. 60, A. G. O., Battery B left Worcester at 8 o'clock A.M., Battery C left Lawrence at 9 o'clock A.M., and Troop F, Cavalry, left North Chelmsford at 9 o'clock A.M.

All of the above commands, having been provided with baggage wagons and one day's rations, and a surgeon accompanying each command, directed their march toward South Lincoln, where I had previously selected a place for bivouac on a piece of land belonging to Mr. E. R. Farrar. Tents to accommodate one hundred and eighty horses were pitched, posts driven at proper intervals and picket ropes wound around and stretched from post to post, to which to secure the horses.

Having spent Saturday and Sunday in camp at Framingham, with my staff, we left the State camp grounds at 8 o'clock A.M., Monday, June 3, and proceeded to South Lincoln, twelve miles out. I established my headquarters at the bivouac. I arranged with Mr. Farrar for hay for bedding for the men, and wood for camp fires.

The camp was well situated on a small rise on the edge of a wood; a brook close by furnished ample accommodations for watering horses. About 2 o'clock p.m. it began to rain, and, as the shelter tents had not arrived, I felt a little disappointed. Captain Shaw with his troop was momentarily expected, as the captain had previously informed me that he would reach bivouac at 3 o'clock p.m. A little after 4 o'clock a messenger came in on horseback with a verbal order from you for me to march the troops into camp. This was a disappointment to me, for I disliked exceedingly to give up the bivouac; and, realizing that you had allowed me some discretionary power, which was corroborated by your messenger, I decided to send Captain Shaw with his cavalry to South Framingham. By so doing I should have two tents intended for the cavalry horses to use for the men of the artillery, one to each battery, which would be ample shelter for the night. About 5 p.m. Captain Shaw arrived with Troop F, and Captain Brusos' battery arrived at the same time. Troop F, after a short rest, and having watered, started for State camp grounds. This command looked solid and compact; as they marched off, they looked fresh and good for the twelve miles that lay before them. Although raining quite hard, they took the order good-naturedly, but were sorry to leave us.

Captain Stedman's battery came in at 5.30. In picking out good roads each battery had marched thirty-two miles. The horses looked tired, and I think it would have proved injurious to them to have continued twelve miles further to camp.

Batteries parked immediately on arriving; the horses were rubbed down and fed with hay; the men built fires and cooked coffee, and, with the ample rations in haversack, made a good supper. Bugle calls were properly sounded and responded to in soldierly manner; the men stayed about their bright fires drying themselves until taps.

The scene was very interesting to all, especially to the old campaigners, who were delighted. Rain fell all night, but I am glad to say that no complaints have been heard of any sickness caused by exposure.

Friday morning reveille sounded as per camp orders. The weather was cloudy and misty. Stable call over, breakfast call sounded. The men cooked coffee and were supplied with meats, etc., from the baggage train. At 7 o'clock everything was put in order to leave; at 7.15 boots and saddles was sounded and at 7.30 the battalion and its baggage wagons filed out of camp and proceeded to the State camp grounds at South Framingham, at which place they arrived at 11 o'clock A.M., having made the twelve miles in about three hours. As the battalion entered the field at the headquarters gate it made a splendid show; everything was in proper shape, men and horses were fresh; all felt proud of their thirty hours' experience, and sorry that it did not last longer.

I dismissed the battalion at once, and at 11.15 o'clock reported my arrival to Lieutenant Colonel Parker, A. A. G., First Brigade.

I would recommend that, should the artillery be ordered to repeat this annual drill another year, rubber blankets and complete cooking outfits, etc., be issued to the batteries. I am also of the opinion that it is not advisable to attempt getting the batteries together the first night; the distance the batteries have to march is too great. I would suggest that the batteries bivouac not over twenty miles from their home station, and, if desirable to have the battalion march into camp in a body, that the junction be made the next day after leaving home.

I wish to compliment the officers and men of the battalion upon the successful ending of this tour of duty; every one was cheerful and performed his duty manfully, considering the weather. I feel satisfied that the State received faithful service and the First Battalion of Artillery much-needed experience.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

L. N. DUCHESNEY,

Major Commanding.

SIGNAL CORPS FIRST BRIGADE, M. V. M.,
SOUTH ARMORY, IRVINGTON STREET, BOSTON, Sept. 16, 1895.

Adjutant General, State House, Boston, Mass.

SIR: — I have the honor to submit a report of the annual drill of this command, performed the 14th of September, in accordance with General Order No. 10, A. G. O., c. s.

The purpose of the drill was to illustrate the work performed by signal parties accompanying a reconnoissance expedition. No attempt was made, however, to make a reconnoissance, the various squads going directly to the stations already selected. The scheme, as published in the corps order already furnished you, was that the head of a brigade covering the right of an army, making a flank march to the westward, arrived in Arlington on the evening of the thirteenth. A signal station was established on the line of outposts at the standpipe on Arlington Heights. On the morning of the 14th a detail was made to examine the villages of Lexington and Lincoln, and a portion of the Signal Corps was sent with it. Another portion was sent with the advance guard, moving toward the west. All information secured by these parties was to be transmitted to Arlington Heights.

The work actually performed by the corps under this scheme was this: the enlisted men reported to the first sergeant at the South Armory at 7.45 A.M. in fatigue uniform. Four details were immediately made, each commanded by a sergeant. Each sergeant was then given a sealed envelope containing transportation, a map of the country covered by the scheme, the name of the point his detail was to occupy, and minor information about the station, etc. Upon the outside of the envelope were instructions stating the train to be taken, and directing that the envelope was to be opened on the train for transportation and further orders. The various squads were sent to their stations by different trains, and did not know, therefore, where any other signal station was to be established except that on Arlington Heights.

The points occupied were Granny Hill, Oakmount, Lexington; Lincoln Reservoir, Lincoln; Prospect Hill, Waltham; and the standpipe on Arlington Heights. These points were occupied promptly, the other signal stations quickly found, and communication established between Lincoln and Arlington through Waltham, and between Lexington and Arlington. Messages were sent from Lincoln to Arlington, a distance of about six and a half miles, without the use of the intervening station at Waltham. The signal work was not a success, however, as in many cases the glasses secured were not sufficiently powerful. Stations were closed in time to report at the armory at 7 P.M., where the men were shortly dismissed.

Accompanied by Col. Wm. Barrett, I visited all the stations, returning to the armory with the Waltham detail.

The corps is under obligations to George W. Lane, Esq., water commissioner of Arlington, for permission to use the standpipe at Arlington Heights; to Mr. John Comley, superintendent at Oakmount, for permission to occupy Granny Hill; to L. W. Weston, Esq., chairman of the water board of Lincoln, for permission to occupy the Lincoln Reservoir; and to Col. Ephraim Stearns, chairman of the park commission of Waltham, for permission to occupy Prospect Hill.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

WM. NICHOLS TOLMAN,

First Lieutenant and Senior Officer Commanding Corps.

REPORT OF LIEUT. A. P. NIBLACK, U. S. N., ON THE NAVAL BRIGADE, M. V. M.

NAVY DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, Oct. 15, 1895.

SIR:—In obedience to the department orders of July 19, I reported to the commandant of the Navy Yard, Boston, Mass., on July 26, and was assigned to quarters on the receiving ship "Wabash" in connection with the annual tour of duty of the Massachusetts Naval Militia.

The brigade came on board the "Wabash" on Monday, July 29, and went on shore on Saturday, August 3.

Of the 48 officers on the rolls, 41 were present; and of 429 men, 335 were present. The average attendance of officers was 85 per cent., and of the men 78 per cent. All of the men and a few of the officers were quartered on the "Wabash," and the remainder of the officers and the band were quartered on the "Passaic." The tug "Iwana" and the steam launch of the "Wabash" were also placed at the service of the brigade, to assist in carrying out the programme of the tour. The department had notified the State that the "Raleigh" and one other man-of-war would be in Boston for the first three days of the tour, but only the "Raleigh" was present, and she left early Thursday, August 1.

This year's tour of duty of the Massachusetts Naval Militia was a mild test of the ability of the brigade to man a ship of war, as it was thrown on its own resources on board the "Wabash" as a ship's company, with freedom to arrange a programme and carry on a ship's routine. With a ship lying at a dock, with commissariat difficulties easily solved and handling ship not a factor, the test was not severe, but was, on the other hand, very instructive. Heretofore the ships on which the brigade has served in detachments have been regular cruising ships, with everything running like clockwork. There was therefore naturally a noticeable lack of force and lack of confidence on the part of the officers of the deck and the petty officers, due to being thrown for the first time on their own resources. In the main the feeling throughout the brigade was at the end of the week one of considerable discouragement at the enormity of the undertaking of mastering the details of the naval profession in a week's tour each year, under constantly varying conditions, with new types of ships, new guns, practically no books of instruction, uncertainty as to the purpose of the Naval Militia, and no adequate programme of preparation during the intervening months. The week's tour illustrated the futility of the past system, and argues most forcibly for the inauguration of a new one. The great value of a ship like the “Minnesota” will be in the preliminary training given in preparation for the tour of duty. It will overcome at least one difficulty.

There was much to commend in the organization and in the manner in which the officers and men bore themselves. The plan of sending a detachment every evening down the bay to pitch camp and return by breakfast next morning was an excellent lesson in naval brigade operations. The engineer force showed up particularly well in its work, and should be developed into a division. The small-arm target practice was in some respects phenomenal. The great-gun target practice on the “Raleigh” under way at sea was not remarkable, because the 4-inch R. F. gun and mount was a new arm, and hard to learn in so brief a period as allotted for instruction. The light artillery drill was excellent, the boat work was fair and the torpedo work very good.

In the way of criticism too much emphasis cannot be placed upon the need of better setting up, more attention to uniform and a general bracing up on guard duty. The sentry duty was an utter misrepresentation of the many commendable things in infantry tactics. The tan shoe, the stars on staff officers' sleeves and citizen's ties with uniform were marked departures from naval custom.

As suggested previously in my reports, one or more men-of-war, preferably of the coast defence type, should be in attendance at the annual tour of duty, to co-operate with the Naval Militia and afford instruction to them. It is not thought that the custom sometimes followed is productive of sufficient benefit to warrant its continuance, viz., of making vacancies in the regular complement of the ships by the transfer of men to the receiving ships and filling their places with naval militiamen for the period of the tour. At certain stages in the development of an organization this may be valuable, but the tour of duty is so short that it is thought that mere instruction on board, coupled with camp life on shore, will accomplish more in the period assigned. It is not possible to make seamen out of raw material by service for one week a year on board cruising ships more or less in port, and a national reservé of seamen cannot thus easily be created. Special steps must be taken in this direction under government auspices entirely, and without State aid.

The real field of the Naval Militia would seem to lie through liberal State and national aid in encouraging yachtsmen and landmen of aquatic tastes in following those branches of naval training which will fit them to man the auxiliaries of the national defence in time of war, supplemental and incidental to the navy and sea-coast defences; to do service, for instance, in improvised batteries and torpedo boats, or with mine fields, transports, supply vessels, telegraph steamers, repair ships, scouts, commissary vessels, floating batteries, improvised cruisers, naval brigade operations, prize crews, cartels, hospital ships, etc., where seamen pure and simple are not required, but in which properly trained landsmen are better than merchant sailors, and in which a large part of the effective force of the navy would otherwise be absorbed.

Unquestionably many of the officers and men in the Naval Militia are already qualified for service in the navy, particularly those who have had previous naval service; but it would seem that these, together with the more proficient members who have had five years' training and can qualify on examination, should be incorporated in a true naval reserve, under purely national auspices. The Naval Militia as now organized is a State organization, and its best training would seem to be along the lines of the land militia at first; but, in addition to a knowledge of infantry tactics, field artillery and camp life, the Naval Militia should be expert in naval brigade operations, army and navy signalling, handling boats under steam, oars or sail; shore line and field reconnoissance work, coast piloting (especially local knowledge), submarine mine work, automobile and dirigible torpedoes, secondary and great-gun artillery, and such knowledge of seamanship and man-of-war duties as can be obtained through the facilities provided by the department in the instruction afforded on board ship.

A study of the possible defences of Boston is of great importance to the Massachusetts Naval Militia; but, in view of the national importance of Nantucket Sound as a strategic centre, and of the many local complications which beset the Naval Brigade in a tour of duty near that city, a radical departure should mark the next tour of duty in this State. It would be of the greatest benefit to the Naval Militia movement in general, and to that in Massachusetts in particular, if the next summer's tour were had in Barnstable County, along the south shore, with headquarters in Chatham Roads. Camp should be established at some point selected, and a few ships of the navy should co-operate with them, as a study of this region is of the utmost importance to the navy. It is urged, in view of the short period (one week) allowed the Naval Militia, that labor be employed by the State to transport and handle the camp equipage, as the manual labor is of no military value to the Naval Militia, and absorbs too large a percentage of the limited time in the field.

Very respectfully,

A. P. NIBLACK,

Lieutenant, U. S. N.

The Secretary of the Navy.

GENERAL ORDERS AND CIRCULARS.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, Jan. 11, 1895.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 1.*

I. So much of Paragraph I., General Order 14, as is amended by Paragraph I., General Order 21, series of 1894, is further amended so as to read: "All future appointments of hospital stewards or apothecaries in the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia must be either registered pharmacists or registered physicians."

II. The following is published for the information of the militia:—

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, BOSTON, Jan. 1, 1895.

William C. Capelle of Wakefield is hereby appointed Assistant Adjutant General on the staff of the Commander-in-Chief, with the rank of colonel.

(Signed)                      FREDERIC T. GREENHALGE,
Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

III. The above-named officer, having been duly commissioned, qualified and assigned to duty, will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

IV. To correct an error caused by transposition of figures in the consolidated rifle and revolver report of 1894, and at the request of the Inspector General of Rifle Practice, the following amendment is made in the table of efficient of the Fifth Regiment of Infantry in the case of companies K and L:—

Company.	Location.	Captain.	Enrolled Strength.	D. M.	S. S.	First.	Second.	Third.	Shot two scores.	Efficients in service, 1894.	Points.
K,	Braintree, .	W. E. Mossman, .	61	-	-	6	17	17	18	40	127
L,	Malden, .	E. E. Locke, . .	61	-	3	3	26	19	2	51	145

* Whole number, series of 1894, 22.

V. Brigade, Naval Brigade and Cadet Corps Commanders are charged with the promulgation of this order.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

SAMUEL DALTON,
Adjutant General.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, Jan. 11, 1895.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 2.

The target season for 1895 will close October 31.

Firing parties should always be in charge of officers or non-commissioned officers, who are reminded of the great responsibility which they assume, and the necessity of exercising extreme caution in order to prevent accidents.

Rifles should be loaded at the firing point only, and should be inspected before leaving the range.

The ammunition of the company should be in trustworthy hands.

Qualifications will be made under the following conditions:—

1. Target. — Either the United States Army regulation elliptical or the Creedmoor target may be used.

2. Positions. — At 200 yards, standing without rest or support. At above 200 yards, “Any position.”

3. Scores. — Third class, two scores of 15 out of a possible 25 at 200 yards.

Second class, two scores of 18 out of a possible 25 at 200 yards.

First class, two scores of 21 out of a possible 25 at 200 yards and two scores of 21 out of a possible 25 at 500 yards.

Sharpshooter class, two scores of 22 out of a possible 25 at 200 yards, two scores of 24 out of a possible 25 at 500 yards and two scores of 23 out of a possible 25 at 600 yards.

Distinguished marksmen will requalify in the Sharpshooter Class.

Distinguished marksmen are sharpshooters of record (1) who have represented the State at Creedmoor, or (2) who may be mentioned in orders as the “first twelve in a State competition,” or (3) who have won an individual trophy in a State match.

4. Arms. — Such as are issued by the State. Minimum trigger pull 6 pounds. Soldiers armed with the carbine will be restricted to the use of that arm and will be allowed one point to each score made at 200 yards in qualifying and two points at each of the longer ranges.

5. Exceptions. — Hereafter members of the following organizations will not be expected to qualify as marksmen, as no provision for ammunition will be made and no marksman's decorations awarded : —

Ambulance Corps.
Signal Corps.

Batteries of artillery.
Headquarter musicians.

6. Revolver Qualifications. — Officers and non-commissioned staff officers owning the army or navy regulation revolver (or being furnished with it by the State) will qualify as follows : —

Second Class, two scores of 25 out of a possible 30 at 50 yards.

First Class, two scores of 28 out of a possible 30 at 50 yards.

Each score must be shot in one minute or less.

Position. — Standing without rest or support, arm extended, elbow free from the body.

The target shall be that used for rifle shooting at 200 yards.

Minimum trigger pull 4 pounds.

Original qualifications will be rewarded by medals.

7. Badges, Bars and Bullets. — Unless a change in decorations is decided upon later, the issue of badges, bars, bullets and buttons will be the same as in 1894.

8. Medals, etc. — No more than six medals or badges, awarded for rifle work, may be worn on State duty, and will include only those issued by the State, won at Creedmoor in team matches, or allowed by orders.

Officers and non-commissioned staff officers are granted special permission to wear one revolver badge in addition to the six mentioned above.

Members of the militia who have won military decorations for rifle work of importance may apply through regular channels for permission to include them in the number allowed.

Ribbons for rifle work worn on the blouse are subject to the same restrictions as medals.

Individual trophies are the property of the officers and men who win them.

When not on State duty the number of decorations for rifle work allowed to be worn will be subject to the discretion of the commanding officer of each organization.

9. Money Allowance. — Ammunition will not be issued as heretofore, but an allowance will be made of $1.40 for each member of a company armed with the rifle or carbine who qualifies or requalifies during the target season and who is a member of the company on Oct. 31, 1895. The claim for this allowance will be made on the annual rifle returns of each company, and the Inspector General of Rifle Practice will inform the Adjutant General of the amount due each command, when it will be made.

10. Figure of Merit.—The standing of each company will be established by the following rule:—

Every distinguished marksman and sharpshooter in a company at the close of the target season will count five points, every first class marksman four points, every second class marksman three points, and every third class marksman two points.

Every unqualified member of a company who shoots two scores during the year and fails to qualify will count one point.

Fifty dollars will be given to the company having the best standing under this rule, twenty-five dollars to second best and a trophy (engraving) to the third.

11. Competitions.—The conditions governing competitions will be published in future orders, and will include regimental and State competitions, as heretofore.

If deemed advisable (depending in a great degree on the number of officers equipping themselves with the regulation arm), there will be a competition with revolvers for teams and individuals.

State competitions will be held in September, and regimental and corps competitions in camp; but option is given to regimental commanders to hold regimental competitions other than in camp, but when so held no pay or transportation will be allowed.

Teams in regimental competitions will consist of ten and teams in State competitions of fifteen.

12. Inspectors of Rifle Practice may be called upon to verify expenditures of the State allowances for the purpose of rifle practice, and company commanders are cautioned to keep original bills of such expenditures and also all scores shot in making qualifications both completed and unfinished.

Every shot fired must be recorded, but a score may be withdrawn at any time and a new one started.

13. Regimental inspectors (under chapter 367, section 127, Statutes of 1893) are allowed to visit, with mileage allowance, each company of their commands three times yearly, when so ordered by commanding officers. They will visit the several companies upon the days appointed for range work, and will use every effort to secure competent instruction of those trying for proficiency. They should visit each company at least once during the winter months to instruct the officers and non-commissioned officers in the proper care and safe use of the rifle. They will promptly report to this department cases of delinquency in the work of company commanders, and will hold themselves at all times in readiness to state the progress being made by the several companies in their respective organizations.

All returns for travel for visiting companies will be rendered quarterly and promptly.

14. When the Inspectors of Rifle Practice are assembled on orders from this department mileage will be allowed.

15. Annual Returns.—The annual returns of rifle practice must be forwarded in time to reach the Inspector General of Rifle Practice not later than Nov. 10, 1895.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

GEORGE F. HALL,

Colonel and Inspector General of Rifle Practice.

OFFICIAL :

SAMUEL DALTON,

Adjutant General.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, Feb. 2, 1895.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 3.

I. Armory inspections will take place between Feb. 1 and May 1, 1895.

Assistant inspectors will visit their assignments on regular drill nights, as far as possible, giving one week's notice by letter to company commanders of their visit; also the same notice to regimental commanders and commanders of cadet corps, artillery, cavalry and naval brigade.

Inspecting officers will confer freely with the commanding officers relative to the companies of the commands to which they are assigned.

If any company is found in poor condition, a special report will be made by the inspecting officer to the Inspector General.

All companies at these inspections will be paraded in fatigue uniform, with campaign hats, haversacks and mess kits; all military property will be in readiness for inspection.

II. Inspectors will report in full on armory accommodations, with opinion as to the amount which should properly be allowed and paid by the Commonwealth, and the manner of the discharge of duty by armorers or janitors. They will in all cases where inefficient officers are found make at once a special report thereon.

III. Inspectors will thoroughly examine the books of the commands, and ascertain if properly kept and that the files of orders are complete.

The inspection will be rigid as to the administration of affairs in commands, attention to duties by officers and men, what has been done in the matter of emergency ration and if the alarm lists are complete.

IV. The following assignments of inspectors are announced :—
Sixth and Ninth Regiments of Infantry, and Naval Brigade, Col. James L. Carter, A. I. G.

First and Eighth Regiments of Infantry, Col. Fred G. King,
A. I. G.

Second and Fifth Regiments of Infantry, Col. Percy Parker,
A. I. G.

First Battalion Cavalry, First Battalion Artillery, Troop F,
Cavalry, Battery A, Light Artillery, and Signal Corps, Col. Fred.
W. Wellington, A. I. G.

First and Second Corps of Cadets, the Inspector General.

V. The Surgeon General will designate an officer to inspect the Ambulance Corps.

VI. The reports on Inspections will be promptly forwarded on the completion of the inspection of each regiment, battalion or unattached command.

VII. Inspectors will render bills for duty performed under this order with their final reports.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

SAMUEL DALTON,

Adjutant General.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, April 25, 1895.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 4.

I. Capt. Henry W. Atkins, Company C, First Regiment of Infantry, having rendered continuous service as a commissioned officer in the militia of the Commonwealth for the period of ten years and upwards, is retired upon his own request with the rank of major, from Feb. 19, 1895, as provided in section 54, chapter 367, Acts of 1893.

II. Brig. Gen. Herbert L. Burrell, surgeon general, having rendered eleven years continuous service as a commissioned officer in the militia of the Commonwealth, is upon his own request placed on the retired list, with the rank of brigadier general, as provided in section 54, chapter 367 of the Acts of 1893, to date from April 22, 1895.

The Commander-in-Chief regrets the necessity for the retirement of General Burrell on account of professional engagements. General Burrell has brought to the discharge of duty, as surgeon general, rare ability, and by his conscientious and painstaking endeavor has placed the medical department of the militia in a condition of completeness which is alike honorable to himself and creditable to the service.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, BOSTON, April 23, 1895.

Lieut. Col. Edward Jacob Forster of Boston, medical director First Brigade, M. V. M., is hereby appointed surgeon general, with the rank of brigadier general, in place of Brig. Gen. Herbert L. Burrell, retired.

(Signed)

FREDERIC T. GREENHALGE,
Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

III. Brig. Gen. Edward Jacob Forster of Boston, having been duly commissioned and qualified as surgeon general, is hereby assigned to duty, and will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, BOSTON, April 24, 1895.

In consideration of the report of the inspector's department and the evidence adduced at the recent hearing under orders by the judge advocate general, it appearing that Battery A, Light Artillery, Second Brigade, M. V. M., has, from lack of harmony and dissensions, fallen below the required standard of efficiency, let an order be issued disbanding said Battery A, and immediate measures caused to be taken for the recovery and care of the military property heretofore in charge of the disbanded battery.

In the hearing of the complaint of Capt. Dexter H. Follett against Lieut. William H. Ruddick, before the judge advocate general, Lieutenant Ruddick was found not guilty of the charges alleged, but guilty inferentially of writing a personal communication to the Adjutant General, in which an implied reflection upon his commanding officer appeared.

Approving the recommendation of the judge advocate general, no further action will be had in this case.

(Signed)

FREDERIC T. GREENHALGE,
Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

IV. Battery A, Light Artillery, Second Brigade, M. V. M., is hereby disbanded. Honorable discharges for officers and enlisted men will issue from this office.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, BOSTON, April 24, 1895.

The petition of W. D. Ewing of Boston and others for permission to form a company, with a view to its being attached to the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, is hereby granted.

(Signed)

FREDERIC T. GREENHALGE,
Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

V. Brig. Gen. Benjamin F. Peach, Jr., commanding Second Brigade, M. V. M., will make the necessary arrangements to organize the before-mentioned petitioners, and enlistments will be commenced on the date of this order.

The company when organized will be designated as Battery A, Light Artillery, M. V. M., and will be attached to the Second Brigade, and, as the direct successor of the battery disbanded by this order, will continue the service record of that organization.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

SAMUEL DALTON,
Adjutant General.

---

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, April 27, 1895.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 5.

I. The troops composing the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia will hold the annual encampments for the year 1895 as follows:—

First Brigade, Brig. Gen. Benjamin F. Bridges commanding, at the State camp ground, South Framingham, June 4 to 8 inclusive. Second Brigade, Brig. Gen. Benjamin F. Peach, Jr., commanding, at the State camp ground, South Framingham, July 23 to 27 inclusive. First Corps of Cadets, Lieut. Col. Thomas F. Edmands commanding, at Hingham, July 16 to 20 inclusive. Second Corps of Cadets at Essex, August 6 to 10 inclusive. Naval Brigade, Boston Harbor, July 29 to August 3 inclusive. The annual drill of the First Corps of Cadets will take place at Hingham, July 15. The annual drill of the Second Corps of Cadets will take place at Essex, on August 5.

Capt. Myles Standish, commanding the Ambulance Corps, will make two details of his command, with such officers as he may deem necessary, for duty with the First and Second Brigades at encampments.

Troops performing camp and annual drill duty the same week must forward separate muster rolls for such duty.

II. Troops of First and Second Brigades will perform camp duty in campaign uniform. Fatigue caps will be carried to camp; full dress uniforms will not.

III. Maj. Laurence N. Duchesney, commanding First Battalion Light Artillery, will be ordered by his brigade commander to leave his station the first day of camp, making a route march to camp, reporting to the brigade commander not later than five o'clock on the afternoon of June 5. Battery C will be dismissed from camp on the afternoon of June 7, and take up its march for its home station.

IV. The commanding officer of Troop F, Cavalry, will be ordered by the brigade commander to make a route march from its station on June 4, arriving in camp on same date and reporting to its brigade commander.

V. Maj. Horace G. Kemp, commanding First Battalion Cavalry, will be ordered by the brigade commander to make a route march from its station on Tuesday, July 23, reporting to the brigade commander on or before evening of same date.

VI. The commanding officer of Battery A, Second Brigade, M. V. M., will be ordered by the brigade commander to make a route march from its station on Tuesday, July 23, reporting to its brigade commander in camp before six p.m., same date.

VII. All troops en route to camp will provide themselves with the emergency ration.

All troops who make a bivouac before reaching camp will make requisition for proper outfit for officers and men and appliances for proper protection of horses.

VIII. Each infantry regiment in First and Second Brigades will be ordered away from camp for a march and bivouac, and they will be prepared for sudden orders and have a cooked and uncooked ration ready. Cooking utensils and wagons will be furnished by the quartermaster general.

The custom of using or storing mattresses or bedding in mess rooms by caterers will be discontinued.

IX. Muster and assignment rolls will be prepared and the muster of troops conducted as provided in Article XXIII., Regulations M.V.M. Blanks will be forwarded, respectively, to brigade, regimental, battalion and company commanders direct from this office, and paymasters will not forward rolls for pay until properly compared and found correct.

No officer or enlisted man will be returned for pay who does not perform at least three days of camp duty. Officers and men who perform duty only on the first and last days are of no benefit to the State.

Officers and enlisted men who report for duty after retreat will not be returned for pay.

No enlisted man will perform camp duty unless enlisted thirty days before the tour of duty, except in case of re-enlistments.

Commanding officers will see that all musters are properly conducted, and no man will be returned for pay unless the mustering officer personally sees him and musters him.

X. Brigade commanders are hereby ordered to assume control of the State camp ground (excepting the arsenal and buildings immediately adjoining) on the day prior to the encampment of their respective commands. They may assume control on the Saturday preceding camp, if they desire, but without pay. Proper detail will be made for guarding all property, and the provost guard will guard all buildings, hospitals and property the day preceding the camp, and infantry details will perform this duty during camp.

XI. Brigade commanders will detail a provost guard, and from each battalion, unattached company of cavalry and artillery the quartermaster and the quartermaster sergeant, for duty on the day preceding the encampments. Troops arriving in camp on the day preceding the date of encampment will be under orders of the brigade commanders, and enlisted men will not leave camp without a pass. Brigade commanders will also detail a staff officer to attend to embarking and disembarking troops at depots in Boston and South Framingham, on the first and fifth days at camp, who shall forward a detailed report of the same through channels to this office.

They will issue stringent orders relative to care of quarters and uniform arrangement of the same, and extra and useless baggage and boxes will not be allowed in quarters, and brigade orders will give the maximum of baggage to be allowed.

Wagons with baggage will not be sent over the road or by rail on Sunday, and such wagons will not be permitted to enter the field or remain thereon on that day.

All commissioned and non-commissioned officers are hereby instructed not to permit enlisted men to lie on the ground (except on drill). The habit of doing this must be discontinued; cleanliness of clothing demands it, and officers will strictly enforce this rule, and this paragraph of this order will be read to each company.

The judge advocate of each brigade is hereby ordered during the encampments to exercise jurisdiction under section 110, chapter 367 of the Acts of 1893.

All caterers' help and citizen employees will be provided with some badge or written pass to designate them and their employment, and will not be permitted to roam around the camp.

XII. Requisitions for quartermasters' supplies will not be received or filled in camp except in cases of special emergency, and the practice of delaying requisitions until arrival in camp will be discontinued.

XIII. Bills for transportation of all horses for headquarters approved by the commanding officer, with accompanying vouchers will be forwarded immediately upon the completion of duty, and will be paid through the paymaster. Vouchers must accompany each bill for horse transportation, but bills will not be forwarded for horses ridden to or from camp by officers; and where horses are delivered on the camp ground in lots the full allowance for transportation will not be asked for, but a reasonable amount for such transportation.

XIV. The veterinary surgeons of each brigade will thoroughly inspect all horses reported for duty, and they are authorized to reject horses unfit for service, and order that they shall not be returned for allowance on bills or pay rolls. If possible, they will inspect the horses for artillery and cavalry prior to their leaving their home posts. If it is necessary, in order to accomplish this, to have the duty performed the day before camp, the veterinary surgeons will perform this duty on those days, and be returned on pay rolls for extra duty.

XV. The horses of officers and enlisted men for which allowance is made will not be ridden by civilians under any consideration whatever, and all racing and over-driving is strictly prohibited.

XVI. Officers of the guard will, as soon as guard is mounted, take an inventory of all State property — uniforms, arms, equipments, etc. — which each enlisted man of his guard has ; and before dismissing his guard, on being relieved by the new guard, will see that every man has all property he reported ; and in case of loss will at once report it to the quartermaster general, and will make entry on guard book, of losses or no loss. Reports of loss of property on guard means inefficient guard officers. The guard quarters and the grounds around the same will be kept clean by the guard each day.

XVII. Brigade commanders will make such rules as to passes for citizens as they may deem best for the interests of the service, and are hereby authorized to designate visiting days, if in their judgment it is best.

Passes for enlisted men to leave camp will not be given except in urgent cases, and all enlisted men found outside of camp without authority will be arrested and at once court-martialed.

Returns of absentees, which must be properly filled out, with recommendations for action, — and none will be returned without such recommendations, — will be forwarded with pay rolls to the adjutant general. Captains of companies will see that no man is recommended for discharge who has not been properly notified of the tour of duty.

XVIII. All assistant inspectors general of the staff of the Commander-in-chief will report to the inspector general for duty on the first day of each brigade encampment at twelve o'clock noon.

XIX. For the purpose of assuring a proper and safe use of the rifle range at South Framingham during the annual encampments, it is ordered that no enlisted man be allowed to use the targets unless accompanied by an officer or a competent non-commissioned officer.

Regimental inspectors of rifle practice are ordered to be present on the range during the time their commands are using the targets.

They will see that the men attend to the duty in a soldierly manner, and will give instructions to recruits in matters pertaining to the use of the rifle, particular care being taken to instruct every man to keep the muzzle of the rifle depressed in loading.

Rifles will be loaded at the firing point only, and shells and cartridges must be removed before leaving the firing point. Any disobedience of this order must be reported.

Rifles must be inspected by the officer in charge of firing parties before leaving the range.

Brigade commanders will allot targets to the different organizations of their brigade, and the assistant inspector general of rifle practice of the brigade will report daily to his commanding officer any command failing to make full use of time or targets assigned to them.

They will report daily any accidental discharge of rifles ; and if any accident should result in injury to any person, they will make a record of the attending circumstances and report at once.

XX. Regimental matches will be shot in camp in accordance with Par. I., General Orders No. 2, c. s., A. G. O., which allows the option.

Commanding officers will at once notify their brigade commanders whether or not they are to shoot regimental matches in camp, and brigade commanders will notify in writing the Adjutant General, one week prior to camp, of the dates on which regimental matches will be shot in camp.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

SAMUEL DALTON,

Adjutant General.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, June 1, 1895.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 6.

I. Maj. Pharcellus D. Bridges, Second Regiment of Infantry, First Brigade, M. V. M., having rendered continuous service for a period of twenty years and upwards as a commissioned officer, is, upon his own application, retired under the provisions of section 54, chapter 367 of the Acts of the year 1893, with the rank of major, to date from May 20, 1895.

II. A school for medical officers will be held at the South Armory, Boston, on Thursday, June 20, 1895, at three o'clock P.M. Maj. William H. Devine, surgeon, Ninth Regiment of Infantry, will preside. Subject: "The duties of medical officers in emergency duty." The following named medical officers have been selected to read papers: Maj. David Clark, surgeon, Second Regiment Infantry; Maj. Otis H. Marion, surgeon, First Regiment Infantry; Maj. Benjamin R. Symonds, Jr., surgeon, Second Corps Cadets; Maj. Charles C. Foster, surgeon, Fifth Regiment Infantry; Lieut. Franklin G. Balch, assistant surgeon, Naval Brigade; Lieut. Robert Eddy Bell, Ambulance Corps, M. V. M.; Lieut. Charles W. Galloupe.

III. The surgeon general will make such arrangements as he may deem necessary to carry out the objects of the school.

IV. Company commanders, with the concurrence of the senior medical officer of the command, will designate four privates for instruction as litter bearers. They will be known as "company bearers," and shall be instructed under supervision of the senior medical officer at least one half hour daily while in camp, and such other times during the year as the commanding officer and the surgeon may deem advisable, in the duties of litter bearers and the methods of rendering first aid to the sick and wounded.

This special instruction will not relieve them from the performance of all their regular military duties. They will give first aid to the sick or wounded or carry them to the rear until relieved by members of the Ambulance Corps or a medical officer. When so relieved, they will immediately join their companies.

When on duty where their services may be required, they will wear as a distinguishing mark a red brassard around the left arm, just above the elbow.

Officers of the inspector general's department and medical inspectors at their regular inspections will specially examine the company bearers as to their efficiency in the litter bearers' drill and the methods of rendering first aid to the sick or wounded.

On requisition made to the surgeon general, senior medical officers of infantry organizations will be furnished with a sufficient number of litters and brassards.

Reports of tours of duty by medical officers will contain the name and company of all company bearers.

V. So much of paragraph 5, General Orders No. 5, c. s., from this office, as relates to the route march of the First Battalion of Cavalry, M. V. M., is hereby amended and the date changed to Monday, July 22, the day preceding the encampment of the Second Brigade, when the march will be taken in connection with the duty of annual drill.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

SAMUEL DALTON;

Adjutant General.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, June 21, 1895.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 7.

I. The following named, having rendered continuous service for a period of twenty years and upwards as commissioned officers, are upon their own application retired under the provisions of section 54, chapter 367 of the Acts of the year 1893 : —

Lieut. Col. JOHN W. HART, Second Corps Cadets, as Colonel, June 13, 1895.

Col. CHARLES L. DODGE, Eighth Regiment Infantry, as colonel, June 15, 1895.

II. Until otherwise ordered, the company officers in the second Corps Cadets will consist of one captain and one first lieutenant to each company. This order will not be construed as affecting second lieutenants now in commission; but on the discharge of such for any cause no further elections of the grade will be held in that command.

III. The following enactment of the Legislature is published for the information of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia : —

[CHAPTER 465.]

AN ACT TO INCREASE THE EFFICIENCY OF THE MILITIA.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows :

SECTION 1. No person, except the judge advocate general and four aides-de-camp, shall be eligible to appointment on the staff of the commander-in-chief unless he has served at least three years in the volunteer militia of this Commonwealth, or unless he has been honorably discharged or retired from the military or naval service of the United States.

SECT. 2. The allowance to the adjutant general for such additional clerks and other assistants as may be necessary to conduct the business of his department, and of the quartermaster's and ordnance bureau, as provided in section thirteen of chapter three hundred and sixty-seven of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and ninety-three, shall be increased from six thousand dollars to six thousand three hundred dollars a year.

SECT. 3. The relative rank of commissioned officers of the same grade and date of commission shall only be determined by lot as provided in section thirty-three of chapter three hundred and sixty-seven of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and ninety-three, where there has been no previous military service. Such previous service shall count, as in the army or navy of the United States, and in the volunteer militia or enrolled militia of this Commonwealth only, and in the order herein named.

SECT. 4. The commander-in-chief may, at any time, retire any commissioned officer who shall have been by him ordered before a medical board consisting of at least three commissioned medical officers, or a retiring board consisting of at least three commissioned officers, and upon whom such a board shall have made report showing such officer to be physically or otherwise unable to properly perform the duties of his office.

SECT. 5. Armories provided for the militia under the provisions of chapter three hundred and eighty-four of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and eighty-eight shall not be used except by the active militia of this Commonwealth, and they shall not be loaned or let to any one except for a proper military purpose, and then only when the application is approved by the commander-in-chief and intermediate commanders.

SECT. 6. No body of men whatsoever, other than the regularly organized corps of militia, the troops of the United States and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, shall maintain an armory or associate themselves together at any time as a company or organization, for drill or parade with firearms, in any city or town of this Commonwealth; nor shall any city or town raise or appropriate any money toward arming, equipping, uniforming or in any way supporting, sustaining or providing drill rooms or armories for any such body of men: provided, that associations wholly composed of soldiers honorably discharged from the service of the United States may parade in public with arms, upon the reception of any regiments or companies of soldiers returning from said service, and for the purpose of escort duty at the burial of deceased soldiers, having first obtained the written permission so to do of the mayor and aldermen of the cities or selectmen of the towns in which they desire to parade; and provided, further, that students in educational institutions where military science is a prescribed part of the course of instruction may, with the consent of the governor, drill and parade with firearms in public, under the superintendence of their teachers. This section shall not be construed to prevent any organization heretofore authorized thereto by law from parading with sidearms, or to prevent any veteran association comprised wholly of past members of the militia of this Commonwealth from maintaining an armory for the use of the organizations of the said militia from which the said veteran association originated.

SECT. 7. Whoever violates the provisions of the preceding section, or belongs to or parades with any such unauthorized body of men with firearms, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars or by imprisonment in the house of correction or common jail for a term not exceeding six months, or both.

SECT. 8. The commander of an ambulance corps shall receive an allowance of fifty dollars per annum for the care of and responsibility for military property of the Commonwealth in his charge, in lieu of the allowance heretofore provided in section one hundred and twenty-eight of chapter three hundred and sixty-seven of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and ninety-three.

SECT. 9. So much of chapter three hundred and sixty-seven of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and ninety-three as is inconsistent herewith is hereby repealed. [Approved June 4, 1895.]

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

SAMUEL DALTON,

Adjutant General.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, July 6, 1895.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 8.

I. The following is published for the information of the Militia: —

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON, April 12, 1895.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 22.

By direction of the Secretary of War, the undress coat and the undress cap for all officers, except chaplains, and the undress cap for all enlisted men, are adopted according to the following general descriptions, and patterns in the office of the Quartermaster General: —

Undress Coat.

A single-breasted sack coat of dark-blue cloth or serge, with standing collar fastened with hook and eye; coat to close with a flap containing suitable concealed fastenings, the skirt to extend from one-third to two-thirds the distance from the hip-joint to the bend of the knee, according to height of wearer; cut to fit the figure easily; a vertical opening at each side of hip according to pattern; shoulder straps and collar insignia to be worn. The coat to be trimmed with lustrous black mohair flat braid as follows: edged all around the bottom, the front edges, the collar, and for six inches upward from the bottom along both side openings to the skirt, with braid  $1\frac{1}{4}$  inches wide. This coat will be worn when full dress is not required. During the warm season post commanders may authorize this coat made of white duck or flannel, to be worn with white braid but without shoulder straps or collar insignia.

On undress duty a plain leather belt will be worn under the undress coat, the sword hook emerging through the opening of the coat on the left side. For field service, or when the pistol is carried, the belt will be worn outside the undress coat when so directed by the commanding officer.

The insignia for officers' undress coats will be as follows: —

For all officers, the letters U. S., Gothic design, of suitable height, each followed by a period, embroidered in gold or made of gold or gilt metal, fastened to each side of the collar, 1 inch from its edge and mid-way of its height.

For all officers of the staff corps and departments, their distinctive insignia, without wreath, 1 inch high, embroidered in gold or made of gold or gilt metal, fastened to each side of the collar, about  $\frac{5}{8}$  inch from the letters U. S.

For all officers of the line, the recent forage cap ornament, 1 inch high, embroidered in gold or made of gold or gilt metal, fastened to each side of the collar, about  $\frac{5}{8}$  inch from the letters U. S.

Undress Cap.

Of dark-blue cloth, the diameter at the top slightly less than at the base, the height  $3\frac{1}{4}$  inches all around; the seam around the top without a welt, and neatly stitched on each side. The band  $1\frac{1}{2}$  inches wide, with welts projecting  $\frac{1}{8}$  inch at the top and bottom, the bottom welt  $\frac{1}{8}$  inch above the base of the cap. The visor of black patent leather, bound with the same, and molded to shape, green underneath, rounded and sloping downward from the horizontal. A rigid stiffening all around to extend from the base of the cap to within 1 inch of the top, and a hair-cloth stiffening throughout the remainder of the sides and top; four black metal eyelets for ventilation, two on each side, placed above the band; a cap cord of gold bullion  $\frac{1}{8}$  of an inch in diameter, for the officer's cap, and a chin strap, like the one now in use, for the enlisted men's caps, secured at both ends by small regulation buttons, one on each side, immediately back of the ends of the visor. For general officers, a band of black velvet, and for all other officers, except chaplains, a band of lustrous black mohair braid filling the space between the welts. The cap badge for officers and enlisted men placed in front so that the top of the badge will be slightly below the top of the cap.

The cap badge for all officers will be the coat of arms of the United States, embroidered in gold, modified according to pattern.

So much of this order as refers to the undress coat and cap for officers shall take effect on July 1, 1895, and that portion of it that relates to the undress cap for enlisted men on the 1st of January, 1896.

By command of Lieutenant General Schofield.

GEO. D. RUGGLES,
Adjutant General.

II. The new undress coat and forage cap for officers, recently adopted by the United States Government, is hereby adopted for the use of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, with the following modification: the letters U. S. will be omitted from the collar of the undress coat. The officers of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia will provide themselves with the new undress coat on or before Jan. 1, 1896, but will not provide themselves with the new cap until hereafter ordered.

III. The veterinary surgeons of each brigade will thoroughly inspect all horses reported for duty, and they are hereby authorized to reject horses unfit for service, and order that they shall not be returned for allowance on bills or pay rolls. All horses which, in the opinion of the veterinary surgeons, are fitted for the duty required of them, shall be tagged around the neck with the tags furnished by the medical department, and which will not be removed. A record of the owner shall be made against the tag number, and no horse shall be returned for allowance on bills or pay rolls that is not so tagged and recorded. The veterinary surgeons will inspect all horses prior to their entering the company or headquarter stables. If it is necessary, in order to accomplish this, to have that duty performed the day before camp, the veterinary surgeons will perform this duty on those days, and be returned on pay rolls for extra duty. The veterinary inspection must be completed on Tuesday.

Lieutenant Osgood, First Brigade, will assist Lieutenant Peters in the inspection of the horses of the Second Brigade.

IV. The following-named enlisted men of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, having absented themselves from camp duty of their commands for the current year, without leave or proper excuse, are hereby discharged for the best interests of the service, for neglect of duty : —

Ambulance Corps. — Private Elgin J. Bill.

First Regiment Infantry. — Privates Harry Donnelly, August Rapp, Company A ; Privates Herbert N. Brownell, William H. Craig, William G. Wood, Company E ; Private Charles E. Hanson, Company K.

Second Regiment Infantry. — Private Harry N. Caldwell, Company A ; Private Wilbur F. Boswell, Company C ; Private Arthur Schiller, Company F ; Private John E. Cummings, Company I.

Sixth Regiment Infantry. — Private George E. Leavitt, Company C ; Privates Patrick Brennan, Alexander Cameron, Company D ; Corporal Richard E. Place, Privates Charles H. Dana, Charles C. Green, Company G ; Private Peter D. H. Hood, Company I ; Privates Lewis R. Joy, William E. Kemp, Fred E. Walker, Company M.

First Battalion Light Artillery. — Privates Edward E. Hammond, Paul V. McHale, Battery B ; Privates John F. Gallagher, Charles R. Seed, Battery C.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

SAMUEL DALTON,

Adjutant General.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, Aug. 10, 1895.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 9.

I. The State Rifle Competition called for by General Order No. 2, current series, will be shot at the range of the Massachusetts Rifle Association, Walnut Hill, Woburn, on Monday, September 2, subject to such modifications as have been found necessary or expedient, as herein stated.

The competition will be in charge of Col. George F. Hall, Inspector General of Rifle Practice, who will act as executive officer, arrange details and be responsible for their proper execution.

All communications in regard to this competition should be addressed to him.

The following officers are detailed as assistant executive officers and are assigned to the following targets : —

Major Thomas F. Cordis, A. I. G. R. P., First Brigade Staff, to targets No. 1, 2, 3 and 4, at the 200-yard range.

Capt. Francis H. Appleton, First Corps Cadets, to targets No. 5, 6, 7 and 8, at 200 yards.

Capt. Philip Little, Second Brigade Staff, to targets No. 9, 10, 11 and 12, at 200 yards.

Lieut. E. Pelham Dodd, Naval Brigade, to targets No. 1 and 2, at 500 yards.

Major George H. Benyon, Fifth Regiment Infantry, to targets No. 3, 4 and 5, at 500 yards.

Major Frank H. Briggs, First Brigade Staff, is detailed to take charge of the statistical department. Lieut. James A. Frye, First Regiment Infantry, Brigade Sergt. Major George H. Chase, First Brigade Staff, and Brigade Bugler, Second Brigade Staff, will report to him for duty on the range.

Lieut. Albert C. Warren, Fifth Regiment Infantry, with his Paymaster Sergeant, is detailed to act as mustering officer and will report to this office for instructions.

All officers and men detailed for this tour of duty will muster for pay before leaving the range.

Lieut. Commander Gardner W. Allen, Naval Brigade, is detailed to act as surgeon, and is authorized to detail a hospital steward.

Brigade and regimental inspectors of rifle practice are detailed for this tour of duty and will report to the Inspector General of Rifle Practice on the range.

II. Infantry Competition.

Conditions. — One score at 200 yards and one score at 500 yards. Ten shots to each score. No sighting shots. Time limit, one minute per shot. Minimum trigger pull, six pounds. Cleaning allowed between ranges only. Time limit will be registered at sound of bugle, when firing will begin.

One coach will be allowed to the 200-yard range and two coaches at the 500-yard range; also, a spotter if wanted. No others allowed inside the lines.

Teams will consist of fifteen shooters, two substitutes and a team captain. Inspectors of Rifle Practice will not be allowed to shoot on a team.

Members of teams must have performed at least one-half of the State duty of the present year.

Medals will be awarded for the fifteen highest aggregate scores made by competitors who are qualified sharpshooters and who have never won a medal in a State match.

Competitors making the fifteen highest scores in this match (without regard to class) will be mentioned in orders.

The tri-color will be the trophy for the winning team.

Any sharpshooter of organizations not entering teams in this competition who desires to enter for individual competition may make entry on or before August 24, subject to the approval of the Inspector General of Rifle Practice; but the number of such competitors shall not exceed fifteen. Inspectors of Rifle Practice are allowed to enter.

Entries of teams in this competition will be made to the Inspector General of Rifle Practice.

Any officer or man (except Inspectors of Rifle Practice) under detail or present on the range is eligible to fill a vacancy in the team of the organization to which he belongs.

Substitutes not competing are subject to the orders of the Inspector General of Rifle Practice.

III. Cavalry Competition, carbines only.

For teams of ten from each troop of cavalry in the State.

Conditions. — One score at 200 yards off-hand. Fifteen shots to a score. No sighting shots. No cleaning during the score. Time limit, one minute per shot. Minimum trigger pull, six pounds.

Teams will consist of ten shooters, two substitutes and one team captain. One coach allowed.

The trophy for the winning team will be a set of yellow ribbons to be carried on the troop guidon.

IV. The following are the assignments of targets at 200 yards : —

Target No. 1, Second Corps Cadets; target No. 2, First Corps Cadets; target No. 3, Naval Brigade; target No. 4, Sixth Regiment Infantry; target No. 5, Fifth Regiment Infantry; target No. 6, Second Regiment Infantry; target No. 7, Eighth Regiment Infantry; target No. 8, Ninth Regiment Infantry; target No. 9, First Regiment Infantry; target No. 10, First Battalion Cavalry; target No. 11, Troop F, Cavalry; target No. 12, individual entries.

The following are the assignments of targets at 500 yards : —

First Division. — Target No. 1, Second Corps Cadets; target No. 2, Naval Brigade; target No. 3, Sixth Regiment Infantry; target No. 4, Fifth Regiment Infantry; target No. 5, Second Regiment Infantry.

Second Division. — Target No. 1, Eighth Regiment Infantry; target No. 2, First Regiment Infantry; target No. 3, First Corps Cadets; target No. 4, Ninth Regiment Infantry; target No. 5, individual entries.

Each regimental, corps and battalion commander (including the First Battalion Artillery) will detail one commissioned and one non-commissioned officer to report to the Inspector General of Rifle Practice to act as supervisors and scorers at 200 yards, and they are assigned as follows: —

Detail from First Regiment Infantry to target No. 11, Troop F.

Detail from Second Regiment Infantry to target No. 8, Ninth Regiment Infantry.

Detail from Fifth Regiment Infantry to target No. 7, Eighth Regiment Infantry.

Detail from Sixth Regiment Infantry to target No. 2, First Corps Cadets.

Detail from Eighth Regiment Infantry to target No. 5, Fifth Regiment Infantry.

Detail from Ninth Regiment Infantry to target No. 10, First Battalion Cavalry.

Detail from First Corps Cadets to target No. 9, First Regiment Infantry.

Detail from Second Corps Cadets to target No. 6, Second Regiment Infantry.

Detail from Naval Brigade to target No. 4, Sixth Regiment Infantry.

Detail from First Battalion Cavalry to target No. 1, Second Corps Cadets.

Detail from Troop F to target No. 3, Naval Brigade.

Detail from First Battalion Artillery to target No. 12, individual entries.

The commanding officers of the First Regiment Infantry, Fifth Regiment Infantry, Sixth Regiment Infantry, Eighth Regiment Infantry, and the First Battalion Cavalry will detail an additional officer and also one non-commissioned officer to act as supervisors and scorers at 500 yards. They are assigned as follows: —

First Regiment detail to target No. 1.

Fifth Regiment detail to target No. 2.

Eighth Regiment detail to target No. 3.

Sixth Regiment detail to target No. 4.

First Battalion Cavalry to target No. 5.

All officers and non-commissioned officers detailed as supervisors and scorers will proceed to the targets assigned them immediately on arrival at the range.

Capt. John W. Weeks, Naval Brigade, will detail two officers and two non-commissioned officers for telephone service, who will report to the Inspector General of Rifle Practice on the train.

Lieut. Henry W. Sprague and four enlisted men of the Second Brigade Signal Corps are detailed to take charge of the pits at 200 yards.

Lieut. William N. Tolman and four enlisted men of the First Brigade Signal Corps are detailed to take charge of the pit at 500 yards.

Lieuts. Sprague and Tolman will report to the Inspector General of Rifle Practice for special instructions on or before August 30.

Captains of teams will apply to the statistical officer for score cards immediately on arrival at range.

The names of all officers and non-commissioned officers under special detail for this competition must be sent to the Inspector General of Rifle Practice on or before August 28.

Fatigue uniforms with fatigue caps will be worn on this tour of duty.

Train leaves Union Station (Boston & Maine Railroad) at 8.35 A.M., with special cars attached.

No other train for Walnut Hill before twelve o'clock.

Rules will be strictly enforced, and violation of any rule or any act of carelessness will debar the offender.

The interpretation of rules and the right to debar a competitor rest with the Inspector General of Rifle Practice, subject to protest.

Should a member of a team be debarred, a substitute may take his place, but the score made by the competitor debarred will be thrown out.

Any team or competitor aggrieved by a decision of the executive officer may enter a protest with him, and he will forward it to the Adjutant General.

Notice of protest must be given before leaving the range, and the protest must be made in writing within twenty-four hours of the time of closing the match.

Decisions will be rendered in accordance with Blunt's Small-arms Firing Regulations.

Pay at the rate of $2.00 per day for privates, $2.50 per day for non-commissioned officers, and $3.00 per day for officers, together with transportations, will be allowed.

Brigade and cadet corps commanders are charged with the promulgation of this order.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

SAMUEL DALTON,
Adjutant General.

V. The Sixth Regiment Infantry, by virtue of its team making the best score in the State general competition, is entitled to carry the tri-color on its colors for the year 1896.

VI. Troop F, Cavalry, by virtue of its team making the best score in the cavalry competition with carbines, is entitled to carry the yellow ribbons on its guidon for the year 1896.

VII. Col. Thomas R. Mathews, commanding First Regiment of Infantry, M. V. M., will, after Jan. 1, 1896, turn over to the commanding officer of the Sixth Regiment of Infantry the tri-color awarded to that regiment in paragraph 5.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

SAMUEL DALTON,

Adjutant General.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, Dec. 17, 1895.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 13.

I. The reports of the hearing before the Judge Advocate General under S. O. 28, C. S., on the charges against Lieut. Frank B. Parsons, Company "D," Naval Brigade, M. V. M., and of the Court of Inquiry under S. O. 87, C. S., of which Lieut. Col. J. H. Whitney, 5th Infantry, is President, to inquire into certain charges against Capt. Anthony D. Mitten, Company "M," 9th Infantry, having been submitted to His Excellency the Governor and Commander-in-chief, for his action, his orders thereon are as follows :—

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, BOSTON, Dec. 16, 1895.

After a full and impartial hearing before the Judge Advocate General on the charges preferred by Capt. John W. Weeks, Chief of the Naval Brigade, M. V. M., against Lieut. Frank B. Parsons of Company "D" of his command, and upon consideration of the report submitted by the Judge Advocate General, I find evidence perhaps sufficient to sustain a finding of guilty on certain minor technical charges, but the good of the service would not be promoted by discharging Lieut. Parsons on such grounds. No further proceedings are considered necessary, as suspension from command hitherto is deemed a sufficient punishment.

This decision is based solely on the military offences alleged, as no investigation of the civil charges against him was had. Let Lieut. Parsons be restored to his command.

The Court of Inquiry instituted under Special Orders No. 87, dated July 16, 1895, of which Lieut. Col. Jophanus H. Whitney, Fifth Regiment of Infantry, is President, and Captain Francis R. Bangs, Second Brigade, M. V. M., is Judge Advocate, having submitted the report of its investigation of the charges preferred by Col. F. B. Bogan, Ninth Regiment of Infantry, M. V. M., in the case of Captain Anthony D. Mitten, of Company "M" of his command, in which prima facie evidence is found sufficient to warrant a trial by court martial and which the Court recommends: therefore, let a court martial be instituted for the trial of Captain Mitten on the charges preferred against him.

FREDERIC T. GREENHALGE,

Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

II. Further proceedings against Lieut. Frank B. Parsons, Company "D," Naval Brigade, are hereby abandoned and the said Lieut. Parsons restored to command.

III. A General Court Martial is hereby appointed to meet at the South Armory, Boston, on Thursday, Dec. 26, 1895, at 11 o'clock A.M., or as soon thereafter as practicable, for the trial of Capt. Anthony D. Mitten, Company "M," Ninth Regiment of Infantry, M. V. M., and such other persons as may be brought before it by authority from these headquarters.

Detail for the Court.

1. Lieut. Col. Charles L. Hovey, 1st Infantry, President.
2. Major Charles K. Darling, 6th Infantry.
3. Major L. N. Duchesney, 1st Battalion Artillery.
4. Capt. Wm. H. Goff, 5th Infantry.

5. Capt. Walter E. Lombard, 1st Infantry.

6. Capt. Francis R. Bangs, J. A., 2d Brigade, is appointed Judge Advocate.

No other officers than those named can be assembled without manifest injury to the service. The Court will sit without regard to hours.

Col. F. B. Bogan, Ninth Regiment of Infantry, will detail one private from his command to report to the President of the Court for duty as an orderly.

IV. The Court of Inquiry of which Lieut. Col. J. H. Whitney, Fifth Regiment of Infantry, is President, is hereby dissolved.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

SAMUEL DALTON,
Adjutant General.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, Feb. 9, 1895.

CIRCULAR.

A voluntary revolver competition, open to officers or non-commissioned officers of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia owning the United States army or navy regulation revolver, will be opened at the South Armory, Irvington Street, Boston, on Tuesday evening, March 12, 1895, at 7 o'clock, and continued on succeeding evenings until finished.

Shooting will be under the following rules and conditions : —

I. Fatigue uniforms will be worn.

II. Distance : 50 yards.

III. Target : regulation elliptical as used for rifle shooting at 200 yards.

IV. Scores : five of six shots each.

V. Time limit : one minute to each score and one minute for cleaning and loading.

VI. Position : standing, arm extended, elbow free from body.

VII. Trigger pull : minimum pull four pounds.

VIII. Three prize cups, first, second, third, suitably inscribed.

Competitors furnish their own ammunition.

Application must be made to the inspector general of rifle practice, 206 Federal Street, Boston, on or before March 5, who will have charge of the competition.

Should there be more entries than can be shot in one evening, assignments will be made by lot, and competitors notified of the evenings on which they are to shoot.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

SAMUEL DALTON,
Adjutant General.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
OFFICE OF INSPECTOR GENERAL OF RIFLE PRACTICE,
BOSTON, March 9, 1895.

CIRCULAR.

Published for information of the militia.

ASSIGNMENTS FOR RIFLE PRACTICE.

The following days are assigned the militia stationed in Boston for target practice at Walnut Hill during the season commencing June 10 and ending Oct. 31, 1895 : —

Monday. — Naval Brigade ; Company L, Sixth Regiment Infantry ; Company H, Fifth Regiment Infantry.

Tuesday. — First Regiment Infantry ; Company A, Fifth Regiment Infantry.

Thursday. — First Corps Cadets ; Commander-in-Chief and Staff ; First Brigade Staff ; Second Brigade Staff ; First Battalion Cavalry.

Friday. — Ninth Regiment Infantry.

Headquarters will shoot on days assigned to their organizations.

For the purpose of securing to each organization its proportion of the time allowed for the use of the range, the following table is given, showing the number of hours due each command : —

Commander-in-Chief and Staff,	. . . . .	50 hours.
First Brigade Staff, . . . . .	. . . . .	50 “
Second Brigade Staff, . . . . .	. . . . .	50 “
First Regiment Infantry, . . . . .	. . . . .	470 “
Fifth Regiment Infantry, . . . . .	. . . . .	190 “
Sixth Regiment Infantry, . . . . .	. . . . .	70 “
Ninth Regiment Infantry, . . . . .	. . . . .	540 “
First Corps Cadets, . . . . .	. . . . .	330 “
Naval Brigade, . . . . .	. . . . .	330 “
First Battalion Cavalry, . . . . .	. . . . .	190 “

Each organization using targets will keep a record of the date and number of hours.

Any member of the above-mentioned organizations may shoot on a day not assigned to his command whenever such use of targets does not interfere with the shooting of the organization assigned to that day (and with the permission of the officer in command) ; but each command is expected to use the day allotted to it as far as possible.

The Inspector of Rifle Practice of the Naval Brigade, the First Regiment of Infantry, the First Corps Cadets, the First Battalion of Cavalry and the Ninth Regiment of Infantry will each have general supervision of shooting on days assigned to his command, and will act as executive and range officer.

On days when the Inspector of Rifle Practice is not on the range the senior officer present of the organization assigned to those days will be in charge.

Each detachment must be in charge of an officer or competent non-commissioned officer, who will report to the range keeper on arrival at the range.

No shooting on assignments on legal holidays. The rules of the Massachusetts Rifle Association in regard to the use of the range and those which govern shooting must be strictly observed, and officers are expected to make themselves familiar with all such rules.

No intoxicating liquors allowed on the grounds.

Executive officers are expected to preserve order and discipline, and to report any serious violation of rules to the Inspector General of Rifle Practice.

“ Firing parties should always be in charge of officers or non-commissioned officers, who are reminded of the great responsibility which they assume, and the necessity of exercising extreme caution in order to prevent accidents.

“Rifles should be loaded at the firing point only, and should be inspected before leaving the range.

“The ammunition of the company should be in trustworthy hands.” General Orders, No. 2, C. S.

Reasonable transportation will be furnished on application of the Inspector of Rifle Practice of each organization to the Inspector General of Rifle Practice.

If needed, extra ammunition can be purchased of the range keeper.

By communicating with the range keeper (Mr. W. T. Kendall, Woburn, Mass.), special arrangements for lunches, barges or the use of targets can be made.

It is expected that shooting will be in uniform, and that all officers will set this example.

It is hoped that company commanders will avail themselves of the use of the targets early in the season, as this department reserves the right to discontinue the use of the range before the close of the target season.

The following are the Inspectors of Rifle Practice of the different organizations embraced in this circular: Lieut. Robert Ball Edes, Fifth Regiment Infantry. Lieut. John Breen, Ninth Regiment Infantry. Lieut. William A. Hayes, 2d, First Corps Cadets. Lieut. Henry N. Sweet, Naval Brigade. Lieut. James W. Jones, Sixth Regiment Infantry. Lieut. Horace D. Litchfield, First Battalion Cavalry. Lieut. John B. Paine, First Regiment Infantry.

SPECIAL TARGET ASSIGNMENTS.

Special arrangements having been made by which a limited number of targets (Nos. 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12) at Walnut Hill can be used by the militia stationed in Boston on Saturday afternoons, commencing March 30, assignments will be made (for these targets only) subject to the rules and regulations of the Massachusetts Rifle Association, and also the following conditions:—

a. Each squad must be accompanied by an officer or competent non-commissioned officer, who will be held strictly accountable for the conduct of his men, and for the observance of the rules and regulations mentioned above.

b. Disorderly conduct of any nature is forbidden, and soldiers (not members of the Massachusetts Rifle Association) must refrain from use of space or targets not assigned them, and must not handle or meddle with the property of the members.

c. Shooting will be done in fatigue uniform.

d. No intoxicating liquors are allowed on the range, and any use of them will be sufficient grounds to debar a soldier from further use of the targets, and every offence of this nature must be reported to the Inspector General of Rifle Practice.

e. The number of soldiers (not members of the Association) allowed in the shooting house under these special arrangements is limited to thirty-five, and the senior officer present will so arrange that no more than that number be present in the building at any one time; but it is not necessary that the squads be equally divided, according to the number of targets.

f. Under these special arrangements it must be understood by all officers and men that they are subject to the direction and control of the officers of the Massachusetts Rifle Association while on the range, and must promptly obey their orders; and if aggrieved by any ruling or decision must submit at the time, but may report the matter to the Inspector General of Rifle Practice in writing.

g. If a good amount of interest is shown, it is expected that the arrangements now made can be extended throughout the entire season; but such extension depends on the conduct of the soldiers using the range, as Saturday is the regular shooting day of the Association, and the regular members are always present, who will not tolerate any noisy or disorderly conduct or any interference with their shooting.

h. Assignments will be made from the office of the Inspector General of Rifle Practice direct to the company commanders, and each commander will make such arrangements as will ensure a good use of the time allotted to his command, as a charge is made for opening these targets, whether they are used or not.

The Inspectors of Rifle Practice of the different organizations will also be notified of the days and targets assigned to their commands.

i. No targets will be assigned to any headquarters on Saturdays, as these arrangements are made to accommodate the enlisted men, who have great difficulty in obtaining leave of absence from work on other days of the week without loss of pay or jeopardizing their positions by neglect of business.

j. In case a company should need a target for qualification practice on a Saturday not assigned them, a request can be made for the same to this department, and a target will be assigned on Saturday forenoon (if nothing prevents). Such request must be made in writing not less than one week before the date wished for, but use of targets under such assignments must not extend beyond 12.30 P.M.

k. It is hoped that company commanders will make use of the full time allowed them, as this department reserves the right to discontinue the use of the range before the close of the target season.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

GEO. F. HALL,

Colonel and Inspector General of Rifle Practice.

Approved:

SAMUEL DALTON,

Adjutant General.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, July 10, 1895.

CIRCULAR.

The following papers, read before the school for officers, presided over by Maj. William H. Devine, surgeon Ninth Regiment Infantry, M. V. M., at the South Armory, Boston, June 20, 1895, are published to the militia: —

DUTY OF THE SURGEON, BEFORE LEAVING THE ARMORY, ON EMERGENCY CALLS.

By CHARLES W. GALLOUPE, formerly First Lieutenant and Assistant Surgeon, Battery A, Light Artillery, M. V. M.

-These considerations will apply more particularly to the duties of the surgeon of a horse battery, if suddenly called into active service for street-riot duty or for a cross-country ride. Assuming that the rations are already on hand or have been properly arranged for by the commissary, the surgeon will make as careful an inspection as feasible, to assure himself that they are right in quantity and quality, and that the haversacks, canteens and other receptacles are clean and serviceable. He will then overhaul his medical supplies and increase the quantity of certain articles or eliminate superfluous ones, in accordance with his ideas of the exigencies of this particular tour of duty. It is desirable to reduce the bulk of surgical apparatus as much as possible for convenience in transporting and storing, and for this reason it is not desirable to carry an assortment of special splints. In fact, on any tour of duty I had rather have a bundle of a dozen flat splint boards, three inches wide and two feet long, with a half-dozen pieces of sheet wadding, than a box full of moulded splints. Add to this outfit two long ham splints and two tin internal angulars for the elbow, with a roll of adhesive bandage, and I would guarantee to put up any fracture satisfactorily. A multitude of apparatus is a nuisance to a skilled surgeon and a snare in the hands of the ignorant. If you make your own splint, you will fit it to the limb ; if you have a scanty supply of special splints, you will contrive somehow to fit the limb to one of the splints on hand. In camp, where ample time is to be had for preparation and sufficient room for storage, a complete set of special splints is a convenience and a luxury, but for an emergency kit I should prefer the plain splint board.

The surgeon should then take time to make a thorough inspection of the men, not forgetting to have in his hand a small pocket note-book. This inspection has three distinct objects in view : first, to see if the men are in efficient working order ; second, to protect the State against possible future damage claims for personal injury, by noting any existing disability ; third, to protect the surgeon against hostile criticism on the score of negligence or incompetence.

A muzzle-loading field-piece is equivalent to a well-equipped gymnasium, in its ability to call into action every part of the human body. Let the surgeon look out particularly for lame backs, sprained joints, sore fingers, inflamed eyes and other temporary defects, which the soldier in his enthusiasm might omit to mention. Rule the man out at once if he be not thoroughly competent for all the duties of driver and cannoneer, as there are no "soft snaps" on emergency duties for pay-drawing loafers. If defects exist that are not actually disabling, note them fully in the pocket note-book, as to degree, duration, cause, predisposition, and also as to whether the ailment is on the increase or on the wane. This serves two good purposes : it protects the surgeon, by proving him to be a man of foresight, accurate in observing and recording facts ; and it protects the State, by giving reliable data that may cause the saving of thousands of dollars on future claims for personal injuries. Criticise the men's underclothing and boots, and see that they are seasonable, remembering that night patrol duty is very chilling, while warm clothing and woollen gloves keep up the animal heat and the good spirits of the men.

The injuries most to be anticipated in field artillery service are wounds and bruises from jamming in limbering the piece and from the kicks of the horses ; while sprains and fractures may be caused from the rearing and plunging of the horses and by falls from the boxes. In any case the surgeon had better have a plentiful supply of antiseptic dressings and lotions, with bandages and splint material.

If there is time before leaving the armory, let the surgeon look over the horses, if the veterinary be not in attendance, noting if any are vicious or unruly, and if so, let experienced drivers be placed on them, as "preventive surgery" is quite as important as preventive medicine.

In short, my advice would be, “inspect everything, and make record of everything that is not up to the proper standard of efficiency.” You will then do justice to the State that employs you, to the men who trust you and to yourself.

DUTIES OF A MEDICAL OFFICER ON BREAKING CAMP.

By Lieut. FRANKLIN G. BALCH, Assistant Surgeon Naval Brigade.

These may be divided into three heads: (1) the care of the sick and wounded men under his charge; (2) the care of his equipment, and the selection of such portion of it as is to go with the wounded; (3) the proper disinfection of sink holes, privy vaults, garbage, infected bedding, etc.

Under the first head the question arises whether the wounded are to be taken with the command, or left behind under the charge of an assistant surgeon. This is a question which expediency would have to settle. If to be left behind, a proper medical officer must be detailed to stay in charge, and the necessary assistants. Food must be obtained from the quartermaster sufficient to last until the surgeon can again get his men within the reach of the base of supplies. If the wounded men are to be taken with the command, transportation must be provided, the conveyance depending on the nature of the ground to be traversed. On islands, very rough country or boats, litters should be provided and carried by men detailed for bearers. In some places horse litters might be used. In a country where there were roads the ambulances could be used. When possible, provision should be made for the disposition of the wounded and sick at the end of the journey before the start is made, so that there shall be no delay at the end of a tedious trip, waiting for ambulances or arrangements to be made for their reception.

The question of food for sick and wounded is one which should be most carefully arranged. The surgeon should estimate the amount, and decide upon the kind of food needed for the men under his charge. Ordinary food should be obtained from the quartermaster, but beef extracts, etc., should come from the medical supplies. A sufficient supply of bandages, dressing and medicine to be used on the journey should be kept out of the main medical supplies, so that they may be readily available.

The medicines and general medical supplies should be carefully packed together with all the medical equipment which will not be needed on the trip. Transportation will be arranged for by the quartermaster.

As to the disposition of what is left behind, if retreating from an enemy, little care need be paid to anything likely to annoy him, and privy vaults, sink holes, etc., may be left to the enemy's discretion. If, however, there is no such haste, everything should be left in the best possible sanitary condition. If the privies have stood over running water, or where the tide ebbs and flows, there will be nothing to be done; but if they have stood over holes in the earth, the surface of the excreta should be covered thickly with chloride of lime, and the holes filled in if the camp ground is not to be soon used again. Garbage may be burned or buried. Any infected bedding, old dressings, etc., should be burned.

Such, in a general way, are the duties of the surgeon on breaking camp. I might go into greater detail, with the exercise of a little more imagination; but the object of this meeting to-day is, I take it, simply to outline the duties of surgeons under certain conditions, and tell definitely to whom application should be made for those services and articles for which the medical department is not directly responsible.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

SAMUEL DALTON,

Adjutant General.
